Prosecutor Smietanka Ponders Impact On Criminal Justice System

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Plea-bargaining, the controversial practice of reducing a criminal charge to a lesser offense in return for a guilty plea, may come to an end in Berrien county.

Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka said during an interview that he is currently studying the feasibility of entirely doing away with plea-bargaining, and indicated its demise may come by early summer.

"I would definitely like to eliminate it," said Smietanka, noting: "I'd like to put it into effect early this summer if possible."

The purpose of plea-bargaining, principally, has been to do away with the time and expense of court trials in criminal cases.

The prosecutor added that if plea-bargaining is eliminated, he would like to have it done away with "across the board."

He said he has already started talking to representatives of the criminal justice system, the courts, police, bar association, county government, and citizens to "try to determine if the complete abolition (of plea-bargaining) is possible and how to go about it."

Smietanka said the prime reason he want to get rid of plea-bargaining is because of his belief that the public is losing faith in the criminal justice system.

"People don't believe the system's working," the prosecutor stated. "The community has to respect the criminal justice system and feel it's doing what it's supposed to."

Smietanka feels a complete loss of faith in the system by the public could result, eventually, in a return to vigilante and prairie justice.

"The criminal justice system has got to fulfill two goals—and if it fails either, it must be modified," the prosecutor noted. He said the first goal is that the system must assure justice in the vast majority of cases, and the second is tgive the appearance to the community that justice is being done.

"The criminal justice system is fulfilling the goal in the first case," he continued, "but the second isn't." To assure that the system fulfills the second goal, we've got to try and eliminate one of the biggest weaknesses apparent to the public." This, Smietanka feels, is plea-bargaining.

Plea-bargaining, as the public sees it and as is often the case, means an individual commits a crime, but is punished for "something less than he actually did," Smietanka stated.

Others have suggested the practice of plea-bargaining also has resulted in some persons—under the stress and threat of prosecution—pleading guilty to reduced charges, when in fact they were innocent of any charge. Another complaint heard against the practice is that it may cause police officers to place initial charges greater than warranted, knowing that plea-bargaining likely will reduce the ultimate charge.

But plea-bargaining is not all bad, the prosecutor noted. He pointed out that it "gives a flexibility to the law" in interpreting statutes which don't provide for treating some special cases, such as youthful offenders or first time offenders. It also enables the prosecutor's office to make a deal to obtain testimony in other cases.

He also noted that his office must lodge a charge against a suspect within 24 hours of his arrest, and usually the only information to rely upon in that short time is the police report. Smietanka explained a suspect might be arrested for armed robbery, and that charge is placed against the man.

But further investigation, after the 24 hours, might reveal it was actually an unarmed robbery. So the charge is reduced. Many interpret that as a plea-bargain, Smietanka said, which is not really the case.

A plea-bargain is a negotiation between a defense attorney and the prosecutor or a member of his staff, in which the defense attorney attempts to get the prosecutor to drop the original charge and let his client plead guilty to a lesser charge.

The basic reasons for indulging in plea-bargaining, Smietanka said, are the vast number of criminal cases, meaning there is not enough time or manpower to take every one to trial, and the avoidance of trial

Maurice Stans Pleads Guilty!

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans pleaded guilty today to five misdemeanor counts of violating campaign laws while he was chairman of Richard M. Nixon's 1972 re-election finance committee. He was the third member of Nixon's Cabinet to plead guilty or be convicted of criminal offenses in the post-Watergate era. Although he pleaded guilty, Stans said his violations of the campaign laws were unintentional.

"In each of these transactions I made a good faith judgment at the time that the Finance Committee was complying with the law, but it now turns out that was not the case," Stans said in a prepared statement outside the courtroom. Stans could be sentenced to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count but that is considered unlikely. U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith asked for a presentencing report and did not set a date for sentencing.

Tighten Inheritance Tax Law

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill which would tighten the state's 19th Century inheritance tax law and generate about $18 million a year in revenue has been approved by a House committee. The House Taxation Committee reported the measure out Tuesday, sending it to the floor for debate. The bill would make life insurance payments in excess of $60,000 taxable. Currently all such payments are exempt. Joint property now exempt would be taxed, but a surviving spouse would be exempt from $30,000 in joint property, in addition to a general exemption of $30,000. The committee added a $250,000 exemption for farms.

Rising Conviction Rate Worries Prisons Chief

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan prisons face potentially explosive conditions if courts keep committing convicted felons at the present rate, the director of the state Corrections Department said Tuesday.

"We know that we will reach a crisis state quickly unless commitments slow in the very near future," Perry Johnson said in a statement issued by his office. He recommended "increased but responsible" use of probation by judges to ease the pressure.

He said prison overcrowding could result in "dehumanizing and dangerous situations."

There were 7,902 inmates in Michigan's 21 penal institutions in September, 1974. But the count jumped to 8,742 by February, 1975, Johnson explained.

In 1974, commitments ranged from 382 to 538 a month but last January hit an all-time high for that month with 570 commitments, he said.

Prison commitments rose from 4,124 in 1973 to 5,172 in 1974, up 24 per cent.

Soon the department will have to put some prisoners in areas now reserved for the mentally and physically ill or inmates suffering from behavior problems, Johnson said.

"When this happens, we will lose our flexibility to house and treat inmates. The security of our prisons will be in jeopardy," he said.

The cautious increased use of probation rather than prison has its problems, but may be a key solution to prison overcrowding, Johnson said.

"Probation caseloads already are extremely high in most counties. In some case, I'm sure the judges are faced with either sentencing an individual to prison or turning him free without any supervision," he added.

"Because of this problem and the imminent housing crisis, we are trying to hire additional probation officers with special federal funds.

"We also are looking down the road toward long-term probation enrichment through two special demonstration projects in eight counties that should give judges greater options in sentencing," he said.

The three-year test programs involve Berrien, Calhoun, Genesee, Saginaw, St. Clair, Kent, and Oakland counties and part of Wayne county.

"Even if we somehow got the money tomorrow for several new prisons and were able to begin construction next week, we still couldn't get them built fast enough to meet the housing requirement of the increasing number of commmitments," he said.

It costs about $40,000 per bed to construct new facilities at today's prices and $5,000 per inmate in annual operating costs, he said.

Assassination Policy Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA has no "policy of assassination," according to assurances reportedly received by President Ford.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen made the statement Tuesday in response to questions from newsmen about reports that the CIA engaged in assassination plots against foreign political leaders, including Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Dying Mother Hopes She'll Find New Parents For Her Children

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Linda Hardy, a terminal cancer patient whose last wish is to find a good home for her three children, was interviewing candidates from her hospital bed. "I'm not looking for much," 32-year-old Mrs. Hardy said Tuesday. "I definitely want a Catholic family, someone living who would keep the kids together, but I don't care whether they're rich or not."

Mrs. Hardy, who was confined Saturday for an operation this week, said her choice will rest on "what I feel in my heart and what I feel is best for my children." But the children — Sheri, 12, Joey, 10, and Amber, 6 — will get the final say-so, she added.

"I've read that sometimes kids blame their parents for dying. I hope my kids don't think I ran out on them," said Mrs. Hardy. Mrs. Hardy said her husband deserted the family five years ago and that she hasn't heard from him since. She has supported the family on $209 a month in welfare payments and money she occasionally receives from her father, a 57-year-old truck driver.

Mrs. Hardy learned she had cancer two years ago when she discovered a lump in her breast. She has undergone several operations since then. William Bradway, her doctor, said he anticipated operating again Thursday.

"With breast cancer you can buy time," he said. "Hopefully, we can buy her a few more months with operations, then we'll go to drugs to keep her alive a while longer." Mrs. Hardy said she filed for a divorce about a week ago to gain custody of the children so she can assign a guardian for them.

"I have about five weeks to go until the divorce is final," she said. "I hope I can last that long and everything can be taken care of." Meanwhile, Mrs. Hardy said she has named her brother, an Air Force staff sergeant in Wichita, Kan., as guardian in her will. She said her brother has three children of his own, one of whom has cerebral palsy.

Speed Penalty Bill Hits Snag

LANSING, Mich. (AP) -- A bill assessing one penalty point for exceeding the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit was hastily shuttled back to committee Tuesday just hours after the panel approved it.

The measure, which makes permanent the 55 m.p.h maximum speed limit, will be considered further next week, according to Sen. Arthur Cartwright, D-Detroit, chairman of the Senate Highway and Transportation Committee.

Cartwright said the members 'reconsidered" their earlier action and pointed out there had been little discussion on the point provisions and "other matters." Senate Democratic leader William Fitzgerald said only that he thought more discussion was believed needed.

Although no one admitted applying or receiving pressure on the points issue — one of the most controversial items before lawmakers this year — retraction of the bill apparently resulted from Senate leaders displeasure over the matter.

Fitzgerald, Cartwright and Senate Republican leader Robert Davis engaged in an intense, finger-wagging discussion in a Senate anteroom, at one point slamming the chamber door shut.

Davis, who sponsored the "compromise" effort to put in one point, said he was trying to find out the exact status of the bill. He expressed displeasure at its recall.

Gov. William Milliken, meanwhile, promptly — and prematurely — issued a press release praising the committee's action as "a step in the right direction."

Milliken has supported normal penalty points for exceeding the 55 m.p.h limit — two points for up to 10 m.p.h. over, three points for 11-15 m.p.h over, and four points for more than 15 m.p.h over the limit.

The amendment the committee approved would have assessed a single point for speeders exceeding 55 m.p.h. but traveling less than the old speed limit on the road — either 65 on highways or 70 on freeways. Above the old limit, the normal point system would apply, as it does now.

The House rejected attempts to apply the normal point system, arguing that the speed limit was lowered over a federal mandate to save fuel, not lives.

Since the limit was lowered about a year ago, drivers have not incurred penalties for exceeding 55 m.p.h. until they also exceeded the former limit on a specific road.

The Senate committee's compromise — now highly in jeopardy — was endorsed by the State Police. Milliken said it shows the state is "serious about reducing speed and about reducing the hazardous disparity of speeds on our highways and freeways."

Why Not A Field Day?-- It Isn't Their Money

Federal planners have been having a field day with the nation's transportation systems. Whether on land, sea or air, they have been coming up with some bizarre concepts of the conveyances people will be traveling in a decade or two hence.

Ships supported on cushions of air and capable of fantastic speeds across the tops of oceans, supersonic air transports capable of carrying 750 passengers or more, overhead monorail systems for congested urban areas, high speed rail superhighways connecting large cities, and nuclear-propelled vehicles of all types — these are some of the dreams of the planners.

If cost were no object, all of these — and more — would be feasible. But transportation operates on an economic system like any other industry, and unfortunately the planners are seldom restrained by economic limitations. An example: The nuclear-powered vessel NS Savannah, touted as the cargo ship of the future, was put in mothballs because she failed to prove herself economically on a number of ill-fated voyages.

The Concorde, the British-French version of the SST, has proven it can fly — and lose oceans of money in the process. Making something work seems to be the only goal among transportation planners. Hang the expense. It isn't their money, anyway.

Southeast Asia's Morass

Despite the repeated assertions by many Washington commentators that the White House in recent years has become landlocked from the public it is supposed to serve, we find it hard to believe that it is a one-way street in the exchange of ideas as those worthies would have their readers believe.

Certainly it can be assumed President Ford realizes the latest public opinion poll shows a 3-1 viewpoint against further aid to Cambodia, including the $300 million in emergency ammunition rations he is trying to wangle from a hostile Congress.

This being so, why, then, does Ford persist asking Congress in his words to support "the integrity of our alliances."

The answer almost has to be that he feels the American public is as confused as ever over southeast Asia, perhaps not so much so as the Washington leadership which put Uncle Sam into that murky situation, but holding ambivalent opinions nonetheless. If this hunch be correct Ford has to be convinced the hour has not yet passed for the confusion to be explained away.

For this exercise not to be futile, both to him and the American public, Ford might review how four Presidencies, five if one includes Eisenhower's first limited move to Saigon, have been mired in varying degree by what the French once held as a colony.

John Foster Dulles, Ike's Secretary of State, coined the domino theory. He likened Communist aggression against one country as a stepping stone to a neighborng state. If the first collapsed, then the next would surely follow in the same manner of flicking a finger at one domino in the pile.

Dulles drew upon the analogy from the experience in Europe when Hitler first re-militarized the Rhineland, next annexed Austria and then dismembered Czechoslovakia. His spiritual partner, Mussolini, followed suit by absorbing Abyssinia and the two of them joined hands to help Franco take over Spain.

Had the Free World of the 1930s acted promptly rather than sitting on its hands, Hitler himself confessed to his diary he would have been a lost cause.

The parallel drawn by Dulles overlooked one critical fact.

The European peoples brutalized by Hitler had traditions and backgrounds similar to those countries who could have stopped the Nazi onrush and would have responded had that help been given.

Dulles assumed or else led sufficiently influential people to think the same mental spirit prevailed in Southeast Asia.

The fact was something else then and 20 years later the evidence strongly suggests the underlying condition has not changed.

The $300 million arms shipment to Cambodia is not a great gamble considering the assistance given by Russia and Red China to its native Communist insurgents. It could even buy some time for the Cambodians to patch up an armistice between themselves.

It should not be extended, however, with any idea similar to what Woodrow Wilson called for in demanding U.S. entry into World War I.

Difficult To Understand

Airline pilots have become important cogs in the transportation wheel. Their influence is strong not only because of the important role they play as individuals, but because of the militancy with which they have managed to organize several protests.

The latest of these occurred last November when the 32,000-member U.S. Airline Pilots Association objected strongly to carry hazardous freight on passenger planes. The officers of ALPA acted after numerous reports of problems with such cargoes, including an explosion on board a cargo jet in Boston which apparently was caused by leaking chemicals.

Fearful of threats by the pilots that they would refuse to fly passenger planes carying hazardous cargoes, most American airlines were quick to accept the pilot's demands on this issue. The question now has moved to the International Federation of Airline Pilots conference in Vienna.

The pilots have presented a good position for their basic argument. Before the issue reaches a point of confrontation, however, a better understanding of what is involved needs to be made. ALPA contends that 90 per cent of passenger flights contain dangerous cargoes, but the Federal Aviation Agency — the government agency most directly involved — says only 5.5 per cent of passenger flights include material which could be considered hazardous.

It is difficult to understand how individual surveys by the two could be so far apart. Materials which are inherently dangerous or carry the potential for causing trouble in flight ought not be that difficult to detect.

Fire this morning periled "auto row" on West Main street in Benton Harbor and caused an estimated $25,000 loss to the building and agency occupied by G.A. Bowne, local Cadillac and Hudson-Essex dealer. Before the firemen could get into action the flames, fed by gasoline and oil, had practically gutted the interior and roof of the one-story brick structure housing the agency. Sixteen second-hand and used cars that stood in the garage part of the building were more or less destroyed by the flames. Five new cars with a value of $12,000 that stood in the front show-room section of the building were pulled out before the flames touched them.

The large corner lot fronting on Lake boulevard and Pleasant street, St. Joseph, not many years ago occupied by an open air cafe where excursionists were wont to gather and consume vast quantities of hot dogs, coffee, ice cream and candy at the megaphoned percussion of "Bill" Murphy, in a few months will be graced by one of St. Joseph's finest buildings — the new Twin City Y.W.C.A. Business men of the twin cities are wondering to-day whether they are victims of a joke, or of a cigar "ad," or of some novelty. Several citizens of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph received by this morning's mail a very peculiar postal card, postmarked Chicago, Ill.

The cards were addressed to various business men and to the county officers in this manner: "Mr. James Brown, Chiwilgo, Berrien county, Mich." On the other side of the cards is printed the following: From Wibbleton to Wabbleton; From Chicago to Chiwilgo is two and sixty miles; From Chiwilgo to Chicago is two and sixty miles; From Chicago to Chiwilgo, from Chiwilgo to Chicago; from Chicago to Chiwilgo is two and sixty miles. Chiwilgo." An effort is being made to find out where the cards came from and many persons are wondering how the mail clerk knew where to send them. It is suggested that "Chiwilgo" is an advertisement. At any rate the new name is the cause of considerable merriment. The name is probably the result of the consolidation proposition of the twin cities.

Leaders Partying As Nation Sinks

WASHINGTON — Regardless of what is happening in the rest of the country, evidence in Washington is that all the really important people are planning to continue prosperity. Theirs, anyway, and often at the back-breaking expense of Mr. and Mrs. America.

The truth is particularly evident after dark. Luxurious nightlife here, is, as ever, popular among our leaders. Factories sit idle, millions are jobless, human gloom is perilously close to chaotic but the capital's social whirl seems unaffected by economic trends. The parties go on, the state dinners continue, the grand balls are still held — and the rich and fortunate, the women dressed in Oscar de la Renta frocks, and all of them snacking on stuffed partridge, are carefree and gay into the wee a.m.

Nowhere is the excess more disturbing, perhaps, than the White House. Even in good times the functions there are thought by some as superfluous. Now they are drawing increasing criticism. Letters to newsmen and to the president, are questioning the propriety of sumptuous state fetes while millions of private citizens dine on budgets.

To be sure, the White House parties are spectacles. Rep. Dan Flood (D-Pa.) showed up at one recently with a top hat and black cape, and he was underdressed. A reporter estimated the wife of a banker at a January party was wearing $12,000 worth of attire and accessories. About 120 people usually attend the big ones. Harps play, marine combos do, too and waiters in formal attire walk about. Entertainers are free but the other bills, as if you didn't know, are borne by the public.

And what bills. Nobody knows precisely how much is spent on anything in the White House, the figures being too widely distributed through the books of many federal agencies, but the total operating allowance for the Executive may be as much as $90 million annually. Ford employs between 1,500 and 2,000 people to care for his affairs. The 15 gardeners who tend the White House flowers, to illustrate, are paid with the combined tax obligations of as many as 200 average American workers.

As for the parties, expenses can only be imagined. Including food, salaries, extra protection, etc., they run into five figures. For what? For Kirk Douglas. For oil company presidents. For bankers and generals — and often for political impressions. Most assuredly, the guests are taken in. Actress Jayne Meadows wept at one White House affair because, sitting in the splendor among the diamond fingers and gold throats, she said she was just ever so happy "to be in America."

Jerry Ford, of course, did not invent the White House party. The tradition has been around since George Washington. George, as it happened, once held a cabinet level meeting to determine proper state dinner etiquette. Jefferson held them only reluctantly, saying all that needed celebrating in America was the Fourth of July. But Andy "By God" Jackson held functions that scandalized the town. Many of his guests, men in coonskin caps, had to be quietly removed when they passed out drunk.

The common folk stopped attending the parties when Martin Van Buren took office. He began the strategy, unchanged to this day, of carefully screening guests for their importance. Since then the affairs have embraced munificence and abandoned meaning. Calvin Coolidge was said to be so bored with the stuffy gatherings that he fell asleep regularly. When a guest primly asked Cal if he'd ever participated in sports in his youth, he replied, yawning: "Yes I did, I held the stakes."

No One Is Irreplaceable

WASHINGTON — Political power stays with the office and does not follow an individual who once may have occupied it.

That is why no person in government can be indispensable, even if named Henry. And why that old cry, "The king is dead, long live the king," is more practical and realistic than coldblooded.

Nowwhere today is there a better example of the continuity of power and the transitory nature of individuals than in the House of Representatives.

The single most important member of the House on the crucial questions of taxation, Social Security, welfare and general economic survival has been for the past two months one Albert Conrad Ullman of Oregon. He has, insofar as can be determined, worked steadily and smoothly and intelligently toward a sensible solution.

Procedural reforms have eroded some of the power the chairman of Ways and Means used to have. But Ullman has nevertheless functioned well and won the respect of his colleagues.

Yet Ullman is the same man who had little to say publicly for nine terms, who was described by friends as "cautious" and by detractors as "slow," and who seemed to have small input into committee deliberations.

He sat for more than a decade in the total shadow of Wilbur Mills, who was regarded as "The King of the House" and its number-one legislator. Mills permitted no subcommittees, no challenge and little compromise. He was the dominant House voice on taxation problems' indeed, it was widely assumed no other Congressman had much knowledge on the subject.

When Mills stepped down as Ways and Means chairman, however, the Republic did not fall. Ullman promptly began behaving like a chairman, and seems well on his way to orchestrating an acceptable economic program.

This is a useful reminder that whatever the evils of the Congressional seniority system, it is still capable of coughing up out of its long and dark pipeline people of ability and patience who need only their chance in the sun. A little infusion of power can do wonders with the obscure personality.

Ullman, of course, is only beginning to build a record and his ultimate power and philosophy can be but dimly perceived. No one has yet been heard to say, however, that they miss the way Mills ran things.

The same phenomenon was visible in the House last year as Peter Rodino presided over the Judiciary committee's impeachment hearings. Rodino had only succeeded to the chairmanship the year before, after an obscure career of no particular distinction except longevity.

Rodino proceeded to run a difficult and historically sensitive hearing in which he was conspicuously fair, knowledgeable and efficient. He made no major mistakes, despite pressures from the President and from hot-headed liberals. He helped to accomplish the retirement of a President in a manner of which the entire country can be proud.

The House reforms in the selection of chairmanships has greatly weakened the old inflexible seniority system and made it more likely that future chairmen will be selected on the basis of talent rather than simple line of succession. Fortunately, however, the old system seems to have worked in spite of itself in the case of Al Ullman.

Federal planners have been having a field day with the nation's transportation systems. Whether on land, sea or air, they have been coming up with some bizarre concepts of the conveyances people will be traveling in a decade or two hence.

Ships supported on cushions of air and capable of fantastic speeds across the tops of oceans, supersonic air transports capable of carrying 750 passengers or more, overhead monorail systems for congested urban areas, high speed rail superhighways connecting large cities, and nuclear-propelled vehicles of all types — these are some of the dreams of the planners.

If cost were no object, all of these — and more — would be feasible. But transportation operates on an economic system like any other industry, and unfortunately the planners are seldom restrained by economic limitations. An example: The nuclear-powered vessel NS Savannah, touted as the cargo ship of the future, was put in mothballs because she failed to prove herself economically on a number of ill-fated voyages.

The Concorde, the British-French version of the SST, has proven it can fly — and lose oceans of money in the process. Making something work seems to be the only goal among transportation planners. Hang the expense. It isn't their money, anyway.

Southeast Asia's Morass

Despite the repeated assertions by many Washington commentators that the White House in recent years has become landlocked from the public it is supposed to serve, we find it hard to believe that it is a one-way street in the exchange of ideas as those worthies would have their readers believe.

Certainly it can be assumed President Ford realizes the latest public opinion poll shows a 3-1 viewpoint against further aid to Cambodia, including the $300 million in emergency ammunition rations he is trying to wangle from a hostile Congress.

This being so, why, then, does Ford persist asking Congress in his words to support "the integrity of our alliances."

The answer almost has to be that he feels the American public is as confused as ever over southeast Asia, perhaps not so much so as the Washington leadership which put Uncle Sam into that murky situation, but holding ambivalent opinions nonetheless. If this hunch be correct Ford has to be convinced the hour has not yet passed for the confusion to be explained away.

For this exercise not to be futile, both to him and the American public, Ford might review how four Presidencies, five if one includes Eisenhower's first limited move to Saigon, have been mired in varying degree by what the French once held as a colony.

John Foster Dulles, Ike's Secretary of State, coined the domino theory. He likened Communist aggression against one country as a stepping stone to a neighborng state. If the first collapsed, then the next would surely follow in the same manner of flicking a finger at one domino in the pile.

Dulles drew upon the analogy from the experience in Europe when Hitler first re-militarized the Rhineland, next annexed Austria and then dismembered Czechoslovakia. His spiritual partner, Mussolini, followed suit by absorbing Abyssinia and the two of them joined hands to help Franco take over Spain.

Had the Free World of the 1930s acted promptly rather than sitting on its hands, Hitler himself confessed to his diary he would have been a lost cause.

The parallel drawn by Dulles overlooked one critical fact.

The European peoples brutalized by Hitler had traditions and backgrounds similar to those countries who could have stopped the Nazi onrush and would have responded had that help been given.

Dulles assumed or else led sufficiently influential people to think the same mental spirit prevailed in Southeast Asia.

The fact was something else then and 20 years later the evidence strongly suggests the underlying condition has not changed.

The $300 million arms shipment to Cambodia is not a great gamble considering the assistance given by Russia and Red China to its native Communist insurgents. It could even buy some time for the Cambodians to patch up an armistice between themselves.

It should not be extended, however, with any idea similar to what Woodrow Wilson called for in demanding U.S. entry into World War I.

Oldest BH Store Is Sold

By STEVE SAGER

Kritt's Grocery, 440 East Main street, was sold recently after being part of the Kritt family for more than 50 years.

With white apron still clinging to his neck, Jacob Kritt, former co-owner with his brother, Benny, said, "Yes, we've sold it."

He continued, "Benny is about to retire and the store is just too much for one (me) to handle."

The store has been sold to Robert Morrison, Granger, Ind., and to Robert Manuzak, Edwardsburg. Bill Yakel will manage the store.

Kritt's grocery originated in 1921 when William Kritt and his wife, Bessie, bought a store at 376 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, their son, Jacob, explained.

The store was owned by Billy Scherer, pioneer Benton Harbor businessman, before being bought by the Kritts. After two years at the Territorial location, he bought a building on East Main street vacated by the Micon Mattress factory, remodeled it, and moved his business to its present location.

After William Kritt's death in 1927 Benny left his studies at Western Michigan university to "temporarily" help his mother manage the family business.

Benny, a football star during his days at Benton Harbor high school, stayed on to make a career of the retail food business.

Jacob joined the store after his graduation from high school in 1931. The business weathered the depression successfully, and continued to thrive during the next 10 years.

During this period the two Kritt brothers organized and managed an independent baseball team, the "Kritt Grocers", which became well known throughout Michiana.

In January 1942, immediately after U.S. entry into World War II, Jake enlisted in the army and the family decided to close the store for the duration of the war.

Jake was awarded five Bronze Stars and a Purple Heart after extensive combat duty with a mechanized cavalry reconnaissance unit.

The family then reopened the store in late 1945 when he returned to civilian life. Mrs. Bessie Kritt continued to take an active role in the management of the business until shortly before her death in March, 1950.

When asked to recall some of the memories he had during his years with the store, Jacob Kritt broke away momentarily from the hustle and bustle in the old fashioned, wooden floor store and said:

"I think one of the things I remember most was the introduction of packaged, sliced bread."

He added, "Each time they came up with something like sliced bread or packaged cookies I'd think, 'What next?'"

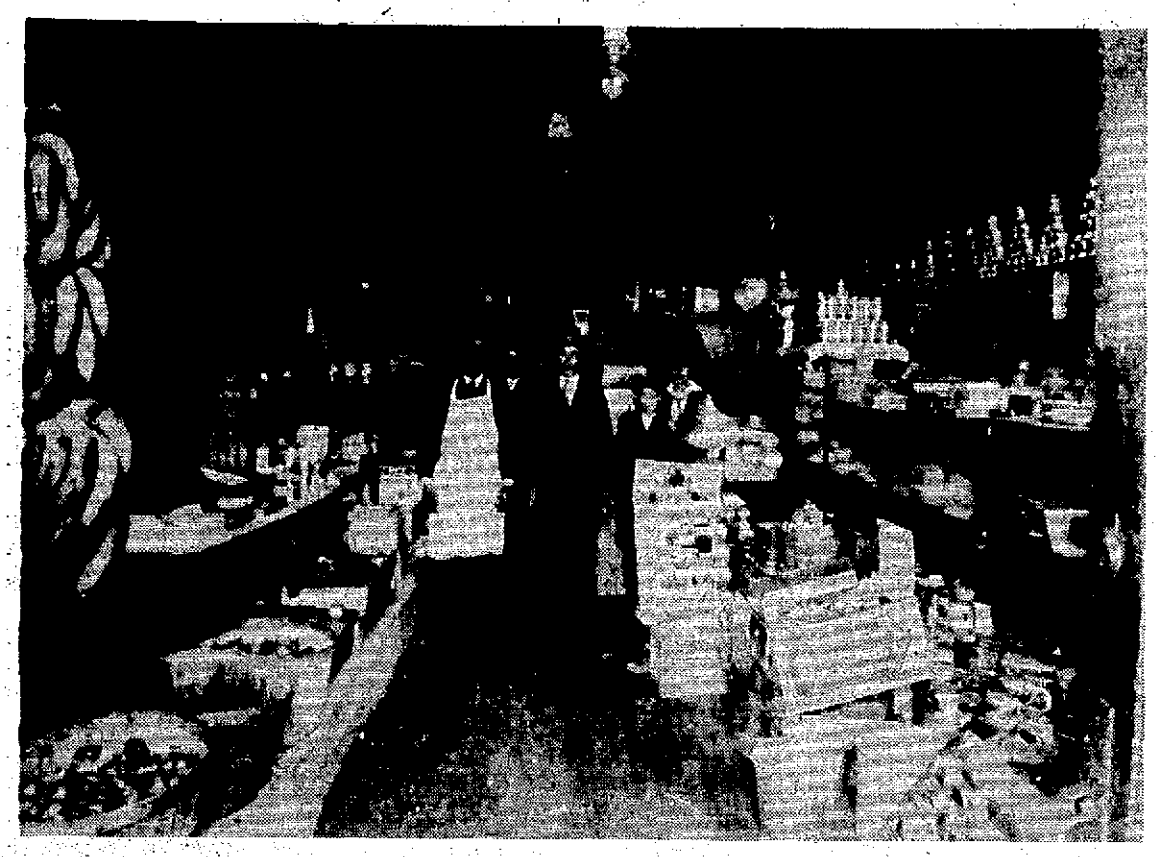
For Benny Kritt reflecting on the past brings back memories of a changing community and neighbors that have long since gone.

But for Bill Yakel Kritt's is not an end, but just a beginning. This is the first store he has had the chance to run. Before managing the store he had been employed at local supermarkets as a meat cutter for over 13 years.

Yakel said he has plans for expansion for the store and has already began by rejuvenating the meat department.

But what about the name?

Yakel replied, "Yes, we're even changing that to the Main Street market."



IN THE BEGINNING: This was first Kritt store at 376 Territorial road during early 20's. With apron on is William Kritt, who started family in grocery business. Total 1974 Tonnage Dips At Twin Cities Harbor

Fewer ships and less tonnage moved into the Twin Cities harbor during 1974, but salt, limestone and cement cargos exceeded tonnages hauled in 1973.

An over-all decline of 13.5 per cent largely reflects a move last year by Cities Service Oil Co. to discontinue its tank facilities on Terminal Island, St. Joseph.

Petroleum brought in by Cities Service has declined annually since 1972, as the firm expanded its tank farm at Niles. The final year, 1974, recorded 6 shipments, totaling 14,501 tons. Petroleum tonnage was 71,250 tons in 1972, and 26,510 in 1973.

Harbormaster R.C. Primley issued an annual report for 1974, showing 54 cargos hauling 375,644 tons of varied materials. The total was 58,539, or 13.5 per cent less than the 434,194 tons shipped during 1973. Sixty cargos were reported that year.

Commercial fishing continued a decline last year, when two boats brought in a total of 46 tons of fish, compared to 117 tons in 1973. Local commercial fishermen are Mollhagan Fisheries and Schultz Fisheries. Each reported bringing in 23 tons.

Consumer Asphalt Co. reported eight cargos of limestone totaling 92,337 tons; Huron Portland Cement Co., 22 shipments of cement, 92,802 tons; Horan Redi-Mix Co., six shipments of aggregate, 58,885 tons, and three shipments of salt, 42,130 tons; and Ireland & Lester Co., six shipments of aggregate, 75,000 tons.

Comparable figures for 1973 were:

Consumer Asphalt Co., eight cargos of limestone, 87,430 tons; Huron Cement, 22 shipments, 75,822 tons; Horan Redi-Mix, ten shipments of aggregate, 108,459 tons, and two shipments of salt, 22,973 tons; Ireland & Lester, eight shipments of aggregate, 73,000 tons.

The report was released by Joseph E. Carver, chairman of the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor Port commission, which operates the Twin Cities harbor. Ted Vernasco is commission secretary. City Managers Gerald W. Heppler, St. Joseph, and Charles A. Morrison, Benton Harbor, serve as ex-officio members.

Benton Harbor 'Arson Sleuth' Is Now On Job

CAPT. JOHN BILLUPS
Arson sleuth

Gaddie said Capt. John Billups, city fire marshal, recently completed an advanced course at Wayne State university on detecting and investigating arson.

Billups was "already quite skilled as an investigator, and now has the advanced training to make him an expert," said Gaddie.

Billups noted there are about two arson investigations in Benton Harbor each month. He said some of the fires are started by children playing with matches but others are set to collect insurance.

"Better investigation can be a deterrent to arson," Billups explained. "If you can detect arson, even without a conviction, it will take the profit out."

He noted arson often is difficult to detect because fire can consume all evidence.

A member of the Benton Harbor department 18 years, Billups received a scholarship to attend the 40-hour week-long course at Wayne State. The course was sponsored by Wayne State's Criminal Justice Institute, and scholarships were awarded by insurance companies throughout the state.

'Free' Prompts Increase In Benton Trash Pickups

Benton township trash pickups have increased 20 per cent since the township began offering the service for free, according to township Clerk Catheryn Sirk.

The township began free trash pickups in November under an $80,000 grant from federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds.

The township will continue the free service, according to Mrs. Sirk, with new hours from 7:30 to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Sirk said the trash must be in plastic bags or 20 gallon drums. Cardboard or 55 gallon drums will not be accepted, she said, and brush must be bundled and not exceed three feet in length.

Residents can find out when trash will be picked up or arrange for pickups of large items by calling the township hall, Mrs. Sirk said.

Witnesses To Take Stand In Murder Trial

By JERRY KRIEGER
Staff Writer

The first of some 30 witnesses expected to testify at the murder trial of George Lacy, Jr., were to take the stand this morning in Berrien circuit court.

Virtually the entire opening day of the trial was spent in impaneling a jury of seven men and seven women Tuesday in the court of Judge Julian Hughes.

Lacy, 22, of 324 Whitcomb court, Benton Harbor, a part-time cab driver and a laundry worker, is charged with killing John Govatos, operator of the Oasis party store in Hagar township on Jan. 4.

In his opening statement late Tuesday, Prosecutor John Smietanka said he would present a web of completely circumstantial evidence that would show that Lacy fired three shots into the head of the store operator during commission of a robbery. The prosecutor also said testimony would show the murder was premeditated; that Mr. Govatos had testified against Lacy in an earlier criminal case and that Lacy had threatened Mr. Govatos.

The prosecutor indicated he anticipates putting 37 witnesses on the stand, and Defense Attorney James Ford said he has 15 proposed witnesses.

There were indications that the trial might run as many as six or eight days, rather than the four alloted to it on the court docket.

Kritt Brothers End Long Career

Oldest BH Store Is Sold

Kritt's Grocery, 440 East Main street, was sold recently after being part of the Kritt family for more than 50 years.

Famous Name

In New York, says researcher Sally Hopkins, there's famous St. Patrick's Cathedral. It opened in 1879 on Fifth avenue, replacing an earlier cathedral on Mott street. There's St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park, Calif., founded in 1898. The West Indies island of Trinidad has a St. Patrick county, which includes Erin Point.

And in Ireland itself, says Miss Hopkins, there's the mountain of Croagh Patrick in Mayo, where the patron - saint fasted in A.D. 441; also, St. Patrick's Purgatory on Station Island, Donegal — a place of pilgrimage since the Middle Ages; Downpatrick in County Down; and St. Patrick's Cathedral in Dublin, built in 1190. This is the national church of the Protestant Church of Ireland.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

Lenten Meditation

Today's Scripture; John 6:33-34

"The bread that God gives comes down from heaven and brings life to the world. They said to him, 'Sir, give us this bread now and always.' Jesus said to them, 'I am the bread of life.' " John 6:33-34

It's interesting that money in our time is talked of as "bread." Bread is basic. We can't even live without that which is basic.

What kind of bread is Jesus? He is the love in which God has loved us. "In this is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us . . ." I John 4:10.

In Him is the power that moves everything toward everything else. The power which is even able to move toward and not away from those who would crucify him. The power that does not reject even those who hate. That love is the most basic bread that there is!

When we receive His love, we have it for our response to Him so that we love Him by loving one another with His love (by giving the same bread we received).

We received this bread through His people, so it is His work in the world to give this bread to others.

Famous Name

In New York, says researcher Sally Hopkins, there's famous St. Patrick's Cathedral. It opened in 1879 on Fifth avenue, replacing an earlier cathedral on Mott street. There's St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park, Calif., founded in 1898. The West Indies island of Trinidad has a St. Patrick county, which includes Erin Point.

And in Ireland itself, says Miss Hopkins, there's the mountain of Croagh Patrick in Mayo, where the patron - saint fasted in A.D. 441; also, St. Patrick's Purgatory on Station Island, Donegal — a place of pilgrimage since the Middle Ages; Downpatrick in County Down; and St. Patrick's Cathedral in Dublin, built in 1190. This is the national church of the Protestant Church of Ireland.

Let Gaelic Leprechauns Invade Your Kitchen

Irish Cuisine Noted For Its Pleasing Simplicity

In the Emerald Isle, where oatmeal is charmingly called "stirabout," and clams are whimsically known as "cockles," the cuisine is noted for its pleasing simplicity.

Irish cooking is based on the imaginative use of fine native foods. Colcannon, for example, is one of their more famous dishes, made of a great mound of potatoes (mashed with onion) and cabbage. Pork, in almost any form, is another favorite.

Here's an interesting interpretation for a delicious Irish stew — but it's a stew that's baked in the oven as the Irish cooks prefer. This easy dish begins with convenient onion soup mix to make a rich, tasty base with the subtle flavor of onion. To it is added an appealing touch of cinnamon, nutmeg and brown sugar. This mixture is poured over layers of sliced potatoes, apple rings and pork chops. As the stew bakes, all the flavors meld together.

Although this is a hearty main dish, there will still be room for a luscious dessert and lots of tea, served strong and steaming as the Irish like it. For sure, it'll be a grand St. Patrick's Day dinner you'll have!

LUCK-OF-THE-IRISH STEW

1 envelope onion soup mix
¾ cup water
2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
4 cups thinly sliced potatoes (sprinkled with salt and pepper to taste)
4 medium apples, cored and cut into ½-inch thick rings
4 pork chops, ½-inch thick

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

In greased 2-quart baking dish, layer half the potatoes, apples, and onion soup mixture; add pork chops. Top with remaining apples, potatoes, and onion soup mixture.

Cover and bake 1½ hours, or until potatoes and chops are tender. Makes 4 servings.

A meal so tempting, it brings tears to Irish eyes, has been unveiled by some very wee folk.

Leprechauns have been generous enough to share one of their delicious Gaelic meat and potato recipes — along with an appropriate emerald green salad — with everyone, even those over two feet tall!

Saint Paddy's Casserole is a holiday perfect blend of traditional Irish fare. But "wee folk" don't waste time or energy. Convenient, little-work ingredients, like packaged scalloped potatoes, canned carrots and canned beef are used. Just stir it together, pop it in the oven and go chase a rainbow.

Emerald Salad is the sparkling compliment for the casserole. Lime gelatin combines with a package of sour cream sauce mix for a jewel of a side dish. Shredded cabbage and chopped green pepper add crunch. Mold it pretty the night before. (The leprechauns use a shamrock shaped mold but it tastes great no matter how you shape it!)

Hot rolls, ice cream and cookies, and coffee, tea or milk complete the Saint Patrick's Day menu.

This story may be hard to believe, but the recipes are no blarney — regardless of who created them! You may never see a leprechaun, but eating is believing!

SAINT PADDY'S CASSEROLE

1 package (5½-oz.) scalloped potatoes
2 tablespoons drained horseradish
1 can (1-lb.) corned beef, diced
1 can (1-lb.) sliced carrots, drained

Prepare scalloped potatoes in 2-quart casserole, except increase water to 2 2/3 cups. Stir in horseradish, corned beef, and carrots. Bake at 375 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes, until potatoes are tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

EMERALD SALAD

1 package (3-oz.) lime flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 package (1¼-oz.) sour cream sauce mix
¼ cup milk
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 cup shredded cabbage
½ cup chopped green pepper

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Combine contents of sauce mix envelope, milk, and mayonnaise; stir with a fork until smooth. Let stand 10 minutes; add to gelatin and stir until well blended. Chill until partially thickened. Stir in cabbage and pepper. Spoon into lightly oiled 4-cup mold. Chill until set. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Shamrock Cookies Brighten The Day

That's why, come St. Patrick's Day, it's fun to put green socks on little boys and tie a green ribbon in a little girl's hair. Perhaps there will even be a party in school, inspired by Erin.

For a special St. Patrick's Day treat, why not bake Shamrock Cookies — crisp, sweet delights that melt in your mouth? (Note to class mothers: send enough to school for the whole class to enjoy. They'll love you!)

The recipe which follows uses light molasses, which helps make the cookies easy to roll and cut, and improves their keeping quality. Lemon peel and mace (a spice similar to nutmeg) give the cookies a delicious taste and fragrance, and green frosting adds a final touch.

Follow the pattern shown to make the cookies. Here's a great way to make your own permanent pattern: trace the paper pattern onto flexible plastic — like the top of a margarine tub or a coffee or pet food can lid — and cut it out with kitchen scissors. The plastic cookie pattern which results can be washed, dried and kept in the kitchen drawer for future use too.

For the best results in making your edible shamrocks, mix up the dough for Shamrock Cookies a day in advance, and allow ample time for the cookies to cool before applying the festive green frosting. When the frosting is quite dry, the cookies may be piled on platters, separated by layers of waxed paper. (If you're carrying the cookies to school, use flat gift boxes and stack them no more than 2 layers deep.)

Shamrock Cookies are a very good way to insure that Irish eyes — as well as everyday American eyes are smiling. Erin Go Bragh!

SHAMROCK COOKIES

SHAMROCK COOKIES

4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mace
2/3 cup butter or margarine
1¼ cups sugar
¼ cup light molasses
2 eggs
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
Wearin' of the Green Frosting

In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar; add molasses. Add eggs and lemon peel, beating well. Gradually beat in flour. Divide dough into 2 parts; wrap each piece in foil and chill 4 hours or overnight.

On a well-floured board, roll out dough, one piece at a time, to ⅛-inch thickness. Trace shamrock pattern onto plastic top, and cut out to form pattern. Place on cookie dough. Cut around it with a sharp knife. Pull up one edge of pattern and lift off. Place cookies on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated hot oven. (400 degrees) for 6 to 8 minutes or until edges are delicately browned. Cool on racks. Makes about 5½ dozen.

To decorate, spread cookies with Wearin' of the Green Frosting.

WEARIN' OF THE GREEN FROSTING

2 egg whites
2 cups sifted confectioners, sugar
Green food coloring

In small bowl, with electric mixer, beat egg whites and sugar for 10 minutes or until very stiff and glossy. Tint the frosting with enough food coloring to make it a bright green. Frost cookies. (Keep frosting covered with a damp cloth to prevent a crust from forming.)

Use 'Green Theme' For St. Pat Party

Dinner parties and get-togethers with an Irish accent are always a big feature of St. Patrick's Day.

Give your table a "green theme" on March 17 — serving an avocado salad with peppers, olives and pickles along with the corned beef and cabbage.

Green candles should light the table. Paper napkins, table covers, cups, plates and centerpiece with a St. Pat's Day theme are all appropriate for the occasion.

Play recorded Irish music and ask each guest to wear something green, or hand out sprigs of shamrock to visitors on arrival.

MARKETING WITH MARYANN

Corn Beef Isn't Truly Irish

You don't have to be Irish to like corned beef — in fact, it's not truly an Irish dish at all and is served only now and then in Ireland.

Irish-Americans and almost all Americans of all nationalities are the real corned beef eaters, says Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Agent for the Kalamazoo district.

The term "corned" comes from the old English meaning for grains (of salt) which were embedded into beef to preserve it. Today's corned beef is made by pickling the beef in salt brine, mixed pickling spices and sugar, for 10-14 days or longer.

It's usually made from beef brisket, plate, round or rump and cost and tenderness depend on which cut is used. Corned beef from round and rump are more tender, more desirable and thusly more costly. Corned beef from brisket and plate are less tender and sell for 20-30 cents less per pound. These are the ones found most often.

Corned beef in today's market is not inexpensive to begin with, but when advertised as specials for St. Pat's day, prices are at their lowest of the year. Also, since it's boneless, cost per serving for the four servings per pound, classes corned beef as a thrifty buy.

You'll see both "points" and "flats" of corned beef offered too. "Flats" are leaner, more desirable and cost more than "points." Look to the label for kind and style as well as cut. If the cut is not mentioned, it's likely made from the brisket. Check labels too for flavor; some are plain, some mild-cured and/or garlic flavored. Choose the type, style, cut and flavor you like best.

Corning any of the cuts partially preserves the cuts and adds flavor, but since less tender cuts are used, corned beef requires long, slow cooking to make it tender. Most need to be removed from the film bag, rinsed, put into a kettle and covered completely with cold water. Bring to a boil, then lower to simmering temperature and simmer until tender (several hours). Do not boil; boiling toughens. Corned beef can also be covered with water and pressure cooked at 10 pounds pressure for 12-25 minutes per pound, depending on thickness.

A newer kind of corned beef now available is the pre-tendered, which can be cooked in about half the time. Clearly marked as "corned beef for oven roasting," it needs no liquid and no cover when roasted. Cost, of course, is higher for this added convenience.

Corned beef requires a special carving technique. Best results will occur if you begin at the narrow end and cut across the grain into one-eighth inch slices. The grain changes directions as carving progresses so turn the meat so cross-grain cutting can continue.

Serve corned beef with sour-cream-horseradish sauce, mustard sauce, relishes, chili-pickle sauces, pineapple raisin sauce or just simply "as is" with the traditional cabbage. There's plenty of cabbage available this year too, and though supplies are smaller than a year ago, prices are the same and quality is excellent. Cabbage will retain best flavor and excellent quality, along with more nutrients, when cut into small wedges and cooked quickly (15 minutes or less).

So whether you're Irish-American or any other nationality, choose corned beef and cabbage this week and save on the "green" while St. Pat and friends are wearing the green.

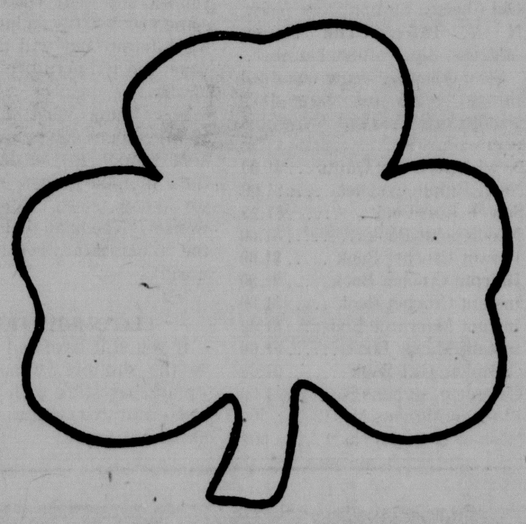
That's why, come St. Patrick,s Day, it's fun to put green socks on little boys and tie a green ribbon in a little girl's hair. Perhaps there will even be a party in school, inspired by Erin.

For a special St. Patrick's Day treat, why not bake Shamrock Cookies — crisp, sweet delights that melt in your mouth? (Note to class mothers: send enough to school for the whole class to enjoy. They'll love you!)

The recipe which follows uses light molasses, which helps make the cookies easy to roll and cut, and improves their keeping quality. Lemon peel and mace (a spice similar to nutmeg) give the cookies a delicious taste and fragrance, and green frosting adds a final touch.



Follow the pattern shown to make the cookies. Here's a great way to make your own permanent pattern: trace the paper pattern onto flexible plastic — like the top of a margarine tub or a coffee or pet food can lid — and cut it out with kitchen scissors. The plastic cookie pattern which results can be washed, dried and kept in the kitchen drawer for future use too.

For the best results in making your edible shamrocks, mix up the dough for Shamrock Cookies a day in advance, and allow ample time for the cookies to cool before applying the festive green frosting. When the frosting is quite dry, the cookies may be piled on platters, separated by layers of waxed paper. (If you're carrying the cookies to school, use flat gift boxes and stack them no more than 2 layers deep.)

Shamrock Cookies are a very good way to insure that Irish eyes — as well as everyday American eyes are smiling. Erin Go Bragh!

SHAMROCK COOKIES

SHAMROCK COOKIES

4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mace
2/3 cup butter or margarine
1¼ cups sugar
¼ cup light molasses
2 eggs
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
Wearin' of the Green Frosting

In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar; add molasses. Add eggs and lemon peel, beating well. Gradually beat in flour. Divide dough into 2 parts; wrap each piece in foil and chill 4 hours or overnight.

On a well-floured board, roll out dough, one piece at a time, to ⅛-inch thickness. Trace shamrock pattern onto plastic top, and cut out to form pattern. Place on cookie dough. Cut around it with a sharp knife. Pull up one edge of pattern and lift off. Place cookies on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees) for 6 to 8 minutes or until edges are delicately browned. Cool on racks. Makes about 5½ dozen.

To decorate, spread cookies with Wearin' of the Green Frosting.

WEARIN' OF THE GREEN FROSTING

2 egg whites
2 cups sifted confectioners, sugar
Green food coloring

In small bowl, with electric mixer, beat egg whites and sugar for 10 minutes or until very stiff and glossy. Tint the frosting with enough food coloring to make it a bright green. Frost cookies. (Keep frosting covered with a damp cloth to prevent a crust from forming.)

Use 'Green Theme' For St. Pat Party

Dinner parties and get-togethers with an Irish accent are always a big feature of St. Patrick's Day.

Give your table a "green theme" on March 17 — serving an avocado salad with peppers, olives and pickles along with the corned beef and cabbage.

Green candles should light the table. Paper napkins, table cover, cups, plates and centerpiece with a St. Pat's Day theme are all appropriate for the occasion.

Play recorded Irish music and ask each guest to wear something green, or hand out sprigs of shamrock to visitors on arrival.

MARKETING WITH MARYANN

Corn Beef Isn't Truly Irish

You don't have to be Irish to like corned beef — in fact, it's not truly an Irish dish at all and is served only now and then in Ireland.

Irish-Americans and almost all Americans of all nationalities are the real corned beef eaters, says Maryann Beckman, Food Marketing Agent for the Kalamazoo district.

The term "corned" comes from the old English meaning for grains (of salt) which were embedded into beef to preserve it. Today's corned beef is made by pickling the beef in salt brine, mixed pickling spices and sugar, for 10-14 days or longer.

It's usually made from beef brisket, plate, round or rump and cost and tenderness depend on which cut is used. Corned beef from round and rump are more tender, more desirable and thusly more costly. Corned beef from brisket and plate are less tender and sell for 20-30 cents less per pound. These are the ones found most often.

Corned beef in today's market is not inexpensive to begin with, but when advertised as specials for St. Pat's day, prices are at their lowest of the year. Also, since it's boneless, cost per serving for the four servings per pound, classes corned beef as a thrifty buy.

You'll see both "points" and "flats" of corned beef offered too. "Flats" are leaner, more desirable and cost more than "points." Look to the label for kind and style as well as cut. If the cut is not mentioned, it's likely made from the brisket. Check labels too for flavor; some are plain, some mild-cured and/or garlic flavored. Choose the type, style, cut and flavor you like best.

Corning any of the cuts partially preserves the cuts and adds flavor, but since less tender cuts are used, corned beef requires long, slow cooking to make it tender. Most need to be removed from the film bag, rinsed, put into a kettle and covered completely with cold water. Bring to a boil, then lower to simmering temperature and simmer until tender (several hours). Do not boil; boiling toughens. Corned beef can also be covered with water and pressure cooked at 10 pounds pressure for 12-25 minutes per pound, depending on thickness.

A newer kind of corned beef now available is the pre-tendered, which can be cooked in about half the time. Clearly marked as "corned beef for oven roasting," it needs no liquid and no cover when roasted. Cost, of course, is higher for this added convenience.

Corned beef requires a special carving technique. Best results will occur if you begin at the narrow end and cut across the grain into one-eighth inch slices. The grain changes directions as carving progresses so turn the meat so cross-grain cutting can continue.

Serve corned beef with sour-cream-horseradish sauce, mustard sauce, relishes, chili-pickle sauces, pineapple raisin sauce or just simply "as is" with the traditional cabbage. There's plenty of cabbage available this year too, and though supplies are smaller than a year ago, prices are the same and quality is excellent. Cabbage will retain best flavor and excellent quality, along with more nutrients, when cut into small wedges and cooked quickly (15 minutes or less).

So whether you're Irish-American or any other nationality, choose corned beef and cabbage this week and save on the "green" while St. Pat and friends are wearing the green.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Bisexual Son Needs Help

Dear Ann Landers: Our 19-year-old son is making his father and me crazy. Greg was always extremely handsome and had a great many friends, both male and female.

At the age of 17 he announced he no longer believed in God because "God hasn't done anything for me lately." He is now into something called "Karma" which is part of an Eastern religious cult.

During his second year of college Greg sought the help of a psychiatrist who, it turned out, was gay, so he quit going. (At least that's our son's story.)

Also during his second year of college Greg asked permission to bring a girl home for Christmas vacation. He said they were "in love." My husband and I were so thrilled we allowed them to sleep together in his room. Greg said they were sleeping together at school, so "why sweat it?"

Our joy was short-lived when we received a call from the girl last week saying Greg had fallen for a guy and was dragging him along on their dates. She was calling it quits.

We want our son to be happy and will accept him either straight or gay, but I have a feeling he can, with the proper help, lead a normal, heterosexual life. Is there any way we can help our boy? — Troubled Parents

Dear Parents: You can do nothing to help your son except let him know you love him, no matter which road he chooses to travel.

Obviously, Greg is bisexual. His preference may change again from guys to girls or he might be a switch-hitter for the rest of his life. But if he wants to be straight he'll have to get intensive therapy, it's long, difficult, unsure, and expensive undertaking. But others have made it and perhaps he can, too, if he wants to badly enough.

Silent Pop

Dear Ann Landers: For 17 years I've been married to a man who refuses to discuss family problems although his mother is one of them, his brother is another, and our three children are being raised as if they were fatherless.

I've tried every conceivable approach, from "Dear, what should we do about . . ." to, "You really MUST HELP ME MAKE THIS DECISION," AND FINALLY, "For God's sake, give me a hand with this problem."

Either he continues to read the paper or he'll mumble something that sounds like. "I can't think of a thing . . ." He is a brilliant businessman and I know he has a lot on his mind these days, but who doesn't? What can I do? — High Blood Pressure.

Dear: H.B.P.: After 17 years you are not going to change your husband so you'd better accept the realities of the situation before you pop an artery.

Get some counseling and pay someone to listen to you. It's cheaper than a stroke.

Out Of Place

Dear Ann Landers: A woman I work with asked me to make a condolence call with her tomorrow evening. I asked, "Who died?"

She said, "A cousin, twice removed. I hadn't seen her in four years but I'll get to see lots of relatives and they'll have a very nice assortment of food."

I told her I'd feel out of place. She insists that when people are grieving they are glad to see anybody. Should I go? — Miss Q

Dear Miss: No. You'd be out of place. What's more, that clod who invited you must be short on activities and long on spare time.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage—What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THREE OAKS — "Parable," the fifth film in the Lenten film series sponsored by the River Valley Ministerial Association, will be shown at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 13, in the Three Oaks Congregational church.

The public is invited.

A discussion period and refreshments will follow.

Child-care specialists advise giving plenty of "finger foods" to toddlers just learning to feed themselves.

Strips of vegetables, peas and lima beans can all be picked up with the fingers if a spoon or fork taxes the child's patience too much.

Here A Sun, There A Moon

I hope you're not going to be shocked by what I am about to say, but I am one of a half dozen people in this country who do not know what a low pressure system is. Furthermore, I don't care.

There, I've said it. Every night for the past 20 years I've sat in front of the TV set and pretended to get choked up when a cold front moves down from the Great Lakes or Davenport, Iowa's sun will rise at 5:02.

Oh, I've picked up a few technical phrases. Like I tried on a tube dress the other day and the salesperson said, "You look like a cumulus cloud" and I said, "I hope you find a dead bird in your rain barrel," but generally, I haven't the foggiest notion of what weathermen are talking about.

They pull down a large map of the country and immediately start to draw a curve here, a wavy line there, here a sun, there a moon, everywhere diagonal lines for rain and a few dots for snow. When they are finished, the whole mess looks like a terminal case of acne. Then they say things like, "Florida is having some weather this evening" (so what's the alternative?) or "Ada, Ohio reports a severe depression moving in." (You think you're depressed, Ada, I've just had my scholarship to Weight Watchers revoked when they checked my breath for liver and found out I was cheating.)

The plain truth is if someone is having rotten weather, I can't help it and if they're having better weather than we are, I don't want to hear about it.

I guess what it amounts to is that weather isn't made relevant to people. I want to know how it affects lives and what a falling barometer does to me personally.

A London weatherman, Gordon Barnes, recently breathed a little life into the subject by reporting that when the thermometer is 29.9 degrees or lower, women are more lovable. "You show me a low pressure weather pattern," he said, "and I will show you a woman who can't let men alone."

I can hear it now, "There's a passion front moving in tonight over Nebraska with winds lusting...pardon me, gusting up to 30 mph. Although roads are clear, travelers are warned of heavy traffic for those getting out of Florida's 75 degree temperatures (light love frost). The overnight low is 15 degrees, you son of a gun! There will be some promiscuity as far east as New Jersey but will diminish when the temperature hits the low 30s.

You know what I think? Weathermen have purposely kept women in the dark with their mumbo jumbo. Now that we know, just remember, women, "The hand that controls the thermostat...controls the world!"

CLEAN SHUTTERS

If you still have soil clinging to the shutters, wrap an ice cream bar stick with a detergent-saturated cloth and go over them once more.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I work in a noisy factory. I'm worried about my hearing. My boss says there's no need to worry, but I would like to protect myself in some way.

Mr. R.E., Penn.

Dear Mr. E.:

A recent survey of the noise levels in industries and factories showed that more than 50 per cent of the people work in an environment potentially dangerous to their hearing.

The Surgeon General of the United States estimated that five to 15 million workers are exposed to noise that may eventually cause some form of deafness.

Your boss's assurance is not sufficient protection for you. Most "noisy" industries today offer protective devices to prevent hearing loss.

Special types of pre-molded earplugs offer excellent protection against the bombardment of noise. Many other devices such as those used to cup the ears at airports are effective, too.

Hearing can be protected if both the worker and the employer recognize the health hazard of noise pollution.

Before I buy an expensive whirlpool can you tell me if this is good for arthritis?

Mrs. B.R., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Hydrotherapy can be very soothing for the muscular and joint pains of arthritis. Hot sprays, water-activated baths and swimming bring more blood to the skin, the joints and the muscles of the body.

Spas all over the world have been using many forms of water therapy with great physical and psychological benefits.

Before you purchase an expensive piece of equipment, arrange to try it for a while in a gym or a health club. You will become the best judge of its value for your condition.

My doctor removes wax from my ears by irrigation. While I was visiting out-of-town, another doctor took the wax out with a pick. Which way is better?

Miss S.L.M.; Ore.

Dear Miss M.:

Soft wax can be more easily removed by syringing. When wax is hard and impacted, special blunt instruments are used to remove it. Both methods are safe and effective.

Hard luck Joe likes to bid slams, in spite of the fact that his hard luck seems to leave him one or two tricks short.

Today's slam looked easy to him. He ruffed the second heart and laid down his ace of trumps. He paused for a moment to remark that trumps never broke for him, but this time it didn't really matter. Then he entered dummy with the king of clubs, finessed against East's jack of trumps, pulled the rest of the trumps and went after the diamonds. He had to overtake his jack of diamonds with dummy's king. Since West had hung on to all his four diamonds, Joe would up down two.

"My breaks, groaned Joe. "I could have gone down just one, but with West holding four cards in each minor suit and East all the trumps, there was no way I could have made the hands."

Joe had run into an unfortunate distribution of the adverse cards, but he could and should have made the slam.

Before entering dummy with the king of clubs, Joe should have cashed his queen and jack of diamonds. If East had ruffed, Joe would have been set, but that was a chance he had to take.

Then he could lead to dummy's king of clubs and start playing high diamonds. If East never ruffed Joe would discard three clubs and then lead and finesse trumps. If East ruffed Joe would overruff; pull East's last trumps and be able to ruff one club in dummy and discard the other two on good diamonds.

I hope you're not going to be shocked by what I am about to say, but I am one of a half dozen people in this country who do not know what a low pressure system is. Furthermore, I don't care.

There, I've said it. Every night for the past 20 years I've sat in front of the TV set and pretended to get choked up when a cold front moves down from the Great Lakes or Davenport, Iowa's sun will rise at 5:02.

Oh, I've picked up a few technical phrases. Like I tried on a tube dress the other day and the salesperson said, "You look like a cumulus cloud" and I said, "I hope you find a dead bird in your rain barrel," but generally, I haven't the foggiest notion of what weathermen are talking about.

They pull down a large map of the country and immediately start to draw a curve here, a wavy line there, here a sun, there a moon, everywhere diagonal lines for rain and a few dots for snow. When they are finished, the whole mess looks like a terminal case of acne. Then they say things like, "Florida is having some weather this evening" (so what's the alternative?) or "Ada, Ohio reports a severe depression moving in." (You think you're depressed, Ada, I've just had my scholarship to Weight Watchers revoked when they checked my breath for liver and found out I was cheating.)

The plain truth is if someone is having rotten weather, I can't help it and if they're having better weather than we are, I don't want to hear about it.

I guess what it amounts to is that weather isn't made relevant to people. I want to know how it affects lives and what a falling barometer does to me personally.

A London weatherman, Gordon Barnes, recently breathed a little life into the subject by reporting that when the thermometer is 29.9 degrees or lower, women are more lovable. "You show me a low pressure weather pattern," he said, "and I will show you a woman who can't let men alone."

I can hear it now, "There's a passion front moving in tonight over Nebraska with winds lusting...pardon me, gusting up to 30 mph. Although roads are clear, travelers are warned of heavy traffic for those getting out of Florida's 75 degree temperatures (light love frost). The overnight low is 15 degrees, you son of a gun! There will be some promiscuity as far east as New Jersey but will diminish when the temperature hits the low 30s.

You know what I think? Weathermen have purposely kept women in the dark with their mumbo jumbo. Now that we know, just remember, women, "The hand that controls the thermostat...controls the world!"

Hard luck Joe likes to bid slams, in spite of the fact that his hard luck seems to leave him one or two tricks short.

Today's slam looked easy to him. He ruffed the second heart and laid down his ace of trumps. He paused for a moment to remark that trumps never broke for him, but this time it didn't really matter. Then he entered dummy with the king of clubs, finessed against East's jack of trumps, pulled the rest of the trumps and went after the diamonds. He had to overtake his jack of diamonds with dummy's king. Since West had hung on to all his four diamonds. Joe would up down two.

"My breaks, groaned Joe. "I could have gone down just one, but with West holding four cards in each minor suit and East all the trumps, there was no way I could have made the hands."

Joe had run into an unfortunate distribution of the adverse cards, but he could and should have made the slam.

Before entering dummy with the king of clubs, Joe should have cashed his queen and jack of diamonds. If East had ruffed, Joe would have been set, but that was a chance he had to take.

Then he could lead to dummy's king of clubs and start playing high diamonds. If East never ruffed Joe would discard three clubs and then lead and finesse trumps. If East ruffed Joe would overruff; pull East's last trumps and be able to ruff one club in dummy and discard the other two on good diamonds.

PISCES

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1975

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) Wait for cues before launching any new project. If not on guard, you could get into difficult situations or needless complications.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) Dogged persistence will be day's need; also, the fortitude not to break your stride hesitantly when obstacles, new problems appear. Use that bright mind of yours!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) Mercury, in excellent position, puts your native ingenuity and perceptiveness at a peak. A time in which to spread your wings a bit — if time and obligations permit.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) Your ability to weather "stormy" periods will be of great help now. You may run into some opposition, some unexpected situations, but eventual returns will be worth fighting for.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) Curb a tendency toward lethargy since your stellar influences promise fine achievement if you're "on the ball." The Leoite is rarely lax, but such inclinations prevail now.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Stress your foresightedness in order to prevent witless errors. Don't leap at ideas or suggestions made by those who could mislead through a pleasing manner.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Patience and a sense of humor needed now. Do not let minor annoyances get the better of you or you may blow them out of proportion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Fine influences should help you put this day "over the top." Polish up a dormant talent for unique, unexpected use.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Uncertainty could offset your best efforts, so be decisive. Marshall all your talents, will power and knowhow with a view toward taking brisk steps forward.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't slacken your efforts because others are in a frivolous mood. Consider your own interests — especially now when influences stimulate new ideas for improving your status.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine stellar aspects encourage your creative interests. Also favored: romance, family concerns and cultural activities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You may encounter some opposition, but it need not deter your better efforts. Handle it diplomatically — and go on to bigger and better achievement.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely intelligent individual, a quick thinker and an idealist, with a flair for the unusual. You have a vivid imagination, a strong will and an outstanding sense of justice. You are one of the world's true humanitarians, and a life of service is almost sure to be in the cards for you. You are creative, too, and could especially succeed in literature, music, painting or interior decoration. Business is not really your forte but if it appeals to you, you COULD make a success of real estate. Birthdate of: Joseph Priestley, Eng. chemist, philosopher; Jack Lait, editor, short-story writer, playwright.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I work in a noisy factory. I'm worried about my hearing. My boss says there's no need to worry, but I would like to protect myself in some way.

Mr. R.E., Penn.

Dear Mr. E.:

A recent survey of the noise levels in industries and factories showed that more than 50 per cent of the people work in an environment potentially dangerous to their hearing.

The Surgeon General of the United States estimated that five to 15 million workers are exposed to noise that may eventually cause some form of deafness.

Your boss's assurance is not sufficient protection for you. Most "noisy" industries today offer protective devices to prevent hearing loss.

Special types of pre-molded earplugs offer excellent protection against the bombardment of noise. Many other devices such as those used to cup the ears at airports are effective, too.

Hearing can be protected if both the worker and the employer recognize the health hazard of noise pollution.

Before I buy an expensive whirlpool can you tell me if this is good for arthritis?

Mrs. B.R., Tenn.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Hydrotherapy can be very soothing for the muscular and joint pains of arthritis. Hot sprays, water-activated baths and swimming bring more blood to the skin, the joints and the muscles of the body.

Spas all over the world have been using many forms of water therapy with great physical and psychological benefits.

Before you purchase an expensive piece of equipment, arrange to try it for a while in a gym or a health club. You will become the best judge of its value for your condition.

My doctor removes wax from my ears by irrigation. While I was visiting out-of-town, another doctor took the wax out with a pick. Which way is better?

Miss S.L.M.; Ore.

Dear Miss M.:

Soft wax can be more easily removed by syringing. When wax is hard and impacted, special blunt instruments are used to remove it. Both methods are safe and effective.

GM Recalls 6,800 To Increase Stock Of Small, Intermediate Cars

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors plans to recall 6,800 of its 127,000 laidoff workers next month to help boost the firm's supply of small and intermediate size cars, now in short supply following the winter rebate program.

But a company spokesman Tuesday cautioned against drawing optimistic conclusions from the upward revision in production plans for the second quarter of 1975. He warned that some other workers might be laid off in other areas of the firm's massive operations.

GM said it now plans to produce 940,000 cars in the April-June period. That is up from 874,000 previously scheduled, but down from 1,013,000 a year ago.

The recalled workers will make up a second shift at Buick and Fisher Body plants in Flint, Mich., and at GM assembly division factories in Lordstown, Ohio, and Doraville, Ga.

In addition, production will be stepped up at Oldsmobile and Fisher Body in Lansing, Mich.

Along with the massive workers layoffs, rebates of up to $500 per car on some GM models in late January and February helped the firm cut its stockpile of new cars. All the discounted models were small cars.

GM has a total workforce of 370,000 hourly employes, and all its plants are opened this week. But entire shifts of workers remain on layoffs at many of the facilities.

Meanwhile, Chrysler Corp. confirmed Tuesday that it was involved in tentative negotiations to sell its Warren, Mich., Tool and Die plant, which employes 275 workers.

Doug Fraser, vice president of the United Auto Workers, said Chrysler has informed the union the factory will close after tool and die work is completed next October for the 1976 models.

LOVE STUDY: Dr. Ellen Perscheid, a University of Minnesota psychology researcher, says social scientists need to know why people are attracted to one another. Her $84,000 research grant was criticized Tuesday as a "study of why people fall in love" by Sen. William Proximire, D-Wis. (AP Wirephoto)

Chrysler is in the process of paring down its operations in an attempt to get back into the black. The firm suffered a net loss of $52 million in 1974, and company officials say it will lose heavily again this quarter.

A company spokesman said when the firm acquired the plant in 1966 it was involved in producing many more types of cars and therefore had more tooling work.

"We believe we can handle our body mix with a much smaller operation," the spokesman said.

In another development, Arthur Hughes, administrative assistant of the UAW said the supplemental unemployment benefit fund for Chrysler's UAW-represented white collar workers may run out this week.

The SUB fund is designed to guarantee laid off workers up to 95 per cent of the their take-home pay for up to a year, but payments are terminated when the fund runs dry.

Chrysler is the only auto firm where the UAW represents salaried as well as hourly workers. The SUB funds covering hourly workers have been diminished by widespread layoffs, but have not yet run out.

Hughes said the fund for Chrysler hourly wokers now has about $20 million. The payout from the fund last week was $4.6 million.

Month-Long Strike At U-M Ended

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Graduate teaching fellows said they would return to work at the University of Michigan today, ending a month-long walkout.

The decision by the Graduate Education Organization came Tuesday night at a mass meeting after school officials agreed they would take no academic reprisals against strikers.

A GEO spokesman said the university agreed to issue a detailed statement following the ratification vote, which will take three days. A university spokesman said the statement could not be part of the contract because it related to the status of the strikers as students, not as employes.

Tentative contract agreement was reached Monday, but the GEO delayed ratification pending the outcome of the reprisal issue.

The pact calls for a salary increase next September of 5.6 per cent or the average faculty salary increase, whichever is greater. In addition, tuition for the teaching assistants was lowered to $440 per term. Most of them currently pay $548 per term, while some out-of-state teaching fellows pay a higher rate.

The strike began at midnight on Feb. 11. The GEO claims 1,100 members and is the authorized bargaining agent for 2,186 teaching fellows and research assistants, all of whom work part-time.

Congress Aims To Avoid Huge Gasoline Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key Democrat says negotiators seeking an energy compromise between President Ford and Congress are aiming to avoid higher gasoline taxes and oil import quotas this year while the economy is ailing.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee which is drafting an energy bill, said his plan for an eventual 40-cent-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes is dead. Instead, he said a five-cent hike next year would be more likely.

He indicated other members of the panel objected to the steep increase, from the present four-cent-a-gallon rate, for fear it would further depress the economy.

Ullman said hearings before his committee will conclude Monday and key decisions on what the measure will contain should be made before the Easter recess.

The goal is to get the bill to the House floor by mid-April, he said.

The Easter recess also is the target for final action on the $21-billion, tax-cut bill passed by the House and now before the Senate Finance Committee.

Ford said Tuesday the Senate should not consider a repeal of the oil depletion allowance together with the tax-cut bill. The President said he was concerned the controversy over the oil depletion allowance would delay the tax cut.

The President was told Tuesday by Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb that "a compromise can be reached in the next several weeks" with congressional leaders on energy legislation.

Ullman and Zarb and their staffs have been working on the compromise.

Compromise within Democratic ranks led to Ullman's statement that a steep gasoline tax hike isn't likely in the near future.

"My judgment is we'll not go beyond five cents next year," he said, referring to an increase in the gasoline tax. The Ways and Means Committee's package also is expected to include standby authority for the President to impose gasoline allocation and rationing, an energy trust fund to finance research into alternate energy sources and possibly a windfall profits tax on oil producers.

Ford's program includes higher oil tariffs and taxes and the end of price controls on domestic oil and natural gas.

Ullman said his committee is working on an oil import quota "with enough flexibility to take into consideration economic circumstances," but he anticipates no quota for this year.

Asked whether the administration was ready to go along with a quota, Ullman said they are "working with us on it ... hopefully in the end we can agree on it."

The House voted Tuesday to avoid a veto showdown with Ford on his oil tariff program. Congress had passed a bill delaying the President's $3-a-barrel tariff hike for 90 days. When Ford vetoed the bill, he agreed to delay for 60 days the last two one-dollar increments. His decision to delay defused the congressional move to override the veto.

Milliken Asks Unemployment Funds

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has asked the federal government to advance $30 million in unemployment funds to Michigan.

In a letter Tuesday to Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop, the governor said Michigan is "expecting an average monthly payout of $113.6 million" during the next few months. January payments were $102.3 million, he said.

Milliken said the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Fund dropped from $557 million in early 1974 to $313 million last month. The current drain on the fund will empty it "sometime in April" and about $30 million would be required to meet benefit payment commitments during the second half of the month, the governor said.

Employer contributions for the first quarter of the year are not due until April 25.

Court Becomes Adultery Arbiter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moon Ho Kim had a wife in Korea and a mistress in the United States. Was he committing adultery? No, says the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Appeals courts are not often arbiters of such questions, but it became important in Kim's case.

Kim was a Korean national who was allowed to enter the United States to attend Roosevelt University in Chicago.

After he completed his studies, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service sought to deport him, but Kim asked to be allowed to leave the country voluntarily. Deportation would mean he can't come back to the United States. Voluntary departure means that he may.

Enter the other woman, Sue Hyun Chai. She testified at his deportation hearing that Kim had lived with her as man and wife in Los Angeles and Chicago. She said that relationship lasted until the true Mrs. Kim arrived in this country.

The appeals court said that raised the issue of whether Kim "was a person of good moral character" as required for voluntary departure permission.

The court searched state laws for a good definition of adultery.

"A number of states follow the common law rule that adultery depends upon the married status of the woman without regard to the marital status of the man," the court said.

"Others require open and notorious cohabitation. Still others have adopted the ecclesiastical rule that only the married party to the extra-marital relationship is guilty of adultery."

And still others, sighed the court, "hold that adultery is committed if either party is married."

Because of this "patchwork standard" the judges rejected these various state cases and adopted this definition from an earlier federal case:

Adultery is "extra-marital intercourse which tends to destroy an existing, viable marriage, and which would represent a threat to public morality."

How does that apply to Kim?

Kim's "relationship with another female was not one that tended to destroy his marriage, for it only existed while he and his wife were living, for some years, in different countries," the court ruled.

Furthermore, said the judges, there is nothing to show Kim's conduct was a threat to public morality because "there is no evidence that the public, or any portions thereof was aware of any immoral conduct on the part of (Kim) and the unmarried woman."

As it stands today, Kim may leave voluntarily, although the government may choose to appeal to the Supreme Court.

How did Kim's dalliance come to light in the first place? a lawyer connected with the case was asked.

"It was a case of a woman scorned," he said.

Jackson Bank Robbed

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Two armed men wearing ski masks assaulted a pregnant teller Tuesday and made off with an undisclosed amount of cash from a branch of the National Bank of Jackson, police said. Two young men and a middle aged women were taken into custody later in the day at a house about a mile from the bank, police said. The teller was taken to Foote Hospital after she was pushed to the floor and struck in the ribs by one of the robbers, police said. The woman's name was not disclosed. There were no other injuries.

Old Thurber Graffiti Uncovered

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — The attic walls of an old house have yielded dozens of cartoons sketched more than 40 years ago by humorist James Thurber.

Some of the characters have names — presumably people and animals the humorist knew when he lived in the house from 1931 to 1934.

"My husband was up in the attic trying to figure out where the old staircase went," said Catharine Coster, who with her husband, Allen, now occupies the home.

"He pulled layers and layers of wallpaper off the attic walls looking. And then suddenly he found the pencil sketch entitled, 'The Life of a Dog.' He was so excited he woke me up at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Careful stripping of additional paper bared three walls covered with cartoons, although some are faint and hard to see.

Helen Thurber, the humorist's second wife, said the attic was his writing room and there is "no question" that he did the wall cartoons — "He always did drawings on people's walls."

The Costers believe Thurber wrote several books in the room between 1931 and 1933, including "The Owl in the Attic," "The Seal in the Bedroom," and "My Life and Hard Times."

The Costers want to share their find with the public, but the narrow winding stairway makes the room nearly inaccessible. They are considering moving the plaster walls to a library, possibly at the Department of Thurber Studies at Ohio State University.

In what may have been a very personal panel, Thurber drew an aggressive woman thrusting a flower toward a cowering, small man with the caption, "Rosemary—for remembrance."

One of the largest scenes shows "The Newtown Clown Band," five men in clown suits. One is playing a piano, another a drum, a third a horn and and a fourth a banjo. The fifth is just sitting on the piano.

Thurber, who died in 1961, illustrated his stories with similar caricatures. His best known work was the short story, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

Gets A Sweet Sendoff

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. Glorius Malone provided a robber with a sweet sendoff. She told police a man, armed with a knife, entered her North Side grocery store Tuesday and demanded money. She said she grabbed cans from behind a counter and hurled them at the startled intruder, who fled. Mrs. Malone, 43, concluded her heroics by splattering a jar of honey on the windshield of the man's getaway car.

Kim's "relationship with another female was not one that tended to destroy his marriage, for it only existed while he and his wife were living, for some years, in different countries," the court ruled.

Furthermore, said the judges, there is nothing to show Kim's conduct was a threat to public morality because "there is no evidence that the public, or any portions thereof was aware of any immoral conduct on the part of (Kim) and the unmarried woman."

As it stands today, Kim may leave voluntarily, although the government may choose to appeal to the Supreme Court.

How did Kim's dalliance come to light in the first place? a lawyer connected with the case was asked.

"It was a case of a woman scorned," he said.

Jackson Bank Robbed

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Two armed men wearing ski masks assaulted a pregnant teller Tuesday and made off with an undisclosed amount of cash from a branch of the National Bank of Jackson, police said. Two young men and a middle aged women were taken into custody later in the day at a house about a mile from the bank, police said. The teller was taken to Foote Hospital after she was pushed to the floor and struck in the ribs by one of the robbers, police said. The woman's name was not disclosed. There were no other injuries.

Old Thurber Graffiti Uncovered

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — The attic walls of an old house have yielded dozens of cartoons sketched more than 40 years ago by humorist James Thurber.

Some of the characters have names — presumably people and animals the humorist knew when he lived in the house from 1931 to 1934.

"My husband was up in the attic trying to figure out where the old staircase went," said Catharine Coster, who with her husband, Allen, now occupies the home.

"He pulled layers and layers of wallpaper off the attic walls looking. And then suddenly he found the pencil sketch entitled, 'The Life of a Dog.' He was so excited he woke me up at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Careful stripping of additional paper bared three walls covered with cartoons, although some are faint and hard to see.

Helen Thurber, the humorist's second wife, said the attic was his writing room and there is "no question" that he did the wall cartoons — "He always did drawings on people's walls."

The Costers believe Thurber wrote several books in the room between 1931 and 1933, including "The Owl in the Attic," "The Seal in the Bedroom," and "My Life and Hard Times."

The Costers want to share their find with the public, but the narrow winding stairway makes the room nearly inaccessible. They are considering moving the plaster walls to a library, possibly at the Department of Thurber Studies at Ohio State University.

In what may have been a very personal panel, Thurber drew an aggressive woman thrusting a flower toward a cowering, small man with the caption, "Rosemary—for remembrance."

Thurber divorced his first wife in 1935. They had a daughter, Rosemary.

One of the largest scenes shows "The Newtown Clown Band," five men in clown suits. One is playing a piano, another a drum, a third a horn and and a fourth a banjo. The fifth is just sitting on the piano.

Thurber, who died in 1961, illustrated his stories with similar caricatures. His best known work was the short story, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

Gets A Sweet Sendoff

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. Glorius Malone provided a robber with a sweet sendoff. She told police a man, armed with a knife, entered her North Side grocery store Tuesday and demanded money. She said she grabbed cans from behind a counter and hurled them at the startled intruder, who fled. Mrs. Malone, 43, concluded her heroics by splattering a jar of honey on the windshield of the man's getaway car.

Reds Are Only 40 Miles From Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese overran a district town 40 miles north of Saigon today as helicopters ferried thousands of government reinforcements to a threatened provincial capital in the Central Highlands, the South Vietnamese command reported.

The command said Tri Tam, called Dau Tieng when the U.S. 25th Infantry Division defended it in the 1960s, was lost after a North Vietnamese infantry and tank assault that began Monday. The command claimed seven North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed. It said the fate of several hundred government troops was unknown.

Tri Tam was the 16th of South Vietnam's 244 district towns lost by the government since the cease-fire agreement two years ago and the closest to Saigon of those lost. Four others have been lost in the past five days. However, much of the region around Tri Tam was already controlled by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Meanwhile, hard street fighting continued for the third day in Ban Me Thuot, the besieged provincial capital in the highlands 155 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicoptered reinforcements raised the government's force there to about 5,000 men, but military spokesmen said the North Vietnamese still controlled parts of the city.

The Saigon command claimed about 700 North Vietnamese killed and two dozen tanks and a dozen giant 130mm artillery guns destroyed, mostly by the air force.

Field reports said many of the city's 150,000 civilian population had fled during the night.

The U.S. Embassy said nine Americans — an official of the U.S. aid program and eight missionaries — were still trapped in Ban Me Thuot but were safe and had enough food and water.

The Saigon command said another district town 60 miles southwest of Ban Me Thuot, Kien Duc, also was holding out against North Vietnamese tank assaults.

The Saigon command said there was also heavy shelling and hard fighting at a number of other points around the country, from along the Cambodian border in the Mekong Delta to the northern quarter. In the latter sector government marines withstood a 1,000-round barrage.

In Cambodia, heavy shelling of the Phnom Penh airport continued, but the American supply airlift resumed after a brief suspension Tuesday. Hard fighting was reported seven miles northwest of the capital, but the government forces there did not appear to be making any progress in their drive to push back the rockets and guns shelling the airport.

Diplomatic sources said the Neak Luong naval base and the town of Baban, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, were heavily shelled, and there were many civilian casualties.

President Lon Nol swore in a new commander of the armed forces, Gen. Sak Su Sakhan, and Premier Long Boret began discussing the makeup of a new cabinet. There was speculation that the shakeup would end with the resignation of Lon Nol himself.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Burglars Hit Home After Fire

A Benton Harbor house was burglarized after it was hit by fire Monday, city police reported.

A television set and stereo were stolen from the home of Helen Haynes, 852 Pearl street. Police said the TV and stereo were among undamaged items that had been placed in a bedroom after the fire. The burglary was reported Tuesday.

In another burglary, Benton Harbor police said a clock, silverware and children's clothing were stolen from the home of Shirley Steucy, 582 Baird street, by a thief who apparently carried the loot away in a bed sheet taken from the house.

Benton township police said tires, mirrors and three car batteries were stolen from vehicles parked at Ashley Ford Sales, Inc., 1074 East Napier avenue. Police said the items were valued at $382. The theft occurred in February, but was reported to police yesterday.

Berrien sheriff's deputies reported a leather coat valued at $150 was stolen from a locker at Lakeshore High school. The coat was owned by Fred Wizner, 5061 West Donna drive, Lincoln township.

St. Joseph police said a tape player and two tapes, valued at $100, were stolen from a car owned by Eileen Scheibach, 6549 Paw Paw avenue, Coloma, while it was parked at Gersonde's bowling alley, 2705 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph.

A Benton township man was arrested Tuesday night after allegedly interfering with police who were warning a motorist of traffic violations, state police of the Benton Harbor post said.

Troopers said they stopped Larry Lee Jones, a brother of Gerald Jones, on Ferguson drive across from the state police post. A warning was being given about a non-transparent window decal and an improper turn signal when Gerald Jones walked walked up and allegedly began shouting at officers.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested a man early Tuesday morning after finding an alleged marijuana cigarette and a blank-firing starter pistol in his car.

Booked and lodged at the county jail was David Lee Shaw, 19, of 1024 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, on charges of violation of the controlled substances act and possession of a blank starting pistol.

Troopers said Shaw was stopped on Ferguson drive.

Benton Harbor police arrested a man for an outstanding parking warrant Tuesday when officers went to Walt's Ideal Bar, 212 Territorial road, to investigate a reported fight.

Police said one man was allegedly threatening another man man with a broken bottle at the tavern. When police arrived, the fight was over, but an outstanding parking warrant was found issued against one of the alleged participants.

James Showan, 27, of 249 Lake avenue, Benton Harbor, was arrested, then released after posting bond.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said a Bainbridge township man reported the engine of his pickup truck was ruined because vandals had poured sand in the oil intake. Troopers identified the owner of the truck as Douglas E. Weatherley, Park road.

Draft Lottery Still Around

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two million young men born in 1956 will find out from the national draft lottery what chance they would have of being called up if the military draft were resumed. The draft callup system is designed to supplement the all-volunteer armed forces in case of a national emergency, according to Selective Service Director Byron V. Pepitone. The men who got their numbers today will be in the first group for possible callup next year. Then, each year after that, they will fall into a lower priority until they are no longer liable for the draft, normally at age 26. Those who drew numbers 95 and lower will be given higher priority and placed in an "available" class unless they are eligible for deferment or exemption. Those assigned numbers 96 and above will remain in the "holding class."

Mariner 10 Takes Last Gasp

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Burning its last drops of fuel, Mariner 10 will take a third and final closeup look at sunscorched Mercury on Sunday. The bug-shaped space explorer will make a four-hour fly-by, passing at one point only 131 miles from the surface of Mercury. It will be the closest fly-by of another planet yet attempted. The encounter will exhaust the 1,000-pound probe's altitude control gas and propellant. It will go into orbit around the sun, a space age ghost ship. In addition to snapping about 650 photos, the fly-by's primary objective is to gather data about Mercury's unexpected magnetic field. It was discovered by Mariner on its first rendezvous with the planet March 29, 1974.

Copping Plea May End Here

saves the county money.

"Plea-bargaining is a tool for the effieient administration of justice where the physical and personal resources are inadequate to handle the volume of crime that's occurring," Smietanka stated.

"By saying it's an efficient tool we're admitting the criminal justice system can't handle crime in the seventies," he added.

Plea-bargaining, with some modifications, has "been around forever" in Berrien county, according to Circuit Judge William S. White. But he said the present form of a great deal of plea-bargaining has been in existence for about 20 years.

In 1974, the prosecutor's office authorized 1,920 felony warrants. Of this number, 103 cases went to trial. The rest were either bargained-out, dismissed, now pending, or the defendant pleaded as charged.

Judge White noted each circuit judge in Berrien county has a maximum of 180 trial days in a year. But usually only one judge works the criminal caseload, as the others must handle civil and domestic cases.

"We either have to modify the criminal justice system or expand the facilities to handle more trials," Smietanka said of the figures. "I don't think plea-bargaining is acceptable any more as the linchpin in making the criminal justice system function in Berrien county."

Recently, this reporter was permitted to observe a plea-bargain in action. The defendant was charged with three counts of armed robbery, each of which carries a maximum term of life imprisonment.

The defense attorney suggested the charge be dropped to assault with intent to rob while armed, since it carries the same maximum penalty. He also pointed out that a plea to that charge would save the county money by not going to trial, and that no one was hurt during the robbery.

Smietanka countered that the trial would only take two days, costing about $2,000, and a conviction, which he felt was certain, would serve as a deterrent to other such crimes. (Because the case is still pending, Smietanka asked that no more of the facts of the case be released.)

Smietanka told the attorney he wouldn't reduce the charge from armed robbery because of the seriousness of the case. He did offer, however, to let th defendant plead guilty to one count of armed robbery, since the defendant couldn't be sentenced to consecutive terms, and the plea would carry the same maximum as conviction on three counts.

"Basically, plea-bargaining is a battle of wills and strength," Smietanka conceded, noting there is an attitude of give-and-take.

"We're going into the unknown," Smietanka said of the proposed elimination of plea-bargaining, and added that no one, to his knowledge, has ever been successful in completely eliminating plea-bargaining.

The prosecutor admits he's putting his neck on a chopping block in advocating the abolition of plea-bargaining. He added that he has spoken to prosecutors in nearby counties to see if they, too, would initiate such a program. Indications are that one will, Smietanka said, but declined to say who.

"Maybe it won't work," he mused, and noted "If it doesn't I haven't accomplished what I wanted. It's bound to hurt if it fails, and even if it does work I don't expect to get any pats on the back."

The federal grant was to fight hunger.

Employment Bill To Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — High school students and persons 16 or older would be offered employment counseling and job placement help through the public schools under a bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate. The measure, passed 84-15 Tuesday, is designed to make the transition to the jobs market easier, said Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Dearborn, sponsor. "This bill is to provide jobs. I don't know of anything more important at this time," she said. "Since more than 60 per cent of Michigan high school graduates enter directly into the world of work, it is essential that our schools make every effort to assist them with this transition. Young people are our highest category of unemployed," she added. The measure would take effect Sept. 1, 1977 in school districts with high schools.

Agricultural Disaster Area

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The governor has asked that Oakland, Oceana and Osceola counties be declared agricultural disaster areas due to last year's bad weather. Tuesday's request by Gov. William Milliken brings to 39 the number of counties for which such declarations have been sought. Disaster declarations entitle farmers in affected counties to get low-interest federal loans. Excessive rainfall and cold weather during the 1974 planting season, droughts in July and August and early frost in September caused a total of $4 million in losses to farmers in the three counties, Milliken said.

Commitment Encouraged

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill intended to encourage commitment rather than incarceration of mentally ill persons has been approved in the state Senate. The measure, passed 33-0 Tuesday and sent to the House, eases requirements on a new mental health code certifying persons for treatment. Presently, two doctors must certify a person should be committed for psychiatric help. One of these must be a psychiatrist. Under the new provision, it would take just one physician and a qualified mental health professional to certify the patient for treatment.

Two Youths Are Arrested After Union Pier Robbery

UNION PIER — State police from the New Buffalo post arrested two 17-year-olds in connection with the armed robbery of the Jim's Sunoco service station, Union Pier road and I-94, here last night.

Ricky Kuhns, 604 West John Beers road, Stevensville, and Michael Dahms of Watervliet were taken into custody on charges of armed robbery when the auto they were riding in was stopped by troopers on I-94, just north of Sawyer, the robbery was reported at the service station about 7:30 p.m.

Attendant Thomas Glossinger of Union Pier told police two young men entered the service station, one brandishing a knife, and the two then fled north in an auto. He told police that the two took $103 in receipts from the service station.

Troopers said cash and a knife were found in the auto after the arrests were made.

Reds Are Only 40 Miles From Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The North Vietnamese overran a district town 40 miles north of Saigon today as helicopters ferried thousands of government reinforcements to a threatened provincial capital in the Central Highlands, the South Vietnamese command reported.

The command said Tri Tam, called Dau Tieng when the U.S. 25th Infantry Division defended it in the 1960s, was lost after a North Vietnamese infantry and tank assault that began Monday. The command claimed seven North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed. It said the fate of several hundred government troops was unknown.

Tri Tam was the 16th of South Vietnam's 244 district towns lost by the government since the cease-fire agreement two years ago and the closest to Saigon of those lost. Four others have been lost in the past five days. However, much of the region around Tri Tam was already controlled by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Meanwhile, hard street fighting continued for the third day in Ban Me Thuot, the besieged provincial capital in the highlands 155 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicoptered reinforcements raised the government's force there to about 5,000 men, but military spokesmen said the North Vietnamese still controlled parts of the city.

The Saigon command claimed about 700 North Vietnamese killed and two dozen tanks and a dozen giant 130mm artillery guns destroyed, mostly by the air force.

Field reports said many of the city's 150,000 civilian population had fled during the night.

The U.S. Embassy said nine Americans — an official of the U.S. aid program and eight missionaries — were still trapped in Ban Me Thuot but were safe and had enough food and water.

The Saigon command said another district town 60 miles southwest of Ban Me Thuot, Kien Duc, also was holding out against North Vietnamese tank assaults.

The Saigon command said there was also heavy shelling and hard fighting at a number of other points around the country, from along the Cambodian border in the Mekong Delta to the northern quarter. In the latter sector government marines withstood a 1,000-round barrage.

In Cambodia, heavy shelling of the Phnom Penh airport continued, but the American supply airlift resumed after a brief suspension Tuesday. Hard fighting was reported seven miles northwest of the capital, but the government forces there did not appear to be making any progress in their drive to push back the rockets and guns shelling the airport.

Diplomatic sources said the Neak Luong naval base and the town of Baban, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, were heavily shelled, and there were many civilian casualties.

President Lon Nol swore in a new commander of the armed forces, Gen. Sak Su Sakhan, and Premier Long Boret began discussing the makeup of a new cabinet. There was speculation that the shakeup would end with the resignation of Lon Nol himself.

Draft Lottery Still Around

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two million young men born in 1956 will find out from the national draft lottery what chance they would have of being called up if the military draft were resumed. The draft callup system is designed to supplement the all-volunteer armed forces in case of a national emergency, according to Selective Service Director Byron V. Pepitone. The men who got their numbers today will be in the first group for possible callup next year. Then, each year after that, they will fall into a lower priority until they are no longer liable for the draft, normally at age 26. Those who drew numbers 95 and lower will be given higher priority and placed in an "available" class unless they are eligible for deferment or exemption. Those assigned numbers 96 and above will remain in the "holding class."

Mariner 10 Takes Last Gasp

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Burning its last drops of fuel, Mariner 10 will take a third and final closeup look at sunscorched Mercury on Sunday. The bug-shaped space explorer will make a four-hour fly-by, passing at one point only 131 miles from the surface of Mercury. It will be the closest fly-by of another planet yet attempted. The encounter will exhaust the 1,000-pound probe's altitude control gas and propellant. It will go into orbit around the sun, a space age ghost ship. In addition to snapping about 650 photos, the fly-by's primary objective is to gather data about Mercury's unexpected magnetic field. It was discovered by Mariner on its first rendezvous with the planet March 29, 1974.

saves the county money.

"Plea-bargaining is a tool for the efficient administration of justice where the physical and personal resources are inadequate to handle the volume of crime that's occurring," Smietanka stated.

"By saying it's an efficient tool we're admitting the criminal justice system can't handle crime in the seventies," he added.

Plea-bargaining, with some modifications, has "been around forever" in Berrien county, according to Circuit Judge William S. White. But he said the present form of a great deal of plea-bargaining has been in existence for about 20 years.

In 1974, the prosecutor's office authorized 1,920 felony warrants. Of this number, 103 cases went to trial. The rest were either bargained-out, dismissed, now pending, or the defendant pleaded as charged.

Judge White noted each circuit judge in Berrien county has a maximum of 180 trial days in a year. But usually only one judge works the criminal caseload, as the others must handle civil and domestic cases.

"We either have to modify the criminal justice system or expand the facilities to handle more trials," Smietanka said of the figures. "I don't think plea-bargaining is acceptable any more as the linchpin in making the criminal justice system function in Berrien county."

Recently, this reporter was permitted to observe a plea-bargain in action. The defendant was charged with three counts of armed robbery, each of which carries a maximum term of life imprisonment.

The defense attorney suggested the charge be dropped to assault with intent to rob while armed, since it carries the same maximum penalty. He also pointed out that a plea to that charge would save the county money by not going to trial, and that no one was hurt during the robbery.

Smietanka countered that the trial would only take two days, costing about $2,000, and a conviction, which he felt was certain, would serve as a deterrent to other such crimes. (Because the case is still pending, Smietanka asked that no more of the facts of the case be released.)

Smietanka told the attorney he wouldn't reduce the charge from armed robbery because of the seriousness of the case. He did offer, however, to let th defendant plead guilty to one count of armed robbery, since the defendant couldn't be sentenced to consecutive terms, and the plea would carry the same maximum as conviction on three counts.

"Basically, plea-bargaining is a battle of wills and strength," Smietanka conceded, noting there is an attitude of give-and-take.

"We're going into the unknown," Smietanka said of the proposed elimination of plea-bargaining, and added that no one, to his knowledge, has ever been successful in completely eliminating plea-bargaining.

The prosecutor admits he's putting his neck on a chopping block in advocating the abolition of plea-bargaining. He added that he has spoken to prosecutors in nearby counties to see if they, too, would initiate such a program. Indications are that one will, Smietanka said, but declined to say who.

"Maybe it won't work," he mused, and noted "If it doesn't I haven't accomplished what I wanted. It's bound to hurt if it fails, and even if it does work I don't expect to get any pats on the back."

A Benton Harbor house was burglarized after it was hit by fire Monday, city police reported.

A television set and stereo were stolen from the home of Helen Haynes, 852 Pearl street. Police said the TV and stereo were among undamaged items that had been placed in a bedroom after the fire. The burglary was reported Tuesday.

In another burglary, Benton Harbor police said a clock, silverware and children's clothing were stolen from the home of Shirley Steucy, 582 Baird street, by a thief who apparently carried the loot away in a bed sheet taken from the house.

Benton township police said tires, mirrors and three car batteries were stolen from vehicles parked at Ashley Ford Sales, Inc., 1074 East Napier avenue. Police said the items were valued at $382. The theft occurred in February, but was reported to police yesterday.

Today In MICHIGAN

Employment Bill To Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — High school students and persons 16 or older would be offered employment counseling and job placement help through the public schools under a bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate. The measure, passed 84-15 Tuesday, is designed to make the transition to the jobs market easier, said Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Dearborn, sponsor. "This bill is to provide jobs. I don't know of anything more important at this time," she said. "Since more than 60 per cent of Michigan high school graduates enter directly into the world of work, it is essential that our schools make every effort to assist them with this transition. Young people are our highest category of unemployed," she added. The measure would take effect Sept. 1, 1977 in school districts with high schools.

Agricultural Disaster Area

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The governor has asked that Oakland, Oceana and Osceola counties be declared agricultural disaster areas due to last year's bad weather. Tuesday's request by Gov. William Milliken brings to 39 the number of counties for which such declarations have been sought. Disaster declarations entitle farmers in affected counties to get low-interest federal loans. Excessive rainfall and cold weather during the 1974 planting season, droughts in July and August and early frost in September caused a total of $4 million in losses to farmers in the three counties, Milliken said.

Commitment Encouraged

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill intended to encourage commitment rather than incarceration of mentally ill persons has been approved in the state Senate. The measure, passed 33-0 Tuesday and sent to the House, eases requirements on a new mental health code certifying persons for treatment. Presently, two doctors must certify a person should be committed for psychiatric help. One of these must be a psychiatrist. Under the new provision, it would take just one physician and a qualified mental health professional to certify the patient for treatment.

Attendant Thomas Glossinger of Union Pier told police two young men entered the service station, one brandishing a knife, and the two then fled north in an auto. He told police that the two took $103 in receipts from the service station.

LINCOLN TWP. AWARDED TELEPHONE HEARING

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

Lincoln township board learned last night the state public service commission has changed its mind and will hold a public hearing on a request by a group of township residents seeking transfer from Mid-Michigan Telephone company service to Michigan Bell service.

Ernest Hauch, township supervisor, said he was contacted yesterday afternoon by Joel Sharkey, of the public service commission office, and was informed that the request has been re-evaluated and a public hearing involving all parties involved will be held.

Date for the hearing before the three-member commission has been scheduled for Monday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m. A hearing site has not been decided on as yet, but Mrs. Bernice Tretheway, township clerk, said it would be held somewhere in the township.

The township board in February sent letters to the commission, both telephone companies, and area state legislators condemning the commission's initial denial of the township's residents request for such a hearing before the state commission.

Hauch said township residents could thank Rep. Harry Gast Jr., (R-St. Joseph) and Sen. Charles O. Zollar, (R-Benton Harbor) "for the commission's apparent change of heart on the matter."

"It's no guarantee that the phone service transfer request will be approved," Mrs. Tretheway said, "but at least township residents will have a chance to have their say before the state commission."

Petitions seeking the transfer had been signed by some 190 township residents in Mid-Michigan's 465 Bridgman exchange. Mid-Michigan serves a small part of Lincoln township and Lake township, Baroda, New Troy, Bridgman and Sawyer areas. Michigan Bell serves the major portion of Lincoln township.

In other areas, the township board approved a sewer interceptor extension agreement between Lincoln township, St. Joseph township, and the Lake Michigan Shoreline Water and Sewage Treatment authority for extending the Hickory Creek sewer interceptor to the Twin Cities sewage disposal plant.

The three have been working on such an agreement for the past six months. Lincoln township board is the first party to formally adopt the agreement.

The agreement calls for construction of a lift station and a 20-inch forced main line into the disposal plant at an estimated cost of $608,100. Lincoln township's share would be approximately $75,700, Gerald Wahl, township treasurer, has previously stated.

Board members Wahl, Anthony Doughy and Fred Albrecht, were named to a committee to investigate the operation of Omega Communications cable-television franchise in the Coloma-Watervliet area. The invitation was made by Craig McCrystal, who told the board last night the firm would like to have a cable-television franchise in Lincoln township.

A proposal to widen the shoulder on the north side of John Beers road from the Stevensville village limit to the Lakeshore high school was tabled. Estimated cost of the project would be $30,500, according to Mrs. Tretheway, and may require an additional half-mill levy.

The board approved setting the building inspector fee at $20 for new house trailers in the township, as required by the recently adopted state building code.

Wahl reported that 94.5 per cent of 1974 property tax collections have been collected, about the same as last year at this time.

Arthur Grau, township cemetery sexton, notified the board that annual spring clean up at the cemetery is about to start, and requests that persons remove floral requested pots and other items around gravesites, until the clean up is completed.

The township's annual settlement day has been slated for Tuesday, March 25, at 8 p.m., and the annual township meeting will be Saturday, April 5, at 1 p.m. Both meetings will be held at the township hall, Stevensville.

Students Saving Berrien $10,000

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A diesel engine training class at Andrews university here intends to save Berrien county almost $10,000 in repair costs when the class completes repairs on a county-owned generator next month, according to Don LaPorte, the instructor. The manufacturer, Cummins, Inc., had estimated cost at $10,000, but LaPorte, charging only for parts, said he and the class would be able lower the costs to about $200.

He said the manufacturer of the $73,000 generator may have anticipated doing a complete overhaul, which LaPorte said was not necessary. When repaired, the county plans to use the generator in the county jail in St. Joseph or Berrien General hospital at Berrien Center.

The engine was brought to the university after it quit operating.

Training in diesel mechanics is being offered this quarter for the first time by the center for occupational education, a vocational training department under the university's college of technology.

Those completing the training will be qualified for natnal diesel mechanic certification and will be eligible for immediate employment at most repair centers, according to Melvin Andersen, director of the center.

Credit for the program can also apply towards a baccalaureate degree, he added.

TO REPAIR DIESEL ENGINE: Don LaPorte, instructor at Andrews university, Berrien Springs, and his diesel engine training class will repair Berrien county-owned generator as class project this quarter. When repairs have been completed, county will use generator in county jail, in St. Joseph, or Berrien General hospital in Berrien Center.

Adventure Exciting For Teens

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Three teenagers aboard the icebreaker Glacier when it broke loose from nine days of entrapment in the antarctic icepack say the adventure was "fantastic and exciting."

The 309-foot Coast Guard ship, with the three Sea Scouts and 138 crewmen aboard, was in clear water today and speeding toward home port here.

The United States' biggest and most powerful icebreaker became trapped when two blades on one of its two propellers were sheared by an ice pack building rapidly with the approach of winter in the Southern Hemisphere.

Junior Achievement Advisers Honored

Twenty-two advisers to Blossomland Junior Achievement were honored last night at a dinner hosted by the board of directors at Berrien Hills Country club.

Howard Nahikian, JA program director, said the awards dinner is held each year to thank the advisers for the more than 30 weeks they devote to JA. Without the advisers, Johnson said, there would be no program.

Blossomland Junior Achievement is headquartered on Highland avenue, St. Joseph. JA consists of high school students forming companies for production and sale of products with assistance of adult advisers from business and industry.

Also honored: Carmen Colella, Mark Trierweiler and Micki Goff of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; Douglas Carpenter and Arthur Weaver of Gast Mfg. Co.; Jere Spence and Mick Hartung of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.; Ronald Fritz of Bendix; James Bowser of Burch Printers; Robert Thompson of New Products Corp.; and Fred Hartzel of Saluto Foods Corp.

The JA program now has seven companies with over 200 students from Benton Harbor, Lakeshore, Lake Michigan Catholic and St. Joseph high schools participating. In the three years, membership has increased 40 per cent and attendance is up 51 per cent. The local JA is one of 58 units in an 11-state area. It has been second in attendance per company for 18 out of 20 weeks.

Nahikian said JA hopes to have nine companies next year which would utilize the full capacity of the facility on Highland avenue.

LINCOLN TWP. AWARDED TELEPHONE HEARING

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

Lincoln township board learned last night the state public service commission has changed its mind and will hold a public hearing on a request by a group of township residents seeking transfer from Mid-Michigan Telephone company service to Michigan Bell service.

Ernest Hauch, township supervisor, said he was contacted yesterday afternoon by Joel Sharkey, of the public service commission office, and was informed that the request has been re-evaluated and a public hearing involving all parties involved will be held.

Date for the hearing before the three-member commission has been scheduled for Monday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m. A hearing site has not been decided on as yet, but Mrs. Bernice Tretheway, township clerk, said it would be held somewhere in the township.

The township board in February sent letters to the commission, both telephone companies, and area state legislators condemning the commission's initial denial of the township's residents request for such a hearing before the state commission.

Hauch said township residents could thank Rep. Harry Gast Jr., (R-St. Joseph) and Sen. Charles O. Zollar, (R-Benton Harbor) "for the commission's apparent change of heart on the matter."

"It's no guarantee that the phone service transfer request will be approved," Mrs. Tretheway said, "but at least township residents will have a chance to have their say before the state commission."

Petitions seeking the transfer had been signed by some 190 township residents in Mid-Michigan's 465 Bridgman exchange. Mid-Michigan serves a small part of Lincoln township and Lake township, Baroda, New Troy, Bridgman and Sawyer areas. Michigan Bell serves the major portion of Lincoln township.

In other areas, the township board approved a sewer interceptor extension agreement between Lincoln township, St. Joseph township, and the Lake Michigan Shoreline Water and Sewage Treatment authority for extending the Hickory Creek sewer interceptor to the Twin Cities sewage disposal plant.

The three have been working on such an agreement for the past six months. Lincoln township board is the first party to formally adopt the agreement.

The agreement calls for construction of a lift station and a 20-inch forced main line into the disposal plant at an estimated cost of $608,100. Lincoln township's share would be approximately $75,700, Gerald Wahl, township treasurer, has previously stated.

Board members Wahl, Anthony Dloughy and Fred Albrecht, were named to a committee to investigate the operation of Omega Communications cable-television franchise in the Coloma-Watervliet area. The invitation was made by Craig McCrystal, who told the board last night the firm would like to have a cable-television franchise in Lincoln township.

A proposal to widen the shoulder on the north side of John Beers road from the Stevensville village limit to the Lakeshore high school was tabled. Estimated cost of the project would be $30,500, according to Mrs. Tretheway, and may require an additional half-mill levy.

The board approved setting the building inspector fee at $20 for new house trailers in the township, as required by the recently adopted state building code.

Wahl reported that 94.5 per cent of 1974 property tax collections have been collected, about the same as last year at this time.

Arthur Grau, township cemetery sexton, notified the board that annual spring clean up at the cemetery is about to start, and requests that persons remove floral requested pots and other items around gravesites, until the clean up is completed.

The township's annual settlement day has been slated for Tuesday, March 25, at 8 p.m., and the annual township meeting will be Saturday, April 5, at 1 p.m. Both meetings will be held at the township hall, Stevensville.

Students Saving Berrien $10,000

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A diesel engine training class at Andrews university here intends to save Berrien county almost $10,000 in repair costs when the class completes repairs on a county-owned generator next month, according to Don LaPorte, the instructor. The manufacturer, Cummins, Inc., had estimated cost at $10,000, but LaPorte, charging only for parts, said he and the class would be able lower the costs to about $200.

He said the manufacturer of the $73,000 generator may have anticipated doing a complete overhaul, which LaPorte said was not necessary. When repaired, the county plans to use the generator in the county jail in St. Joseph or Berrien General hospital at Berrien Center.

The engine was brought to the university after it quit operating.

Training in diesel mechanics is being offered this quarter for the first time by the center for occupational education, a vocational training department under the university's college of technology.

Those completing the training will be qualified for natnal diesel mechanic certification and will be eligible for immediate employment at most repair centers, according to Melvin Andersen, director of the center.

Credit for the program can also apply towards a baccalaureate degree, he added.

TO REPAIR DIESEL ENGINE: Don LaPorte, instructor at Andrews university, Berrien Springs, and his diesel engine training class will repair Berrien county-owned generator as class project this quarter. When repairs have been completed, county will use generator in county jail, in St. Joseph, or Berrien General hospital in Berrien Center.

Adventure Exciting For Teens

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Three teenagers aboard the icebreaker Glacier when it broke loose from nine days of entrapment in the antarctic icepack say the adventure was "fantastic and exciting."

The 309-foot Coast Guard ship, with the three Sea Scouts and 138 crewmen aboard, was in clear water today and speeding toward home port here.

The United States' biggest and most powerful icebreaker became trapped when two blades on one of its two propellers were sheared by an ice pack building rapidly with the approach of winter in the Southern Hemisphere.

Junior Achievement Advisers Honored

Twenty-two advisers to Blossomland Junior Achievement were honored last night at a dinner hosted by the board of directors at Berrien Hills Country club.

Howard Nahikian, JA program director, said the awards dinner is held each year to thank the advisers for the more than 30 weeks they devote to JA. Without the advisers, Johnson said, there would be no program.

Blossomland Junior Achievement is headquartered on Highland avenue, St. Joseph. JA consists of high school students forming companies for production and sale of products with assistance of adult advisers from business and industry.

Also honored: Carmen Colella, Mark Trierweiler and Micki Goff of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; Douglas Carpenter and Arthur Weaver of Gast Mfg. Co.; Jere Spence and Mick Hartung of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.; Ronald Fritz of Bendix; James Bowser of Burch Printers; Robert Thompson of New Products Corp.; and Fred Hartzel of Saluto Foods Corp.

The JA program now has seven companies with over 200 students from Benton Harbor, Lakeshore, Lake Michigan Catholic and St. Joseph high schools participating. In the three years, membership has increased 40 per cent and attendance is up 51 per cent. The local JA is one of 58 units in an 11-state area. It has been second in attendance per company for 18 out of 20 weeks.

Nahikian said JA hopes to have nine companies next year which would utilize the full capacity of the facility on Highland avenue.

SMC Board Buys School Equipment

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan college board last night approved purchase of equipment totaling $3,378.

One purchase involved a gas chromatograph for use in connection with SMC's technology program from Carle Industries, Inc., Fullerton, Calif., for $1,895. The machine analyses chemical compounds.

Five electronic calculators for use in business course instruction were also approved for purchase from Remco Office Machines, South Bend, Ind., for $1,483.

In other areas, the board approved appointment of 65 part-time faculty employed for the 1975 spring semester.

The board also accepted contributions to the scholarship fund in the amount of $200 from the Michigan Licensed Beverage association, and $100 from the Lyle Wooster Duck club of Dowagiac.

The board honored SMC's national championship junior college cross country by presenting members of the squad with framed resolutions of tribute which had been adopted by the Michigan senate. Dr. Fred Mathews, board chairman, presented the framed resolutions to team members.

Appeals Court Rules In Favor Of Detroit Edison

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — There was something for everyone to be happy about in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal's review of racial discrimination charges against the Detroit Edison Co.

The appellate court Tuesday reversed U.S. District Court Judge Damon Keith's 1973 ruling which could have awarded millions of dollars to persons who said they were discouraged from applying for employment because of racial discrimination policies.

However, attorneys for blacks who brought the suit said they planned an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Edison said it too may appeal parts of the earlier ruling which were upheld.

"We are gratified with the decision handed down by the circuit court of appeals which reversed major portions of a lower court order in the discrimination case against this company," said William G. Meese, president and chief executive officer of Detroit Edison.

"We are gratified it supports our firm claim and conviction that this company has never been guilty of malicious or intentional discrimination."

While excluding the so-called "phantom class" from participation in the suit and eliminating $4 million in punitive damages, the appellate court did uphold many of the district court's contentions that Detroit Edison had practiced racial discrimination in hiring and promotions.

The utility expressed disappointment when the appellate court failed to overturn an imposed quota system which would require Detroit Edison to hire blacks until they constitute 30 per cent of the company's work force, and which would require that one black supervisor be appointed for every white supervisor appointed. The appellate court amended this latter requirement, saying if no qualified black could be found, the position need not be filled in the prescribed manner.

"This decision is a great victory for black workers in Detroit and throughout the United States," said William Gould of San Francisco. Gould has been arguing the case for the American Civil Libertie Union for four years.

"It proves that the pillars of the community, who preach peity, but do not practice it, are not immune from the law," Gould said.

"The decision today clearly vindicated Judge Keith's findings that Edison engaged in egregious and deliberate racial discrimination."

In its unanimous ruling, the appellate court ruled that once Judge Keith defined the class bringing suit as being all black Edison employes, he could not change the definition when he issued his decision.

At that time, he referred to the class as consisting of "all black employes who would have applied but for the defendants discriminatory policy between 1965 and 1973."

APRIL 1 DEADLINE ON TAX HIKE

Milliken Won't Get Wish

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A proposed income tax increase of seven-tenths of one per cent appears unlikely to clear the legislature before the April 1 deadline suggested by the governor.

Gov. William Milliken has asked the legislature to act on the proposal by the end of this month so the increase can be collected beginning May 1. Milliken says the timing is necessary to help the state meet a projected deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Milliken has said an additional increase of one-tenth of a percentage point will be needed for each month the legislature delays adopting the tax hike.

But lawmakers said Tuesday they were wary of hasty action on the measure and wanted to coordinate it with action on business taxes.

Milliken proposed several weeks ago the legislature adopt a so-called Business Privilege Tax Bill to replace myriad tax legislation currently on the books. But lawmakers won't get their first look at the 45page, $800 million bill until today.

The income tax increase currently is awaiting action in the House Taxation Committee, which will meet again today after the new business tax bill is introduced and explained.

"Maybe by then we will have our marching orders from the leadership," said Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, the committee chairman.

The sponsor of the tax-hike bill, Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Lapeer, said he doubts action could be completed by April 1.

"I am an optimist, but I'm hardly that optimistic," he said.

The legislature is scheduled to take a two-week recess starting March 27, so action would have to be complete by then to keep to Milliken's schedule. A month is needed to get the increase into operation.

Major items holding the bill back are demands it be changed to give a tax break to low-income families. This would be accomplished by raising the personal tax exemption from the present $1,500 to $2,000.

As an alternative, a system of tax credits would be given to low-income families while the general tax increase would be 1.1 per cent instead of seven-tenths of a per cent.

Republicans have threatened to withdraw support from the tax increase bill if the Democrats succeed in including extra benefits for low-income people.

And even if the measure somehow clears the House in time, it still will require approval in the Senate, where the Taxation Committee chairman, John T. Bowman, D-Roseville, has pledged to seek alternate ways to raise needed revenue.

SALT Panel Sets Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The joint U.S.-Soviet commission that monitors compliance with the nuclear arms limitation agreements will meet again next month because of continuing American concern over "ambiguous" Russian actions.

U.S. officials stress there is no evidence of Russian violations of the SALT accords and the meeting of the Standing Consultative Commission will deal primarily with procedures.

Want To Limit State Spending

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two state lawmakers have introduced a constitutional amendment to limit state spending.

The amendment requires passage by two-thirds of both chambers of the legislature and approval by Michigan voters. It would provide that governmental spending in Michigan could not exceed 8.3 per cent of the total individual income of Michigan residents.

The sponsors of the resolution, Sens. John Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, and John Bowman, D-Roseville, said the intent is to make "government live within its means."

A similar measure, initiated last year by a referendum petition drive, fell short of signatures needed to place it on the ballot.

No Unanticipated Snags

Kissinger Shuttle Continues

JERUSALEM (AP) — The negotiations for a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement have turned up no problems so far that Israel did not anticipate, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger resumed his shuttle diplomacy.

BOOKWORM: A braille story book is engrossing to blind sixth grader Elizabeth White, 11, during a visit to the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped at a Public Library branch in New York City. "We all feel we are now laboring in a very crucial period in which important developments may or may not take place," Allon said Tuesday night after Kissinger returned from Turkey and met for an hour with Israeli negotiators in Premier Yitzhak Rabin's office.

Kissinger was meeting again today with Rabin and his aides and then flying to Aswan, in upper Egypt, to see President Anwar Sadat.

Egypt is demanding that Israel give up the strategic Gidi and Mitla mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfields in the Sinai desert. In return, Israel wants Egypt to end its 26-yearold state of war against the Jewish state and open the Suez Canal to cargo to and from Israel.

Although Sadat has said a declaration of non-belligerency could only be part of a final Arab-Israeli peace treaty, the semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram said a limited pledge by both sides to refrain from military action was under consideration.

Quoting official sources, it said Israel and Egypt pledged in their first disengagement agreement last year to refrain from undertaking any naval, air or land operations against each other in the Suez Canal area.

"Discussions are now under way to agree on similar arrangements" for the expanded area that would be covered by a new disengagement agreement, it said. It indicated that the United Nations might be asked to supply naval forces to police the agreement in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

Kissinger told newsmen that he believed his talks Tuesday in Ankara with Turkish leaders resulted in progress toward a resumption of negotiations between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities to decide the political future of the divided Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

"We are trying to find a framework for the negotiations, but a detailed basis will have to be developed by the negotiators themselves," he said.

U.S. officials in Kissinger's party said the talks between the two Cypriot communities would resume "fairly soon" in Nicosia and would move later to Vienna.

The officials said Turkey has been quietly reducing its occupation force on Cyprus and is willing to give up some of the northern 40 per cent of the island which it occupied in the invasion last summer.

Diplomats at U.N. headquarters in New York said Kissinger proposed that the Security Council call for the negotiations to resume under the "auspices and direction" of SecretaryGeneral Kurt Waldheim. They said the Turks accepted this, but the Greek Cypriots demanded that Waldheim be chairman of the negotiations, giving him a stronger role. The Turks rejected this earlier.

Black Teen Jobless Rate 65%

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A University of Pennsylvania professor estimates that 65 per cent of America's black teenagers are unemployed.

He says if the economy doesn't improve quickly an entire generation of young blacks will enter adulthood in the 1980s without ever having held a job.

Dr. Bernard Anderson, assistant professor of industry at Penn's Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, said about 570,000 of the approximately 880,000 black youths between 16 and 19 can't find jobs.

He said this compares with a jobless rate of about 25 per cent among the nation's 7.5 million white teen-agers.

"The implications and ramifications are absolutely disastrous," Anderson said during an interview Tuesday.

"What this means is that a very large number of black teenagers, especially in the inner cities, cannot look with any optimism on holding a full-time job for any length of time between now and adulthood.

"I don't want to scare anybody. I don't want this to be a horror story. But we have a problem here. This is why we have a high crime rate. We have hundreds of kids standing around doing nothing. This is why we have a teenage gang problem."

Anderson acknowledged that recent U.S. Labor Department figures place the unemployment rate for young blacks at 41.1 per cent nationally, but he said they fail to account for those between 16 and 19 who have stopped hunting for work.

"Thousands of young blacks have withdrawn from the labor market," he said. "They are discouraged and have given up looking."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics' January figures estimated there were 580,000 "discouraged workers" in the United States. But these are not broken down into racial or age categories.

Andrew G. Freeman, executive director of the Philadelphia Urban League, said the current unemployment rate among young blacks "will shoot upward when school is out.

"Government-created employment is our only short-range hope. Long-range plans should include vocational training and literacy training."

Mary Jane Urbansky, the league's employment specialist, said more than 75 per cent of approximately 100 job applications now processed weekly in Philadelphia are from young blacks.

"We are finding out that under the current conditions, if you go into the labor market at age 21, and have no work experience, employers are not going to look at you," she said.

Aid Hinges On Dem Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic policy vote could determine the chances for House approval of emergency U.S. military aid for Cambodia, already narrowly endorsed by a Senate subcommittee. The House Democratic Caucus policy vote scheduled today could provide the first, broad measure of House sentiment about President Ford's Cambodia aid request if enough members show up.

No Unanticipated Snags

Kissinger Shuttle Continues

JERUSALEM (AP) — The negotiations for a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement have turned up no problems so far that Israel did not anticipate, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger resumed his shuttle diplomacy.

"We all feel we are now laboring in a very crucial period in which important developments may or may not take place," Allon said Tuesday night after Kissinger returned from Turkey and met for an hour with Israeli negotiators in Premier Yitzhak Rabin's office.

Kissinger was meeting again today with Rabin and his aides and then flying to Aswan, in upper Egypt, to see President Anwar Sadat.

Egypt is demanding that Israel give up the strategic Gidi and Mitla mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfields in the Sinai desert. In return, Israel wants Egypt to end its 26-yearold state of war against the Jewish state and open the Suez Canal to cargo to and from Israel.

Although Sadat has said a declaration of non-belligerency could only be part of a final Arab-Israeli peace treaty, the semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram said a limited pledge by both sides to refrain from military action was under consideration.

Quoting official sources, it said Israel and Egypt pledged in their first disengagement agreement last year to refrain from undertaking any naval, air or land operations against each other in the Suez Canal area.

"Discussions are now under way to agree on similar arrangements" for the expanded area that would be covered by a new disengagement agreement, it said. It indicated that the United Nations might be asked to supply naval forces to police the agreement in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

Kissinger told newsmen that he believed his talks Tuesday in Ankara with Turkish leaders resulted in progress toward a resumption of negotiations between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities to decide the political future of the divided Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

"We are trying to find a framework for the negotiations, but a detailed basis will have to be developed by the negotiators themselves," he said.

U.S. officials in Kissinger's party said the talks between the two Cypriot communities would resume "fairly soon" in Nicosia and would move later to Vienna.

The officials said Turkey has been quietly reducing its occupation force on Cyprus and is willing to give up some of the northern 40 per cent of the island which it occupied in the invasion last summer.

Diplomats at U.N. headquarters in New York said Kissinger proposed that the Security Council call for the negotiations to resume under the "auspices and direction" of SecretaryGeneral Kurt Waldheim. They said the Turks accepted this, but the Greek Cypriots demanded that Waldheim be chairman of the negotiations, giving him a stronger role. The Turks rejected this earlier.

Breast Cancer Patterns Reported

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Women whose breasts increase in density or have a very prominent duct pattern are statistically more likely to develop cancer, a radiological researcher reports.

Dr. John N. Wolfe, chief of the radiology department of Hutzel Hospital, says he has uncovered a distinct correlation between the internal composition of the breast and its susceptibility to cancer.

In a five-year study of mammograms taken at the hospital, Wolfe found that cancer was 22 times more likely to develop in a breast with increased density and up to 17 times more likely to develop in a breast with very prominent duct patterns than in a normal breast.

"The determination is not absolute, but sufficiently accurate to have considerable application in breast cancer screening programs and in the everyday clinical practice of breast cancer detection of symptomatic women," Dr. Wolfe said.

He suggested the finding would be a source of substantial relief from worry for the portion of the female population over 30 years old — about 42 per cent in the study — that has normal breasts composed of fat and some connective tissue.

At the same time, it would suggest the need for regular examinations for women with prominent duct development or increased breast density, he said.

Dr. Wolfe said doctors could discover 76 per cent of the breast cancer cases by screening the right 27 per cent of the population, and could find 93 per cent of the cancer cases by screening only the right 58 per cent.

Dr. Wolfe noted that most, but not all, breast cancers are accompanied by increased development of ducts and fibrous tissue. He suggested that two paths of development of breast cancers may exist — one related to breast density and ducts and the other unrelated.

In the study, women who developed cancer within six months of the radiograms were not counted. This was to insure the conditions of breast composition were not directly related to the cancer itself.

Many of the women involved in the sample underwent radiograms to determine if a lump discovered in their breast was malignant. Women with benign lumps fell into all four categories of breast composition used by Dr. Wolfe, and the study attempted no correlation between the reporting of lumps and the later development of cancer.

The breast characteristics described in the study have no accompanying outward appearance and can be determined only through radiological examinations.

In the study, only one-tenth of one per cent of the women with normal, fatty breasts developed cancer in the study period. The figure was four-tenths of a per cent for cases showing a beaded linear pattern of prominent ducts, 1.7 per cent in severe prominent duct cases and 2.2 per cent for those with a general increase in breast density.

Van Buren OKs Juvenile Friends Funds

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Pal Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren county board of commissioners voted yesterday to recommend to its finance committee that the county's Juvenile Court Friends program be granted an appropriation of $2,000 for fiscal 1975.

The money would be the county's share of matching funds for the program's $53,000 annual budget. The state also contributes $2,000, with the federal government funding the remaining $46,582.

The program is now in its second year, and uses adults to act as counselors for young people who have problems or have been in trouble with the law.

Under the terms of the grant, the county would be required to pick up 50 per cent of the program's cost next year, and the entire amount the following year, according to commision Chairman Walter Stickels.

Stickels said he felt that it was important that it be demonstrated the program was actually making progress.

Miss Sheryl Daines, the program's director, said she thought the program's goals were being accomplished, noting that only three or four of the juveniles referred for help had gotten into serious trouble again.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky commented that he would arrange to get samples of reports filed by program volunteers on the progress of cases for commissioners.

In other areas, the board rejected a request by the Hartford Jaycees to allow United Migrants for Opportunity to occupy office space in the old county social services building at the Van Buren fairgrounds. The Jaycees lease the building at a rate of $1 every three years.

Stickels said he objected to the migrant group because they fermented labor trouble and were "a detriment to our farmers."

Commissioner Donald Hanson reported that the Department of Natural Resources had recommended the county enact an ordiance prohibiting the use of motor boats and water skiing on Shafer lake in Lawrence township between 6:30 p.m. and 10 a.m. Lake residents had petitioned for such an ordinance earlier, and Hanson said a public hearing should be scheduled to formally adopt one.

Hanson also announced that the township association in the county had adopted a fee schedule for residential and commercial building inspection. He said there would be a flat rate of $30 charged, plus four cents per square foot up to 5,000 feet. After 5,000 square feet, it would be an additional one cent a foot.

The inspection fee for residential garages will be $10, plus two cents a square foot, Hanson said.

Commissioners also voted to request the state for plumbing inspection assistance until such time as the inspection could be handled locally.

Dr. James Davis, county health department director, was appointed to the mental health board, and Dr. Paul Sundin of Decatur was named to the county health board, replacing Dr. John McNulty of Hartford who resigned.

Approved for purchase were a $3,926 duplicating system for the agricultural extension office, and a $1,500 copier for Seventh district court, South Haven.

The board also agreed to accept $2,000 as insurance settlement for a sheriff's department car wrecked in an accident Feb. 5.

Cass Board Holds Line At '74 Tax Take

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county board of commissioners voted yesterday to freeze at the 1974 level the amount of property taxes it will collect to finance county operations in 1976.

Commissioner Charles Sarabyn of Dowagiac said that if it is necessary, the county will reduce its 5.75 mills property tax levy to keep tax collections at the $1,221,202 figure the county expects to collect in 1974 taxes.

Without the county action, Sarabyn said, escalating property values would have produced higher tax bills for just county government operations alone.

The tax rate is applied against the taxable property value to determine the amount of taxes due.

"This can be our plan for holding our own if nothing is done by the state legislature," said Sarabyn. He is also chairman of the board's finance committee.

Commissioner Donald Martin of Howard township added that "...this is one chance that this board has to strike a blow for the taxpayer."

Sarabyn said the county's current operating budget is $2,040,000, and the remainder of the budget is made up from state revenue sharing funds, district court fines and costs, interest earned on investments and departmental income.

Sarabyn said he believes the county "...can live within our means" by keeping property tax collections at the $1,221,202 figure.

The board in its motion to hold the line on tax funds it collects for county use, urged schools, townships and villages to take similar action.

Unvoted tax rates are fixed in Cass county and county government can use any part or all of its allocated 5.75 mills.

Townships can levy up to a mill of unvoted tax; the school districts nine mills; and the intermediate school district, one-fourth of a mill. The county has no authority over what portion of the unvoted allocation each levies against property tax values.

In other action during its monthly meeting, the board tabled a proposal to increase the salaries of the county treasurer and register of deeds to match the salaries of the county clerk and sheriff.

The clerk and sheriff recently got pay boosts up to $13,300 each. The treasurer and register of deeds presently receive $10,200 each yearly. A public hearing was scheduled for 7 p.m., March 24, at the courthouse, on a proposed county nuisance abatement ordinance that would control accumulation of trash and junk.

The purchase of a lot and house just east of the social services department was approved at a cost of $14,000 from Morton Snead.

The board accepted and put on file a petition bearing signatures of 1,111 persons asking that the planned medical care facility be located on county-owned land near the present facility southwest of Cassopolis.

The board allocated $11,000 in the county's 1976 budget for the Cass county Youth Services bureau.

The health department administrator Owen Gordon was authorized to investigate a landfill system where trash and papers from county offices could be disposed of.

Man Bound Over On Arson Charge

Alvis Cagle, Jr., 32, of 1009 Thomas street, Benton Heights, charged with setting fire to his house last month, was bound over to circuit court yesterday on a charge of arson.

Also in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday one person demanded examination on a felony charge, six were sentenced and a charge against another was dismissed.

Cagle waived examination on the arson charge and was freed on $2,500 personal recognizance bond. He was arrested after a fire at his home destroyed one bedroom on Feb. 27.

Demanding examination in District court was Michael Lee Byers, 28, of 665 East Vineyard, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking and entering a Benton Harbor house at 700 East Washington Feb. 12. He was freed on $2,500 bond.

Sentenced were:

David Lee Shaw, 19, of 1024 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, fine and costs of $200 or 30 days in jail for possession of a blank pistol March 11 in Benton township and $200 or 30 days in jail for use of marijuana at the same time.

Alvis L. Dixon, 23, of 995 Buss, Benton Harbor, $150 or 20 days in jail for petty larceny of a bracelet from Benton township Goldblatts June 24.

Sentenced for impaired driving were: Marvin Jones, 31, of Benton Harbor, $150; Kenneth R. Teske, 44, of 812 Polfus, Benton township, $150; Willie N. Hall, 47, of 629 Baird street, Benton Harbor, $500, for second offense.

A charge of uttering and publishing a false $85 check, lodged against Tyrone J. Hitchcock, 26, of 1008 Superior, Benton Harbor, was dismissed. Asst. Prosecutor Sally Zack stated the charge was dismissed because Hitchcock "is currently residing in Jackson Prison."

Paw Paw Man Asks Hearing In Stabbing

PAW PAW — Jerry Dale DeProw, 29, 109 Michigan avenue, Paw Paw, demanded preliminary examination on charges of resisting arrest and assault with intent to do great bodily harm when arraigned yesterday in Seventh district court.

Preliminary examination was scheduled for March 19, and bond set at $2,500 on the resisting arrest charge and $3,000 on the assault charge.

DeProw was arrested Monday night following a fight near the Paw Paw village hall in which Robert Larry Brown, 30, of Kalamazoo,suffered a knife wound in the abdomen, according to village police. Brown was listed in good condition at Lake View Community hospital, Paw Paw, according to hospital authorities.

Sgt. George Fadel said the stabbing occurred at about 10:55 p.m. after Brown had left a nearby bar. He said there were conflicting reports as to what happened, and that the case was still under investigation.

The resisting arrest charge stemmed from a complaint by Officer Larry Fisher that he had been assaulted while attempting to take DeProw into custody, police said.

In other cases, Erwin Ray Routheaux, 25, Box 357, Watervliet, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of resisting arrest Monday in Hartford.

Routheaux was accused of resisting Officers George Keeler and Vic Bunce of the Hartford police after they attempted to take him into custody on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Bruce Wayne Smith, 19, 512½ North LaGrave, Paw Paw, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of breaking and entering.

Couple Wins License Plate Case

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A New Hampshire couple has been given the green light to drive their car with a portion of the state motto on the license plate blocked out.

George and Maxine Maynard were granted a court injunction Tuesday allowing them to tape over the motto "Live Free or Die" on their registration plate.

The couple had been arrested twice for obliterating the motto. They said the slogan conflicted with their religious beliefs about life and death.

Paw Paw Man Asks Hearing In Stabbing

PAW PAW — Jerry Dale DeProw, 29, 109 Michigan avenue, Paw Paw, demanded preliminary examination on charges of resisting arrest and assault with intent to do great bodily harm when arraigned yesterday in Seventh district court.

Preliminary examination was scheduled for March 19, and bond set at $2,500 on the resisting arrest charge and $3,000 on the assault charge.

DeProw was arrested Monday night following a fight near the Paw Paw village hall in which Robert Larry Brown, 30, of Kalamazoo,suffered a knife wound in the abdomen, according to village police. Brown was listed in good condition at Lake View Community hospital, Paw Paw, according to hospital authorities.

Sgt. George Fadel said the stabbing occurred at about 10:55 p.m. after Brown had left a nearby bar. He said there were conflicting reports as to what happened, and that the case was still under investigation.

The resisting arrest charge stemmed from a complaint by Officer Larry Fisher that he had been assaulted while attempting to take DeProw into custody, police said.

In other cases, Erwin Ray Routheaux, 25, Box 357, Watervliet, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of resisting arrest Monday in Hartford.

Routheaux was accused of resisting Officers George Keeler and Vic Bunce of the Hartford police after they attempted to take him into custody on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Bruce Wayne Smith, 19, 512½ North LaGrave, Paw Paw, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of breaking and entering.

Couple Wins License Plate Case

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A New Hampshire couple has been given the green light to drive their car with a portion of the state motto on the license plate blocked out.

George and Maxine Maynard were granted a court injunction Tuesday allowing them to tape over the motto "Live Free or Die" on their registration plate.

The couple had been arrested twice for obliterating the motto. They said the slogan conflicted with their religious beliefs about life and death.

LaForce Engine Is Still Alive

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a two-month probe, Senate investigators are about to recommend that the experimental LaForce automobile engine be given a second chance to prove developers' claims that it can nearly double normal fuel mileage, The Associated Press has learned.

In a report expected to be published today, the Senate Commerce Committee staff says tests of the controversial engine to date cast doubt on the developers' claims but fail to prove the Environmental Protection Agency's outspoken denunciation of the engine's potential.

The committee's investigating team found unresolved conflicts in various test data and plans to recommend that new tests be conducted by an independent laboratory and, if results are promising, that the agency run its tests again.

Both the agency and the Vermont firm that owns the LaForce car have indicated they would follow the recommendation.

The developers of the engine, brothers Robert and Edward LaForce, said last year their improvements to the standard internal combustion engine could significantly improve fuel economy and still meet exhaust emission standards without losing power.

The EPA tested a LaForce-modified American Motors Hornet in Ann Arbor, Mich., and reported the car suffered significant horsepower loss when compared with a standard Hornet and failed to meet 1975 emissions standards in simulated city driving.

The agency also said the car got only slightly better mileage than what the agency termed an "economy-tuned" Hornet.

In the copy of the Senate committee staff report obtained by The AP, the investigators said their team "feels that it is important to resolve the discrepancy between the LaForce horsepower test results as determined by EPA and the horsepower results obtained independently in tests conducted in Vermont and Delaware." The Vermont and Delaware tests indicated the LaForce car suffered no appreciable power loss.

The investigators said they also discovered the EPA's reference to comparing the LaForce car to an "economy-tuned" Hornet was highly misleading.

"Actually," the report says, "the changes that were made by EPA personnel to the 1974 Hornet to transform it into the 'economy-tuned' vehicle were much more than simple calibration changes. The changes made by EPA personnel constituted tampering with the vehicle, to the extent that any manufacturer or dealer who made identical changes would have violated the law."

Portuguese Military In Control

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's leftist military rulers announced today that they are assuming permanent political powers following an attack by two air force planes on an artillery regiment near the Lisbon airport.

After an all-night session, the 200 officers of the ruling Armed Forces Movement announced that elections for an assembly to write a new constitution would be held as scheduled April 12. But they said they were setting up a new Revolutionary Council to "institutionalize" military participation in the country's political life.

The Communist party, which has one member in Premier Vasco Goncalves' cabinet, seemed likely to get the additional representation it has been demanding. The officers voted their full support to any changes Goncalves wants to make, and the premier in a broadcast statement said the "political analysis of the Communist party has always been correct."

The military regime termed the brief attack Tuesday an uprising which it blamed on "reactionary" elements headed by Gen. Antonio Spinola, the military government's first president. Spinola's successor, President Francisco da Costa Gomes, appealed for calm and said the government was in complete control.

Brig. Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, the government's security chief, implicated the United States, saying U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci "had better leave after what happened today."

"I categorically deny that the U.S. Embassy or the government was in any way involved in events in Lisbon today," said a State Department spokesman in Washington.

Military units took up positions around the U.S. Embassy as leftists surged into the street to show support for the government. A mob sacked the headquarters of the conservative Center Democratic party.

Spinola, a conservative who was ousted by leftist generals last September, fled by helicopter with his wife and 18 officers to a Spanish air force base just across the border. Unconfirmed reports said they contacted diplomatic representatives of Brazil, which gave asylum to the president and premier of the Portuguese dictatorship ousted last April.

The Spanish government announced that it also had nothing to do with the events in Portugal.

The Portuguese government closed the border with Spain and said Spinola, once the hero of the military revolution, headed a list of 28 officers who would be "arrested, tried and punished." But by then he had made his escape.

The only fighting reported was the bombing and strafing attack by two propeller-driven, air force training planes on the 1st Light Artillery Regiment barracks. A military spokesman said the attack broke windows and put holes in roof tiles of a number of buildings and slightly wounded several soldiers.

The spokesman said a unit of paratroops surrounded the barracks but were later withdrawn. Officers of the paratroop unit said they did not know exactly why they had been sent to the barracks or on whose orders.

Spinola, a figurehead for the military revolution against the 45-year dictatorship, was forced out of the presidency when he tried to get some real power at the expense of the leftist-dominated Armed Forces Movement, the officers' group that led the revolution.

With elections for a constitutional assembly scheduled next month, moderate officers have recently been reported challenging the dominant influence of leftist officers.

There has been some indication of a shift back toward the center.

Unconfirmed reports said they contacted diplomatic representatives of Brazil, which gave asylum to the president and premier of the Portuguese dictatorship ousted last April.

The Spanish government announced that it also had nothing to do with the events in Portugal.

The Portuguese government closed the border with Spain and said Spinola, once the hero of the military revolution, headed a list of 28 officers who would be "arrested, tried and punished." But by then he had made his escape.

The only fighting reported was the bombing and strafing attack by two propeller-driven, air force training planes on the 1st Light Artillery Regiment barracks. A military spokesman said the attack broke windows and put holes in roof tiles of a number of buildings and slightly wounded several soldiers.

The spokesman said a unit of paratroops surrounded the barracks but were later withdrawn. Officers of the paratroop unit said they did not know exactly why they had been sent to the barracks or on whose orders.

Spinola, a figurehead for the military revolution against the 45-year dictatorship, was forced out of the presidency when he tried to get some real power at the expense of the leftist-dominated Armed Forces Movement, the officers' group that led the revolution.

With elections for a constitutional assembly scheduled next month, moderate officers have recently been reported challenging the dominant influence of leftist officers.

There has been some indication of a shift back toward the center.

Oronoko Building Permit Total May Be New Low

BERRIEN SPRINGS—Building permits in Oronoko township were lower last month than any other month in memory, according to a report that Building Inspector Robert Pagel gave the township board last night.

Only one building permit was issued last month. It was for a single-family residence and was issued to James L. Ware, 514 Kephart lane.

Two house trailer permits were also issued in connection with the project. Costs of the permits amounted to $33.38.

In other areas, the board learned in a report on February cemetery operations that $1,010 had been received for sale of eight lots and six burials. The figure was at least three times the normal month's figure, township officials said.

An anti-smut ordinance similar to one adopted recently by Berrien Springs village was approved by the board. The village ordinance came as a result of complaints about x-rated films being shown in a theatr in downtown Berrien Springs. Township action came because the board indicated the control measure might prevent possible future problems in the township.

The board approved spending $300 for the annual July 4 program in conjunction with Berrien Springs.

The board agreed to share the cost of fire equipment for the Berrien Springs volunteer fire department with the village, but delayed appropriating the money until the 1975 budget is approved next month.

The fire department is requesting a total of $3,000 The department wants to replace the 12-year-old protective coats for the 20 volunteers at a cost of $1,150.

Other requests from the fire department include $750 for a new pump for the four-wheel drive fire engine, $400 for new helmets for the volunteers, $400 for new boots, $200 for an electric door opener, and $55 for a first aid kit.

Richard Schinkel, trustee and police commission member, reported that Jack Davis had been elected police commissioner at the most recent police commission meeting.

Schinkel also reported that the appeals board had ruled that a double-wide house trailer owned by Ben Higgenbothem met the building code standards and should be classified as a residence. The ruling was contingent upon a few minor repairs being completed by Higgenbothem.

Dr. Lele, professor of experimental medicine in the Department of Mechanical Engineering, predicts that the computerized system will be ready for clinical use within 18 months. It will compare the absorption of ultrasound by dead and living tissue, to determine precisely which areas of the heart are killed by heart attack. (AP Wirephoto)

Decatur Township Board Sets Annual Meeting For April 5

DECATUR — Decatur township board last night set its annual meeting for April 5 at 2 p.m. in the township hall. In other areas, the board took no action on sandblasting or chemically treating the exterior of the township hall. Supervisor Joseph Miller said the cost would range from $650 to $750 for either method.

The board approved renewing the supervisor's membership in the state assessor's association, and also approved a pay raise from $2 to $2.50 an hour for Deron Paul, the cemetery sexton. Miller reported township employes are currently working on cleaning roadside areas, particularly at crossroads allowing for better vision.

Free Hearing Tests Offered Next Week

Free hearing tests will be offered next week Tuesday through Friday at three locations in the Twin Cities to identify adults in Berrien county who have hearing problems.

The Michigan Association for Better Hearing and Speech, a United Way of Michigan agency, will provide the hearing tests in cooperation with the Berrien County Health department and Lions clubs of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph

The tests will be given at a mobile unit which is scheduled to be at Hilltop center, Hilltop road, St. Joseph township, March 18; Thrifty Loan company, Broad street, St. Joseph, March 19, and Fairplain plaza, M-139, March 20 and 21. The unit will offer the examinations from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 3 to 7 p.m. at all locations.

After people with hearing problems are identified, appropriate diagnostic tests will be provided on an appointment basis, according to Dr. Robert Locey, county health department director.

People who feel that their hearing loss is affecting their employment in any way are asked to bring their social security number when obtaining the screening tests, Dr. Locey said.

State vocational rehabilitation specialists will also be available to consult with individuals who are having employment problems resulting from hearing loss, Dr. Locey said, and referrals will be made for medical attention.

Pennant Only 'Race' Issue For Indians, Robinson

"Things were different then. We couldn't stay with the rest of the team. We stayed in private homes," the player-manager of the Cleveland Indians said after a spring workout here.

By "we" he meant the black players on the Cincinnati Reds team which went to Florida in 1955.

Major league baseball's color line had been broken just nine years earlier when another Robinson, Jackie of the Brooklyn Dodgers, had been signed by Branch Rickey. The Dodgers trained once in Cuba and another time in the Dominican Republic to avoid the problems they might encounter as an integrated team in the then-rigidly segregated South.

Frank Robinson became the majors' first black manager with his appointment over the winter. Jackie Robinson, before his death in 1972, was among those who criticized baseball for its seeming reluctance to take that step.

"This is no common training camp," the Cleveland manager says, but he doesn't allude to any historic significance.

He just likes to think that although he's a rookie manager he's running a camp that will give his players a little edge on other American League teams when the season opens next month. The Indians' first exhibition game is here Thursday against San Francisco.

"I was here for Frank's initial meeting with all the players, and there wasn't a word said about black or white," said Maury Wills, here for two weeks as a special base running instructor.

"He didn't have to remind them he's the first black manager in major league history. I've felt from the beginning there would be no trouble with players or fans in having black managers."

"Frank's a winner," said Boog Powell, who was Robinson's teammate in Baltimore. "I've gone to camp with other managers who were in their first seasons, and I don't feel this is any different. It's a good camp."

At Baltimore, Powell added, "Frank was a team leader—probably more so than anyone outside the team imagined."

The Indians will have co-captains this year, Frank Duffy who is white and George Hendrick who is black. But Robinson said he named Duffy, the shortstop, to handle the infield and Hendrick, the center fielder, to handle the outfield.

"The center fielder is the key man in any outfield. I want to make sure that if he tells another outfielder to move a little, they'll do it," said Robinson. "I had no other motive in making him captain, such as giving George motivation."

Hendrick, who made the American League All-Star team last year, has hit 40 homers in his two seasons at Cleveland but became former Manager Ken Aspromonte's biggest personnel problem. He was accused of failing to give 100 per cent and Aspromonte's losing battle to motivate Hendrick was one reason he lost his job.

Wills says Robinson's personnel problems will probably be the same as any manager's.

"The biggest problem is always keeping the guys who aren't starting happy. I've never seen a player sitting on the bench who thinks his manager is the greatest guy in the world," Wills said.

"I'll try to get the extra men involved as much as I can," said Robinson. "Earl Weaver had four outfielders rotating a lot at Baltimore, and I'd like to try something like that here if it's practical."

One thing he knows as a player is that "ballplayers second-guess a manager the same as fans and writers do, maybe even more so." As a playing manager, Robinson can lead some by example on the field.

"That's the first time I ever saw a manager sweat in spring training," one of the Indians said after Robinson went through calesthenics in an early drill.

Cass, Galien Facing Tough Tourney Teams

Christian Is Title Regular

Rangers' Speed, Shooting Quarterfinal Strengths

Cassopolis will be facing a combat veteran of the tournament wars Thursday night in the Class C quarterfinals at Kentwood.

In 22 years under Walcott Christian has captured four Class C state championships, the last coming in 1970, while also taking seven regional crowns.

Last season the Warriors gained the semifinals where they lost to Detroit Servite 73-71 on a late goal-tending call.

Tournament action seems to bring out the best in Christian...and this year is no exception.

The Muskegon crew fashioned a so-so 14-6 regular season record, which included a season-ending lost to Holland Christian.

But in five tourney games the Warriors have gone wild. They have averaged 77.6 points a game while winning by an average of 24 points a contest. The closest a team has come is 19 points (North Muskegon) in the districts. Also, no team has scored more than 59 points against the Warriors.

"We don't have the rebounding strength of last year but have more balanced scoring this year," offers Walcott. "In our last game against Shelby DeLeeuw was held to seven points but all our other starters were in double figures."

In Henry DeLeeuw the Warriors have an all-state selection of last year. The 6-5 center is averaging 18 points and 15 rebounds this season. Forward Mark DeJonge (6-3) is hitting 17 points and 11 rebounds.

"Running isn't our game," adds Walcott, who guided the Warriors to the Four-C league title this year (the league also includes Unity, Kalamazoo and Calvin Christian). "If we fast break two or three times a night it's a big night for us. We try to work for the good shot."

The Rangers, the highest scoring team in southwestern Michigan, are averaging 80.6 points per game and 50 per cent afield.

"We know they have two fairly large men and can really hit the boards," notes Cass coach Bob Follett. "But we are a lot faster than they are. We hope to catch them by surprise and make them run.

"We may start out with the press and use it whenever we have to to pick up the tempo. We don't get that many steals off the press but we use it mainly to get us running."

Cass will be taking its own all-state candidate into the 7:30 p.m. game at the East Kentwood gym. Guard Roger Walters is currently averaging 26.4 points a game while hitting 57 per cent of his shots. Walters, who has reached double digits in all 25 Cass games this year, stands fourth in the area all-time season point listing with 659, which trails Richie Jordan (888), L.C. Bowen (688) and Walt Cloud (662).

But the Rangers are more than a one-man gang. Center Gary Young is averaging 16.0 points, 15 rebounds and hitting 57 per cent of his shots. Forward Mark Scott chips in with a 14.7 average, 11 rebounds and a 50 per cent marksmanship.

Playmaker Bill Dungey is averaging 7.9 points at guard but his 11 assists per game average tell his true worth. Sophomore forward Kevin Loder has been impressive since being called up from the jayvee squad. In seven games the 6-1 Loder is averaging 9.7 points, 10 rebounds and 57 per cent gunning.

"I haven't used my bench that much but I'm not afraid to use it," comments Follett. "Reggie Scott sure got a big bucket against River Valley last Friday."

The Rangers, who have won eight in a row, use mainly a 2-3 zone defense while Christian has relied primarily on a man-to-man.

Cass was ranked seventh in the final AP poll this season while the Warriors were unranked.

East Catholic Ranked No. 1

Crusaders Much Bigger With 6-7 All-Stater

A Detroit East Catholic school on the way down in enrollment but standing tall in basketball success is a formidable foe for Galien in Thursday night's quarterfinals.

East Catholic has dropped from Class B to D in three years while its cage fortunes have gone in the opposite direction.

The Crusaders lost to eventual state champion River Rouge in the 1972 Class B quarterfinals and moved to Class C the following year and captured the state title.

East Catholic is now Class D and will carry the state's No. 1 ranking against 22nd rated Galien in Thursday's 7:30 p.m. quarterfinal clash at Marshall.

Two tall starters from the 1973 state championship team are still with the Crusaders and they will be big obstacles for the young Gaels (four junior starters) to overcome.

Greg Guye, a 6-7 senior center who was a Class C all-stater a year ago, leads the Crusaders while averaging 19.6 points, 14 rebounds and five blocked shots per game.

Almost as imposing is Mike Walton, a 6-5 senior forward who weighs 205 pounds. He is averaging 17 points and 13 rebounds per outing.

The 21-4 Crusaders constantly look for their big men — no other starter is scoring in double digits.

Guye and Walton will make the Crusaders about three inches taller per man than the 20-4 Galien squad.

"We may have to alter our defense a little bit," says Heckathorn while mentioning the possibility of trying to protect against the lob pass by fronting Guye with 6-1 Don Kooy, an excellent jumper. There's also the possibility of the Gaels using a 1-3-1 zone along with their normal 2-3.

"We have a combination of two to stop and its going to be a little more difficult for us," continues Heckathorn. "I'm sure Guye at 6-7 is going to get a few points on us. We are just going to have to try containing the other people."

East Catholic is averaging 69 points per game in the tournaments with a 22-point per game winning margin, but Galien also has some point-making potential.

A more balanced Galien offense has Kooy averaging 15.8 points, 5-8 guard Dale Luther 14.2 and 6-3 forward Dave Rock 11.3, including a 17.0 mark in the tournaments. The Gaels are averaging 71 points per game through the districts and regionals with a 15-point winning edge.

"We've got some excellent shooters," adds Heckathorn while noting that the Gaels are shooting at about a 44 per cent clip in the tourney. "I think East Catholic may be surprised if we get a good effort out of everybody."

Catholic will be a good test for the Galien sharpshooters, because the Crusaders take pride in their man-to-man defense. They are allowing only 46.2 points per game in the tournament.

Rebounding is also a strong suit for East Catholic, which numbers among its losses two to Class A schools and one to a Class B foe. The Crusaders also dropped one of three games to Detroit DePorres — ranked No. 2 in the final Class D poll.

Galien has also gotten the job done on the boards, especially in offensive rebounding, despite its lack of size.

"We'll definitely need one of his (Kooy's) better games if we're going to rebound with 6-7 and 6-5 people," states Heckathorn. "And hopefully, (Mike) Kuntz will entertain and keep one of the big men off the boards."

Heckathorn realizes his Gaels are underdogs and he feels his players are a "little apprehensive" about playing the No. 1 team in the state.

"Most everyone is assuming East Catholic is going to walk all over us," says Heckathorn. "Maybe that's one thing we've got going for us. Perhaps that's to our advantage. Maybe they won't expect anything from rural Galien."

Win or lose, Heckathorn and Galien is proud of the Gaels. "We're in the top eight in the state, so you've got to be as respectable as anyone," concludes Heckathorn. "It's very gratifying to be the only one in the county still practicing. It's a lot of fun to just walk down the street and walk down the halls."

Godwin Is Protesting 'Near Riot'

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The superintendent of the suburban Godwin Heights school district is urging state athletic officials to avoid holding future basketball playoffs at Muskegon's Walker Arena.

Supt. David A. Fultz filed a formal protest saying there was a "near riot" Friday after Godwin Heights nipped Muskegon Heights 88-87 in a Class B regional championship game.

Fultz told the Michigan High School Athletic Association that Godwin pupils and fans were hurt trying to leave the arena after the game when an angry crowd blocked all exits.

The superintendent said Godwin fans had to remain in the arena behind locked doors until police reinforcements arrived. Fultz reported 37 patrol cars responded to the trouble call.

In addition, Fultz claimed several windows were smashed by the Muskegon Heights crowd trying to gain entrance while the Godwin group waited for help.

Fultz said Godwin fans were led from the arena by police and were escorted to the county line. There was no immediate response from the athletic association headquarters in Lansing.

LaGrow Still Tiger Loser

Chisox' 10-Run Burst Saps Confidence

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Oh, Oh! Lerrin LaGrow already is looking like the same Lerrin LaGrow who lost 19 games for the Detroit Tigers last baseball season.

And if he doesn't develop his much needed changeup soon, the big right handed pitcher may lose confidence in the talent he has and manager Ralph Houk may lose his confidence in him too.

LaGrow was supposed to work four innings Tuesday against the Chicago White Sox. He lasted one-third an inning, being riddled for seven hits and ten runs as Chicago annihilated the beleaguered Tigers 12-4 in an exhibition game at Marchant Stadium.

The White Sox sent 15 men to the plate in the opening inning. And the fans booed derisively for the second straight game.

"Well, we beat'em the last eight innings," said Houk, trying to salvage something from the onslaught. It was Detroit's fifth loss in six Florida games. Chicago is 2-3.

In his other start, LaGrow was racked for five runs in three innings.

"He wasn't sharp with his fast ball today because he's been working a lot on his changeup," Houk explained. "He would get behind batters with the change and then have to come in with his fastball."

Houk insists he doesn't judge pitchers until their third outing and he said if LaGrow gets bombed the next time, "I'll be concerned."

Last year LaGrow, a 6-foot-5, 220-pound former Arizona State star, was given a regular spot in the rotation. He wound up with an 8-19 record and 4.67 earned-run average.

Houk and other Tiger officials say all he needs to be a good pitcher is to develop his change.

LaGrow was so upset he refused to talk.

"If it was an older pitcher I don't think it would have any effect on him," Houk said of the poor showings. "But knowing him I know it's burning him inside. I'll just have to take him aside and talk to him."

There were bright spots Tuesday:

Primarily the relieving of Doug Bair, Dave Lemanczyk and Tom Makowski. Bair, a Bowling Green graduate, is a non-roster righthander acquired from Pittsburgh's Charleston farm club. He and Lemanczyk no-hit Chicago from the first to the eighth inning, then the White Sox managed two runs on three hits.

Also impressing was rookie Art James of Detroit, who tripled in a run and made a diving catch in center field. The speedster is making Detroit's outfield scramble an even bigger battle.

Nyls Nyman, 21-year-old rookie outfielder born in Detroit, drove in three runs for Chicago while Pat Kelly and Lee Richard knocked in two each. Designated hitter Willie Horton had a two-run homer for Detroit.

The Tigers were at Winter Haven today to face Boston. Fred Holdsworth and Tom Walker were scheduled to pitch for Detroit against Bill Lee, Rich Wise and Dick Drago.

Pennant Only 'Race' Issue For Indians, Robinson

"Things were different then. We couldn't stay with the rest of the team. We stayed in private homes," the player-manager of the Cleveland Indians said after a spring workout here.

By "we" he meant the black players on the Cincinnati Reds team which went to Florida in 1955.

Major league baseball's color line had been broken just nine years earlier when another Robinson, Jackie of the Brooklyn Dodgers, had been signed by Branch Rickey. The Dodgers trained once in Cuba and another time in the Dominican Republic to avoid the problems they might encounter as an integrated team in the then-rigidly segregated South.

Frank Robinson became the majors' first black manager with his appointment over the winter. Jackie Robinson, before his death in 1972, was among those who criticized baseball for its seeming reluctance to take that step.

"This is no common training camp," the Cleveland manager says, but he doesn't allude to any historic significance.

He just likes to think that although he's a rookie manager he's running a camp that will give his players a little edge on other American League teams when the season opens next month. The Indians' first exhibition game is here Thursday against San Francisco.

"I was here for Frank's initial meeting with all the players, and there wasn't a word said about black or white," said Maury Wills, here for two weeks as a special base running instructor.

"He didn't have to remind them he's the first black manager in major league history. I've felt from the beginning there would be no trouble with players or fans in having black managers."

"Frank's a winner," said Boog Powell, who was Robinson's teammate in Baltimore. "I've gone to camp with other managers who were in their first seasons, and I don't feel this is any different. It's a good camp."

At Baltimore, Powell added, "Frank was a team leader—probably more so than anyone outside the team imagined."

The Indians will have co-captains this year, Frank Duffy who is white and George Hendrick who is black. But Robinson said he named Duffy, the shortstop, to handle the infield and Hendrick, the center fielder, to handle the outfield.

"The center fielder is the key man in any outfield. I want to make sure that if he tells another outfielder to move a little, they'll do it," said Robinson. "I had no other motive in making him captain, such as giving George motivation."

Hendrick, who made the American League All-Star team last year, has hit 40 homers in his two seasons at Cleveland but became former Manager Ken Aspromonte's biggest personnel problem. He was accused of failing to give 100 per cent and Aspromonte's losing battle to motivate Hendrick was one reason he lost his job.

Wills says Robinson's personnel problems will probably be the same as any manager's.

"The biggest problem is always keeping the guys who aren't starting happy. I've never seen a player sitting on the bench who thinks his manager is the greatest guy in the world," Wills said.

"I'll try to get the extra men involved as much as I can," said Robinson. "Earl Weaver had four outfielders rotating a lot at Baltimore, and I'd like to try something like that here if it's practical."

One thing he knows as a player is that "ballplayers second-guess a manager the same as fans and writers do, maybe even more so." As a playing manager, Robinson can lead some by example on the field.

"That's the first time I ever saw a manager sweat in spring training," one of the Indians said after Robinson went through calesthenics in an early drill.

Cass, Galien Facing Tough Tourney Teams

Christian Is Title Regular

Rangers' Speed, Shooting Quarterfinal Strengths

Cassopolis will be facing a combat veteran of the tournament wars Thursday night in the Class C quarterfinals at Kentwood.

In 22 years under Walcott Christian has captured four Class C state championships, the last coming in 1970, while also taking seven regional crowns.

Last season the Warriors gained the semifinals where they lost to Detroit Servite 73-71 on a late goal-tending call.

Tournament action seems to bring out the best in Christian...and this year is no exception.

The Muskegon crew fashioned a so-so 14-6 regular season record, which included a season-ending lost to Holland Christian.

But in five tourney games the Warriors have gone wild. They have averaged 77.6 points a game while winning by an average of 24 points a contest. The closest a team has come is 19 points (North Muskegon) in the districts. Also, no team has scored more than 59 points against the Warriors.

"We don't have the rebounding strength of last year but have more balanced scoring this year," offers Walcott. "In our last game against Shelby DeLeeuw was held to seven points but all our other starters were in double figures."

In Henry DeLeeuw the Warriors have an all-state selection of last year. The 6-5 center is averaging 18 points and 15 rebounds this season. Forward Mark DeJonge (6-3) is hitting 17 points and 11 rebounds.

"Running isn't our game," adds Walcott, who guided the Warriors to the Four-C league title this year (the league also includes Unity, Kalamazoo and Calvin Christian). "If we fast break two or three times a night it's a big night for us. We try to work for the good shot."

The Rangers, the highest scoring team in southwestern Michigan, are averaging 80.6 points per game and 50 per cent afield.

"We know they have two fairly large men and can really hit the boards," notes Cass coach Bob Follett. "But we are a lot faster than they are. We hope to catch them by surprise and make them run.

"We may start out with the press and use it whenever we have to to pick up the tempo. We don't get that many steals off the press but we use it mainly to get us running."

Cass will be taking its own all-state candidate into the 7:30 p.m. game at the East Kentwood gym. Guard Roger Walters is currently averaging 26.4 points a game while hitting 57 per cent of his shots. Walters, who has reached double digits in all 25 Cass games this year, stands fourth in the area all-time season point listing with 659, which trails Richie Jordan (888), L.C. Bowen (688) and Walt Cloud (662).

But the Rangers are more than a one-man gang. Center Gary Young is averaging 16.0 points, 15 rebounds and hitting 57 per cent of his shots. Forward Mark Scott chips in with a 14.7 average, 11 rebounds and a 50 per cent marksmanship.

Playmaker Bill Dungey is averaging 7.9 points at guard but his 11 assists per game average tell his true worth. Sophomore forward Kevin Loder has been impressive since being called up from the jayvee squad. In seven games the 6-1 Loder is averaging 9.7 points, 10 rebounds and 57 per cent gunning.

"I haven't used my bench that much but I'm not afraid to use it," comments Follett. "Reggie Scott sure got a big bucket against River Valley last Friday."

The Rangers, who have won eight in a row, use mainly a 2-3 zone defense while Christian has relied primarily on a man-to-man.

Cass was ranked seventh in the final AP poll this season while the Warriors were unranked.

Orioles Again AL East Favorite In Same Old Home

MIAMI (AP) — Now that the Baltimore Orioles know where they'll be playing the home portion of the 1975 baseball season, Manager Earl Weaver can go about the job of molding another pennant contender.

After board chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger offered to sell the team last October, there was considerable speculation that the franchise would be shifted out of Baltimore.

But Hoffberger, whose biographical sketch and those of other front-office personnel were left out of this year's club information guide, told the players at the outset of spring training that Baltimore's Memorial Stadium will be home again this year.

Although the Orioles top the major leagues with 586 victories in the past six years while winning five of six American League East Division titles, home attendance has been below one million for each of the past three seasons.

An upsurge at the gate is expected this year for three reasons: public response to the threat of a move, more home run power by the Orioles, and the likelihood of a tight division race.

The New York Yankees, who finished just two games behind Baltimore last season, should be even more formidable with the addition of pitcher Catfish Hunter and outfielder Bobby Bonds.

They've added power with the acquisition of first baseman Lee May and outfielder Ken Singleton, an experienced catcher in Dave Duncan, and pitcher Mike Torrez, who had a 15-8 record last season at Montreal.

Among the players the Orioles had to give up in exchange were pitcher Dave McNally, who holds the club record of 181 victories, and Boog Powell, Baltimore's all-time home-run leader with 303.

May, who has averaged 30 homers and 96 runs batted in for the last seven seasons, joins an infield of three 1974 Gold Glove winners in third baseman Brooks Robinson, shortstop Mark Belanger and second baseman Bobby Grich.

Singleton, a switch-hitter who slumped at Montreal last year after hitting .302 with 23 homers and 103 RBI in 1973, could be an outfield regular.

The other top outfield candidates include Paul Blair, another Gold Glove winner who hit 17 homers last year; Don Baylor, who batted .385 during Baltimore's 28-6 finish of 1974, and Al Bumbry, who slumped to .233, or 104 points below the mark which earned him Rookie of the Year honors in 1973.

The pitching staff probably will be strong again, provided Jim Palmer avoids a recurrence of the arm trouble which dropped his record to 7-12 last season.

The 1973 Cy Young Award winner will be in a rotation with Mike Cuellar, who has won 125 games in six seasons with Baltimore, Torres, and Russ Grimsley, an 18-game winner in his first season with the Orioles.

Cuellar was 22-10 last season and, along with Blair was named a co-winner of the Most Valuable Oriole award.

Andy Etchebarren, who remained the team's last holdout as exhibition games began, has asked to be traded. And Earl Williams could be on the block after failing to produce as expected the past two seasons. Elrod Hendricks might stick mainly because he bats lefthanded.

"We look fairly solid," said Weaver, who has a .608 winning percentage for 6½ seasons and can afford a little understatement. "I believe that we'll be in the fight."

"Grich and Baylor are about ready to do it all," he continued. "If Baylor can get hot for 12 weeks instead of six, he'll lead the league. Either one could be a candidate for Most Valuable Player in the league and you can throw Blair in that category if he bats .280 and hits 20 homers."

If the Orioles get some power at the plate again, Weaver probably will abandon the running strategy he employed the past two years.

"If we start hitting home runs early," he said, "we'll just run a little bit less early in the game. We could play the way we did in 1969 and 1970 — wait and see how the game's going to develop before risking a gamble that may take the team out of a rally."

Chips In NCAA, Preps Regional Champs

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — "We don't dare lose," says Dennis Kuiper, basketball coach at Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart Academy. "Nobody around here loses."

This town of 22,000 has so many championship teams the storefront marquees aren't big enough to carry all the praise.

The signs at local businesses exhort the Chippewas of Central Michigan University (20-5), the champions of the Mid-American Conference; Mount Pleasant High School (17-7), Class B regional basketball champs; and Sacred Heart (21-3), regional champs in class D high school competition.

There isn't enough room to congratulate the Mount Pleasant High wrestling team, which won the state championship in class B for the second consecutive year.

All these winners come just three months after the CMU football team won the NCAA Division II football championship in the Camellia Bowl, thumping Delaware 54-14 in Sacramento.

The CMU basketball team is headed for the NCAA tournament in Tuscaloosa, Ala. on Saturday, its first opportunity to seek a national basketball title. It won the MAC crown with a 10-4 record and a stirring 82-80 victory over Bowling Green.

More than 100 happy businessmen and CMU faculty crowded into a weekly luncheon of the "Rebounder's Club" at a local restaurant Tuesday.

They were greeted by three beaming, winning basketball coaches, humbly telling about how their teams won their most recent games and cautioning about tough upcoming contests.

Mount Pleasant High Coach George Noch said his team may be a little bit on the small side, but is fired up to face Ironwood on Thursday in Gaylord.

Sacred Heart meets Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes in Frankenmuth the same night. Some avid fans said they are having trouble figuring out which game to attend.

"We have to go down there and play our hearts out," said CMU Coach Dick Parfitt, whose team, from the 14,500-student school, has never been to the NCAA tournament. CMU may ultimately meet the powerful winner of the Kentucky-Marquette contest if it gets past Georgetown University on Saturday.

Football Coach Roy Kramer isn't predicting another banner year, though, because 1976 will be CMU's first as a Division I team in football.

"We haven't even had spring practice yet, so its too early to tell about next season," said Kramer. "We lost 12 starters from last year."

One of Kramer's returning offensive linemen is Mike Szymarek of Manistee, whose main interest athletically right now is watching the CMU basketball team.

"A fantastic bunch of players. They have great team unity," said Szymarek.

Businessmen love all the big teams, saying they spur town spirit and the local economy.

"Sure its been good for business, but its been good for the community too," explained Clarence Tuma, owner of the Embers Restaurant that hosted the "Rebounders."

Years ago well drillers in this area struck paydirt and the town was dubbed "The Oil Capital of Michigan." This week at least, it's the sports capital.

Wings' Dionne Ties Howe Record

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — After Tuesday's victory over the New York Islanders, the Detroit Red Wings may be hoping they didn't blow their remaining good fortune all at once.

If good things come in threes, as some say, then the Wings got their whole quotient in the 4-2 triumph. After a mixup, Jim Rutherford started in goal and turned in a sensational performance. Defenseman Larry Giroux scored only his second goal of the season to break a 2-2 tie, and Marcel Dionne notched three points to put him in a tie with Gordie Howe for the most points scored in a single season.

With 12 games left, there can be little doubt Dionne will break the great Gordie's team record. Dionne scored the opening goal for Detroit and then added two assists to equal the 1968-69 mark.

The Islanders were upset before the game began, and after they lost, the reaction was as expected. They got hot after seeing Rutherford listed as the starting goalie for Detroit. But just before the game began, goalie Bill McKenzie was on the ice.

According to National Hockey League rules, that's an infraction and calls for a two-minute penalty.

But before play started, the official scorer called the referee and informed him of the mistake. The Red Wings made the change and no penalty was assessed.

Rutherford took the blame for the mixup. He said he met with Detroit Coach Alex Delvecchio earlier in the day and thought Delvecchio told him McKenzie would be in goal.

"It was just my misunderstanding," Rutherford said.

But Islanders Coach Al Arbour was incensed, especially after seeing Rutherford make 38 saves, several in the amazing category.

"That's two games in a row that we've run into sensational goalies," said Denis Potvin, Islander defenseman. "We had this guy down on the ice all night long making saves. We couldn't get the puck up in the air. Everything was down low."

"Rutherford made big stops in the first two periods and had us completely frustrated. Basic mistakes cost us the game. We weren't able to put anything by him," Arbour said.

Dionne assisted on Giroux's tie-breaking goal and again on Danny Grant's 42nd tally of the season.

Penalty, Bruin Point Burst Stun Rangers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Referee Andy Van Hellemond stunned Ron Greschner when he called a penalty against the rookie New York defenseman, then the Boston Bruins stunned the Rangers with three goals in the last six minutes of the game for a 6-3 victory.

Greschner was penalized for high-sticking Phil Esposito, Boston's high-scoring center.

"I raised my arms to protect myself as Espo rapped me in the face," explained the angry Greschner after Tuesday night's National Hockey League game. "I thought he was getting the penalty, not me, I couldn't believe it. I didn't do anything. It was a penalty for nothing.

"I'll get even with him (the referee) some day," warned Greschner. "I'll get him with a stick or something."

"If they called anything, it should have been a double penalty," said Rangers Coach Emile Francis.

Greschner's penalty came with the score tied 3-3. While he was off the ice, Boston's Carol Vadnais scored, and a short time later, Esposito fired in his 56th goal of the season and Don Marcotte flipped the puck into an empty New York net.

Boston's Bobby Orr, the NHL's leading scorer, contributed three assists for a season's total of 121 points and teammate Gregg Sheppard got his seventh short-handed goal of the season, one shy of the league record. The victory was the Bruins' seventh in a row.

In other NHL games, the St. Louis Blues blanked the Atlanta Flames 3-0, the Detroit Red Wings downed the New York Islanders 4-2, the Buffalo Sabres and Los Angeles Kings skated to a 2-2 tie, and the Kansas City Scouts and Vancouver Canucks tied 3-3.

Goalie Gerry Desjardins made his debut for Buffalo after jumping from the World Hockey Association last week and had 28 saves.

McParlan Tied For First Round Lead At Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — University of Florida golfer Dallas Apelgren shot a first round 71 Tuesday to help his team to the lead in the 20th annual University of Miami Invitational golf tournament.

University of Michigan golfer Tom McParlan tied Apelgren for individual honors in the first day of the 72-hole tournament over the Mid Ocean Municipal Golf Course. In third at 72 was Florida golfer Don Mayer.

The Gators hold the team lead with a 291 total, followed by Eastern Michigan and Miami at 297 and Florida International at 305.

Orioles Again AL East Favorite In Same Old Home

MIAMI (AP) — Now that the Baltimore Orioles know where they'll be playing the home portion of the 1975 baseball season, Manager Earl Weaver can go about the job of molding another pennant contender.

After board chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger offered to sell the team last October, there was considerable speculation that the franchise would be shifted out of Baltimore.

But Hoffberger, whose biographical sketch and those of other front-office personnel were left out of this year's club information guide, told the players at the outset of spring training that Baltimore's Memorial Stadium will be home again this year.

Although the Orioles top the major leagues with 586 victories in the past six years while winning five of six American League East Division titles, home attendance has been below one million for each of the past three seasons.

An upsurge at the gate is expected this year for three reasons: public response to the threat of a move, more home run power by the Orioles, and the likelihood of a tight division race.

The New York Yankees, who finished just two games behind Baltimore last season, should be even more formidable with the addition of pitcher Catfish Hunter and outfielder Bobby Bonds.

They've added power with the acquisition of first baseman Lee May and outfielder Ken Singleton, an experienced catcher in Dave Duncan, and pitcher Mike Torrez, who had a 15-8 record last season at Montreal.

Among the players the Orioles had to give up in exchange were pitcher Dave McNally, who holds the club record of 181 victories, and Boog Powell, Baltimore's all-time home-run leader with 303.

May, who has averaged 30 homers and 96 runs batted in for the last seven seasons, joins an infield of three 1974 Gold Glove winners in third baseman Brooks Robinson, shortstop Mark Belanger and second baseman Bobby Grich.

Singleton, a switch-hitter who slumped at Montreal last year after hitting .302 with 23 homers and 103 RBI in 1973, could be an outfield regular.

The other top outfield candidates include Paul Blair, another Gold Glove winner who hit 17 homers last year; Don Baylor, who batted .385 during Baltimore's 28-6 finish of 1974, and Al Bumbry, who slumped to .233, or 104 points below the mark which earned him Rookie of the Year honors in 1973.

The pitching staff probably will be strong again, provided Jim Palmer avoids a recurrence of the arm trouble which dropped his record to 7-12 last season.

The 1973 Cy Young Award winner will be in a rotation with Mike Cuellar, who has won 125 games in six seasons with Baltimore, Torres, and Ross Grimsley, an 18-game winner in his first season with the Orioles.

Cuellar was 22-10 last season and, along with Blair was named a co-winner of the Most Valuable Oriole award.

Andy Etchebarren, who remained the team's last holdout as exhibition games began, has asked to be traded. And Earl Williams could be on the block after failing to produce as expected the past two seasons. Elrod Hendricks might stick mainly because he bats lefthanded.

"We look fairly solid," said Weaver, who has a .608 winning percentage for 6½ seasons and can afford a little understatement. "I believe that we'll be in the fight."

"Grich and Baylor are about ready to do it all," he continued. "If Baylor can get hot for 12 weeks instead of six, he'll lead the league. Either one could be a candidate for Most Valuable Player in the league and you can throw Blair in that category if he bats .280 and hits 20 homers."

If the Orioles get some power at the plate again, Weaver probably will abandon the running strategy he employed the past two years.

"It we start hitting home runs early," he said, "we'll just run a little bit less early in the game. We could play the way we did in 1969 and 1970 — wait and see how the game's going to develop before risking a gamble that may take the team out of a rally."

Fouls Out In Milwaukee Loss To Warriors

Jabbar Fuming Over Officiating

From Associated Press

Fouling out of a game is about as rare for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as the Milwaukee Bucks winning a game without him.

The point was proven again Tuesday night. After Abdul-Jabbar fouled out for only the second time this season, the Bucks were overwhelmed by the Golden State Warriors 107-90.

The loss prevented Milwaukee from replacing Detroit in third place in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association. Detroit, edged by Los Angeles 95-94, and Milwaukee are battling for the "wild card" playoff berth in the Western Conference.

The Bucks, who won only one of their first 15 games this season when the 7-foot-3⅝ Abdul-Jabbar was sidelined with injuries, trailed the Warriors by only 77-75 when their towering center fouled out with 10:14 remaining in the game.

"The officiating was inept, ineffecient, bad," fumed Abdul-Jabbar. "Jerry Loeber sets the standard for ineptitude. We could be in third place now, but they took us out of the game. I'm not talking about Golden State. I'm talking about the officials. It's kind of hard for me to be any kind of a factor when I'm on the bench.

"They fine you when you say things about officials," he continued, "but I think he (Loeber) stinks. I'm tired of this rule (prohibiting criticism of officials). I may need a lawyer."

"The fans were cheated, the players were cheated, everybody was cheated," he charged. "This could have been the whole thing, the whole world's championship."

Both Abdul-Jabbar and Costello were assessed technicals for arguing on the sixth personal against Kareem.

Abdul-Jabbar, who had missed 18 minutes earlier in the game because of foul trouble, finished with 18 points in about 19½ minutes. Rick Barry topped Golden State with 30 points.

Meanwhile, the Washington Bullets clinched their fifth straight Central Division title with a 99-87 victory over the Atlanta Hawks, the Cleveland Cavaliers downed the New Orleans Jazz 123-114, the New York Knicks topped the Phoenix Suns 103-98, the Boston Celtics outlasted the Chicago Bulls 121-115 in overtime, and the Seattle SuperSonics beat the Houston Rockets 122-117 in overtime.

Phil Chenier's season-high 38 points paced Washington to its 51st victory of the season.

Cazzie's Shots, Bearhug Nip Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — A pair of clutch free throws by Cazzie Russell were the obvious part of the Los Angeles Lakers' victory over Detroit. But just as important was Zelmo Beaty's unabashed bearhug of Bob Lanier with two seconds left in Tuesday's National Basketball Association game.

Officials saw the hug, which stopped Lanier from shooting, and called a foul. But since the Lakers had less than five fouls, Lanier didn't get a chance for a game-tying free throw. The inbounds Detroit pass went to Howard Porter, whose desperation shot with one second left bounced off the rim, giving the Lakers a 95-94 victory, their first in nine road games.

"We had a foul to give," said Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman. "We were trying to foul whoever got the ball immediately. We had to be careful where we did it so somebody didn't throw it up for a shot.

For Detroit Coach Ray Scott, the result was pure frustration.

"It hurts when you lose a close one like that," said Scott, "but it's no more damaging than than any other loss — just more frustrating."

The third-place Pistons remain a game up on the Milwaukee Bucks, who lost to Golden State, in the battle for the conference's final playoff spot. Portland is 2½ games back of the Pistons.

It looked for a while as though Detroit would do just what they had done three times earlier in the season — fall behind early, then rally to catch up and edge to a narrow victory. The scenario went according to plan until the end, as Detroit trailed by 16 points at the beginning of the third quarter. A rally, led by Bob Lanier put the Pistons up 94-91 with 68 seconds left.

But Gail Goodrich's shot with 50 seconds on the clock brought the Lakers within one. Russell's foul shots followed three miscues from the field by his teammates but put Los Angeles up to stay with two seconds on the clock.

Goodrich had 25 points to lead Los Angeles and Russell added 16.

Lanier, playing for the first time in three games because of tendonitis in his knee, had 17 in period three and a game-high of 29.

"The team played well but it took Bob a half to get his confidence back," said Scott.

Scoring Champion Adams Heads Red Arrow Picks

Adams, a 6-1 senior who averaged 21.9 in the conference — the third highest mark in the league's nine-year history — while setting a single-game record of 48 points, teams with Galien's Don Kooy and Bridgman's Jeff Runser as repeat all-star selections.

Kooy, a 6-1 junior, is among six underclassmen on the 10-man squad. He finished second among league scorers (16.1 average) while leading the Gaels to a co-champion in the Red Arrow and the Class D regional championship.

Teammate Dale Luther, a 5-8 junior, was also selected. He finished third in scoring (16.0) and is keeping the Gaels alive in state tournament play. They play in the quarterfinals Thursday night.

Bridgman's Runser, a 5-10 senior, is joined by teammate Bob Linke, a 6-4 sophomore, as the Bee all-star representatives. Runser finished fourth in scoring (15.9) and Linke eighth (11.9).

Eau Claire led the voting of coaches with three selections. Joining Bill Adams are his brother Terry, a 6-1 junior who ended up seventh in scoring (12.4), and Jerry McAfee, a 5-8 junior who finished fifth among pointmakers (14.3).

Frantz, a junior and the tallest player on the team at 6-5, came in sixth among scorers (13.6) while 6-3 senior Huff was ninth (11.7). Yates wasn't among the top ten scorers, but the 5-9 senior led Berrien pointmakers with an overall 10.8 mark while helping the Shamrocks to a share of the conference championship.

Honorable mention pick Bob Wallace of Hartford was the Red Arrow's other top ten scorer. He finished 10th at 11.5.

Top NAIA Seed Out Of Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The second round in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament started today without top-seeded Kentucky State, an upset victim Wednesday night of unheralded Malone College of Canton, Ohio, 85-77.

Tonight's slate has second-seeded Fairmont, W. Va., against Winona, Minn.; Malone College meeting Tri-State of Indiana; Millersville, Pa., matching St. Mary's of San Antonio, Tex., and Winston-Salem, N.C. paired against Central Washington.

Kentucky State, ranked No. 1 in this week's college division poll by The Associated Press, never led in their contest. "We just didn't come to play," was the analysis by Thorobred Coach Lucius Mitchell. "I told them they'd better get ready and they didn't."

The Malone Pioneers got a 41-point scoring performance from Mark Klein, a 6-foot-4 guard, and a stellar defensive showing by Larry Arrington.

"Arrington has shut off a lot of people this year," said Pioneer Coach Jay Bowerman. "We always put him on the other team's best offensive man, no matter if he is the post man or guard."

Third-seeded St. Mary's overcame an early deficit to trip Newberry, S.C., 75-58, with Dave Bulik scoring 16 points and Gary Tomaszewski adding 15. Clyde Agnew was top man for the Indians with 21 points and 11 rebounds.

Winona State coasted past Bryant College of Smithfield, R.I., 85-72, with Paul Sir scoring 30 points and Gus Johnson adding 18 and grabbing 13 rebounds.

Central Washington broke away in the final five minutes to notch a 76-65 victory over East Central Oklahoma. The sixth-seeded Wildcats got 20 points and 10 rebounds from Les Wyatt.

Tri-State, sparked by Rex Holmes' 19 points, turned back Husson, Maine, 96-78. Scoring honors went to Husson's Ish McKitchen, who had 29 points.

Bayard Forrest scored 23 points and snared 14 rebounds to lead Grand Canyon, fifth-seeded, past Williamette, Ore., 83-60. Mike Cashman had 23 points for Williamette.

Take Two Wins For 6-0 Spring Record

Phillies Double Their Pleasure

From Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies are looking twice as good as any other baseball team in spring training so far. Even when they split their team in half, they can't be beaten.

The Phillies divided into two squads Tuesday and doubled their pleasure with victories over the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chunichi Dragons.

The 7-5 victory over the Pirates and 12-1 drubbing of the Dragons gave the Phillies a perfect 6-0 record and an inside track on the Citrus League championship.

Facing Pittsburgh at Bradenton, the Phillies took advantage of Steve Blass' wildness to beat the Pirates. Blass, plagued with the same wildness that sent him to the minor leagues, walked four straight batters to open the seventh, throwing two wild pitches in the process, to give the Phillies two runs and a 5-4 lead. The Phillies then scored their winning run on a sacrifice fly off the one-time Pirate ace.

Tony Taylor, a former Phillie who is enjoying a second chance with his team, homered, scored four times and stole two bases to lead the runaway over the Japanese visitors at Clearwater.

Elsewhere, it was Los Angeles 10, Cincinnati 6; Texas 6, Baltimore 2; Chicago 12, Detroit 4; New York Yankees 4, New York Mets 0; St. Louis 3, Kansas City 2; Montreal 9, Boston 3; Minnesota 5, Houston 4 and the Tokyo Giants 1, Atlanta 0.

Steve Yeager got three hits to pace Los Angeles, playing mostly against Cincinnati's second-stringers. Don Sutton started for the Dodgers and gave up eight hits and four runs in four innings before Dennis Lewallyn picked up the victory.

Earlier in the day, the Dodgers picked up former nemesis Juan Marichal for what team executives said was a nominal price. Marichal, who was a Dodger-killer while pitching for the San Francisco Giants for 14 years, was released last year by the Boston Red Sox after a 5-1 record.

First baseman Mike Hargrove paced the Rangers by driving in four runs in their victory over Baltimore. Nyls Nyman had three RBI for the White Sox, who scored 10 runs on seven hits to insure their victory in the first inning. Willie Horton had a two-run homer for the Tigers.

The Yankees picked up their third straight exhibition victory with the help of two-run homers by Bob Oliver and Bobby Bonds, both newly-acquired players. Relief pitcher Al Hrabosky drove in the winning run in the eighth inning for the Cards' victory.

Catcher Gary Carter stole two bases as the Expos, who stole seven bases in all, clubbed Boston. The Twins, who gave up four runs in the first inning, came back with three in the sixth, sparked by Larry Hisle's two-run double. Doug Rader had three RBI on two hits for Houston. Tokyo's Osamu Shimano gave up just two hits, singles to Darrell Evans and Dave Johnson, to blank the Braves.

'Human Eraser' Heads AP Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Webster, Morgan State's feared "Human Eraser", and Eugene Short, the high-powered forward from Jackson State, were among those named today to the Associated Press' 1975 Little All-America basketball team.

Joining the talented giants on the AP's glamour team are forward Gerald Cunningham of Kentucky State; guard Lloyd Free of Guilford and guard Ike Williams of Armstrong State.

Webster, a 6-foot-11 senior called "a near-pro franchise" by one scout, and Short, a 6-7 junior termed the best forward ever to play at Jackson State, are repeaters from last year's first team. In addition, Webster was a second team All-America two years ago.

Free, a 6-2 junior, was a second-team All-America last year. Cunningham, a 6-7 sophomore, and Williams, a 6-4 senior, are in the blue ribbon group for the first time.

Webster was the heart and soul of Morgan State's team for the third straight year, although falling off from previous seasons because of a hepititis attack.

Certain to go on the first round of the pro draft, Webster averaged 17.4 rebounds and 16.4 points a game this season. Webster owes his colorful nickname to awesome shot-blocking talents. This ability has classified him as the top center in the country by pro scouts.

Short, one of the nation's most fluid big men, averaged more than 26 points and over 9 rebounds a game.

The lanky Cunningham, a 200-pounder with grace, led his team into the NAIA playoffs and his coach, Lucius Mitchell, calls him "the best player in the country this year, barring none." The muscular forward scored nearly 25 points and averaged more than 13 rebounds a game for Kentucky State.

He hit on 71 per cent of his field goals, a figure that led the nation, and managed 95 steals during the course of 25 games. Cunningham was drafted last year as a freshman by an American Basketball Association team and will be on the "Wanted List" again this season.

Free has been termed one of the 10 best players in the country, including both small and major colleges.

Free, an inspirational leader at Guilford, averaged 25.4 points a game while connecting on 51 per cent of his shots from the field. In addition, the blue chip guard averaged nearly 6 rebounds a game.

Williams was an unexcelled team leader, averaging 21 points, 6 assists, 5 steals and 5 rebounds a game.

The Second Team includes, Major Jones of Albany State; Jim Blanks of Gardner-Webb; Bayard Forrest of Grand Canyon; Brian Hammel of Bentley and Lewis Linder of Kentucky State.

Take Two Wins For 6-0 Spring Record

Phillies Double Their Pleasure

From Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies are looking twice as good as any other baseball team in spring training so far. Even when they split their team in half, they can't be beaten.

The Phillies divided into two squads Tuesday and doubled their pleasure with victories over the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chunichi Dragons.

The 7-5 victory over the Pirates and 12-1 drubbing of the Dragons gave the Phillies a perfect 6-0 record and an inside track on the Citrus League championship.

Facing Pittsburgh at Bradenton, the Phillies took advantage of Steve Blass' wildness to beat the Pirates. Blass, plagued with the same wildness that sent him to the minor leagues, walked four straight batters to open the seventh, throwing two wild pitches in the process, to give the Phillies two runs and a 5-4 lead. The Phillies then scored their winning run on a sacrifice fly off the one-time Pirate ace.

Tony Taylor, a former Phillie who is enjoying a second chance with his team, homered, scored four times and stole two bases to lead the runaway over the Japanese visitors at Clearwater.

Elsewhere, it was Los Angeles 10, Cincinnati 6; Texas 6, Baltimore 2; Chicago 12, Detroit 4; New York Yankees 4, New York Mets 0; St. Louis 3, Kansas City 2; Montreal 9, Boston 3; Minnesota 5, Houston 4 and the Tokyo Giants 1, Atlanta 0.

Steve Yeager got three hits to pace Los Angeles, playing mostly against Cincinnati's second-stringers. Don Sutton started for the Dodgers and gave up eight hits and four runs in four innings before Dennis Lewallyn picked up the victory.

Earlier in the day, the Dodgers picked up former nemesis Juan Marichal for what team executives said was a nominal price. Marichal, who was a Dodger-killer while pitching for the San Francisco Giants for 14 years, was released last year by the Boston Red Sox after a 5-1 record.

Golden Nuggets Clinch ABA West Title

DENVER (AP) — Paced by a career-high 31 points from rookie Bobby Jones, the Denver Nuggets beat Virginia 137-123 Tuesday night and achieved what must have seemed like sheer folly to imagine a year ago.

The Nuggets, who last year finished fifth in the five-team division and missed the playoffs, clinched the Western Division title in the American Basketball Association with Tuesday night's triumph.

After last year's debacle, the Denver franchise changed its name from the Rockets to the Nuggets, hired a new front office and signed some no-nonsense, unselfish players. But much of the credit has to go to Larry Brown, who possesses a certain magic when it comes to teams he is coaching for the first time.

In his first year of pro coaching three years ago, Brown guided the Carolina Cougars to the Eastern Division title.

Asked how that Cougar team compared to the Nuggets, Brown said Tuesday night: "This is the greatest. We all had to do more here and we had to work harder. Everyone had to struggle."

Brown noted that the Carolina team possessed a number of superstars, such as Joe Caldwell and Billy Cunningham.

"Here it was just a bunch of people who just wanted to establish something," he said.

The victory gave the Nuggets a 13-game lead over second-place San Antonio. Each team has 12 games remaining.

Brown says Denver's next goal is to advance to the championship series. Denver's other West title came in 1969-70, but the old Rockets bowed in the second round of the playoffs.

The Nuggets possess the best record in pro basketball, 55-17, and it will be up to Brown to keep them from going flat in the remaining regular-season games.

Tuesday night, the Nuggets led throughout the contest, except for the early stages. Rookie Don Washington teamed with Ralph Simpson to move Denver to a 22-13 lead in the first quarter, but the Squires, behind George Irvine and Willie Wise, battled back to within two.

The Nuggets stretched their margin to 40-35 midway through the second period, and blew the game open in the third quarter racing to a 98-72 lead behind the scoring of Washington, Mack Calvin, Jones and Simpson.

Irvine's three-pointer with 2:42 left to play cut the margin to 122-113, but the Squires got no closer than that.

Simpson finished with 23 points and Dave Robisch had 21 for Denver. Irvine had 26 and Mike Jackson and Dave Twardzik 18 each for Virginia. Wise, smothered most of the evening by Jones, had 17 points.

Fresh Miller Confident At Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Johnny Miller, fresh and rested after some time off, returns to tour competition this week and takes on Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino in the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

"I always seem to play my best after taking a break," said Miller, a three-time winner and the sensation of the winter tour. "You look at my record.

"Except for the U.S. Open, and the times I've won two or three in a row, all of my wins have come immediately after I've had some time off. I just seem to play better. I'm more enthusiastic, after I've had a break."

Miller has had a two-week rest at his home in Napa, Calif., coming into the Thursday start of this 72-hole chase for a $30,000 first prize over the 7,065-yard, Doral County Club course.

At one time Miller, the runaway, record-setting winner of the two Arizona tournaments that opened the tour this season, had planned to skip this event, but he decided to enter at the last minute. He's the probable favorite, but Nicklaus and Trevino are close behind.

"It always gives you a lot of confidence when you win your first tournament of the year," Trevino said after his front-running triumph last weekend in the Citrus Open at Orlando.

"I seem to be a streak player. When I get it going, I sometimes keep it going for a while. And I'm playing a golf course that I like."

Nicklaus also has a history of success in this event, winning the tournament in 1972. He's coming off a one-week break and will be trying to wipe out the memory of a final-round collapse that cost him the title in his last start, the Jackie Gleason Classic.

Some other standouts include Sam Snead and his nephew, J.C., millionaires Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Crampton of Australia, defending champion Buddy Allin and Gleason winner Bob Murphy.

Ben Crenshaw, who broke a lengthy slump with a strong performance last week, heads a list of young turks that also includes Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Tom Kite and Jerry Heard.

Golden Nuggets Clinch ABA West Title

DENVER (AP) — Paced by a career-high 31 points from rookie Bobby Jones, the Denver Nuggets beat Virginia 137-123 Tuesday night and achieved what must have seemed like sheer folly to imagine a year ago.

The Nuggets, who last year finished fifth in the five-team division and missed the playoffs, clinched the Western Division title in the American Basketball Association with Tuesday night's triumph.

After last year's debacle, the Denver franchise changed its name from the Rockets to the Nuggets, hired a new front office and signed some no-nonsense, unselfish players. But much of the credit has to go to Larry Brown, who possesses a certain magic when it comes to teams he is coaching for the first time.

In his first year of pro coaching three years ago, Brown guided the Carolina Cougars to the Eastern Division title.

Asked how that Cougar team compared to the Nuggets, Brown said Tuesday night: "This is the greatest. We all had to do more here and we had to work harder. Everyone had to struggle."

Brown noted that the Carolina team possessed a number of superstars, such as Joe Caldwell and Billy Cunningham.

"Here it was just a bunch of people who just wanted to establish something," he said.

The victory gave the Nuggets a 13-game lead over second-place San Antonio. Each team has 12 games remaining.

Brown says Denver's next goal is to advance to the championship series. Denver's other West title came in 1969-70, but the old Rockets bowed in the second round of the playoffs.

The Nuggets possess the best record in pro basketball, 55-17, and it will be up to Brown to keep them from going flat in the remaining regular-season games.

Tuesday night, the Nuggets led throughout the contest, except for the early stages. Rookie Don Washington teamed with Ralph Simpson to move Denver to a 22-13 lead in the first quarter, but the Squires, behind George Irvine and Willie Wise, battled back to within two.

The Nuggets stretched their margin to 49-35 midway through the second period, and blew the game open in the third quarter racing to a 99-72 lead behind the scoring of Washington, Mack Calvin, Jones and Simpson.

Irvine's three-pointer with 2:49 left to play cut the margin to 122-113, but the Squires got no closer than that.

Simpson finished with 23 points and Dave Robisch had 21 for Denver. Irvine had 26 and Mike Jackson and Dave Twardzik 18 each for Virginia. Wise, smothered most of the evening by Jones, had 17 points.

Fresh Miller Confident At Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — Johnny Miller, fresh and rested after some time off, returns to tour competition this week and takes on Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino in the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

"I always seem to play my best after taking a break," said Miller, a three-time winner and the sensation of the winter tour. "You look at my record.

"Except for the U.S. Open, and the times I've won two or three in a row, all of my wins have come immediately after I've had some time off. I just seem to play better. I'm more enthusiastic, after I've had a break."

Miller has had a two-week rest at his home in Napa, Calif., coming into the Thursday start of this 72-hole chase for a $30,000 first prize over the 7,065-yard, Doral County Club course.

At one time Miller, the runaway, record-setting winner of the two Arizona tournaments that opened the tour this season, had planned to skip this event, but he decided to enter at the last minute. He's the probable favorite, but Nicklaus and Trevino are close behind.

"It always gives you a lot of confidence when you win your first tournament of the year," Trevino said after his front-running triumph last weekend in the Citrus Open at Orlando.

"I seem to be a streak player. When I get it going, I sometimes keep it going for a while. And I'm playing a golf course that I like."

Nicklaus also has a history of success in this event, winning the tournament in 1972. He's coming off a one-week break and will be trying to wipe out the memory of a final-round collapse that cost him the title in his last start, the Jackie Gleason Classic.

Some other standouts include Sam Snead and his nephew, J.C., millionaires Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Crampton of Australia, defending champion Buddy Allin and Gleason winner Bob Murphy.

Ben Crenshaw, who broke a lengthy slump with a strong performance last week, heads a list of young turks that also includes Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Tom Kite and Jerry Heard.

'Live' Coverage Idea Still Kicking

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The issue of live TV and radio broadcasts of House and Senate floor debates is knocking about in Congress again, after an initial Senate proposal died in the last days of the 93rd Congress.

On this go-around, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, and Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., each have introduced resolutions their offices say would:

—Provide a closed-circuit test of broadcasting floor debate for a period of up to six months, the coverage piped to certain members of the House and Senate.

—Allow commercial and public broadcasters, after approved by both houses, to plug into the circuit after the test period, and air live or taped broadcast of the proceedings.

Brooks and Metcalf are the chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, which last October recommended that live broadcast coverage of the Congress' floor proceedings be allowed on a one-year trial basis this year.

The proposal was given impetus by the nationally-televised Senate Watergate hearings in 1973 and the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings last year.

But the House hasn't allowed live broadcasts of its regular floor sessions since 1947, when it permitted TV coverage for the opening session of the 80th Congress.

And the Senate relented only last December, and then only for the swearing-in of Vice-President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Although the joint committee report recommends that the Congress consider "inviting" the Public Broadcasting Service to submit proposals for operating the congressional TV system, committee officials say the Metcalf-Brooks resolutions don't urge such an invitation.

The measures instead leave operation of the system, as well as coverage ground rules, to be decided by the House and Senate organizations concerned with the matter, the officials say.

In the Senate's case, the decision-maker would be the Rules Committee. On the House side, it would be the newly-formed House Commission on information and facilities.

The Texas congressman, interviewed by phone, said the Metcalf resolution, introduced in late January, "has considerable support in the Senate."

However, he added, even though House Speaker Carl Albert is "sympathetic to it," he is not certain yet how much House support exists for his own resolution because it was introduced only last week.

Research To Conquer 'Slow Viruses' Moves Slowly

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a series of articles on diseases that can't yet be cured or prevented because scientists lack fundamental knowledge about them.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — "Slow viruses," they are called.

For years they may slowly cause vague symptoms or "sleep" in your body until they waken to invade the brain, the nervous system or an organ, often disastrously.

Slow viruses may be one fuse that ignites some human cancers.

RELOCATION: Alfred Phillipy, left, Three Oaks, has relocated his vacuum sales and service store to Red Arrow highway, Bridgman. Store had been located in Three Oaks. At right is David Lake, Bridgman, sales manager. Store will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays. (Barbara Taylor photo)

A slow-working measles virus 20 years later may cause the destructive nerve disease, multiple sclerosis.

By contrast, the viruses of polio, flu, the common cold, all strike rather quickly.

Medical researchers are frankly stalled in efforts to identify most of the slow viruses, as a first step toward controlling them. Yet they cause a significant and perhaps increasing amount of illness and death. No one knows just how much.

The slow viruses are one example of what may be called the "stalled diseases," meaning those in which there are roadblocks to full understanding of how they come about and how they can be cured or prevented.

Our two major killers, heart disease and cancer, are stalled in varying degrees.

So also are other diseases — some caused by viruses — which receive far less money for research and cure, but which impose an enormous burden of human pain, disability, and death upon millions of Americans.

In truth, they are not completely stalled; there has been some heartening progress. But the frontal assaults to find cures or controls have foundered primarily for lack of basic knowledge of why and how these diseases occur.

Lack of research funds also has been a problem.

National Institute of Health funds for research in cancer and heart disease have increased rapidly in this decade. For cancer, they rose from $190 million in 1970 to $527 million last year, and for heart disease and stroke, they have gone up from $176 million to $296 million the five years. In contrast, NIH budgets for research into multiple sclerosis, allergies, arthritis, hepatitis, diabetes and kidney diseases ranged last year from $4.2 million to $28.4 million.

Several hard questions are blocking major progress.

In one case or another, not enough is known yet about autoimmune diseases, in which the body's natural defenses become subverted to produce diseases rather than to prevent them.

Not enough is known yet about all the ways that cells and organs "talk" with one another, including through the genetic code; the way instructions sometimes go awry or are disobeyed.

Not enough is known yet as to how to grow and harvest a number of disease viruses, to identify them, perhaps to make vaccines with them.

Not enough is known yet about "receptor sites" in the body onto which hormones and vitamins and some drugs must latch in order to become effective. When receptor sites are missing, deficiency diseases can occur, such as rickets from inability to respond to vitamin D.

"There is a flock of such diseases, not a single one of them yet treatable or curable. And they won't be without further chemical and cell studies," says Dr. Dewitt Stetten Jr., deputy director for science of the National Institutes of Health.

Slow virus diseases are equally baffling. Some scientists consider them to be "incomplete" viruses that remain inactive in the body until something happens to supply the missing component.

Various bits of evidence link measles virus to the development later in life of multiple sclerosis, and another more rare nerve disease, subacute sclerosing panencephalitis, nicknamed SSPE. A fatal disease, SSPE strikes perhaps one in a million children or young adults.

In most cases, the SSPE victims had contracted measles in the first year of life, when normal immune mechanisms are not yet well developed, says Dr. Donald B. Tower, director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke.

Four out of five Americans may be infected with another agent, the cytomegalovirus (CMV), which rarely causes illness in adults. When it does, it produces fever and swollen glands.

But unborn babies who catch CMV from their mothers are sometimes born with brain and liver defects, or babies who appear perfectly healthy at birth may some years later suffer from deafness or borderline brain damage.

A slow virus is suspected of causing Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, marked by early and exaggeraed senility with forgetfulness, slowed body movements, erratic gait, and mental deterioration.

C-J disease, named for its discoverers, occurs sporadically through the world, and tends to run in families. It can be surprisngly transmissible, Dr. Tower says, telling of a report of an eye operation in which a person who received a corneal transplant from a donor who had had C-J disease came down with the disease 18 months later.

The virus of the cold sore or fever blister, Herpes simplex, "hides" in body tissues quite harmlessly until something triggers it into action. The triggers can be sunburn, common cold or the onset of the menstrual cycle. This virus is so widespread that it might provide some insight into the behavior of other latent or slow viruses.

A major roadblock to understanding and controlling slow virus and other virus diseases is the inability, in many cases, to isolate and identify them, says Dr. John Seal, scientific director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

As an example, he says that the virus causing "intestinal flu" with its penalties of vomiting and diarrhea, can be seen and identified. But all efforts to grow it in tissue culture, as a step to harvesting enough virus with which to make a vaccine, have failed so far.

Dr. Seal, in an interview, questioned whether it would be wise or feasible to try to develop vaccines against all the many flu-like diseases that come along in waves without killing people.

There are perhaps 100 rhinoviruses suspected of causing common colds, he said. Even if vaccines could be developed against all the 100, no one knows what adverse effects might follow the pumping of dozens of vaccines into people.

"Might there not be a boomerang effect, from sensitizing people to the agents you are injecting in vaccines?" Dr. Seal asks.

The question may become urgent when and if progress comes against the stalled diseases.

Research To Conquer 'Slow Viruses' Moves Slowly

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first in a series of articles on diseases that can't yet be cured or prevented because scientists lack fundamental knowledge about them.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — "Slow viruses," they are called.

For years they may slowly cause vague symptoms or "sleep" in your body until they waken to invade the brain, the nervous system or an organ, often disastrously.

Slow viruses may be one fuse that ignites some human cancers.

AFTER ONE-YEAR HIATUS

Divine Miss M Is Back

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

A: Yes, she did drop out because she got scared. She felt her voice had lost its unique quality and she feared she might not get it back to its proper timbre. But her agents finally convinced Bette she had to end her year's hiatus. So she started with that Cher guest spot on TV, is set to work again on Broadway and do a tour, plus a recent press conference and lots of publicity. Phil Greenwald, the Sol Hurok of the Catskills, is negotiating to bring the Divine Miss M to the Concord Hotel.

A: Are you kidding? He'll gross $4 million this year and, except for occasional strain to his eye, is in better health since he cut down on his drinking. Sammy owns $700,000 worth of stock in a Vegas hotel, pays his staff $30,000 a week, has five rare, expensive cars, a wardrobe that requires two floors in his 25-room house, owns 1,000 feature-length films, keeps a TV set in every room of his home and thinks nothing of dropping $3,000 on lunch for over 50 friends.

Q: I read that some oil-rich Arabs made a try at increasing their fortunes at the Las Vegas gambling spots. With their money, couldn't they easily break the bank at Monte Carlo? — K.D., Pullman, Wash.

A: They've tried it, but it isn't that easy. Prince Rainier says the Monte Carlo bank has never been "broken." The Arabs arrived in a group in a fleet of Cadillacs with a covey of beautiful girls and bundles of cash. When they departed a week later, the bank was still there though poorer by a reported $4 million.

NO CRIMPING THEIR STYLE: With hairdressers the men of the hour these days ("Shampoo" is a movie smash and crimpers are the new Don Juans of Hollywood) no one was shocked the other day at the VIP treatment accorded Tina Sinatra's beau, Hugh York, of the golden scissors. Liza Minnelli had him flown to her Mexican movie location on a private Lear jet just to snip off two bothersome Minnelli locks.

Q: What was my darling Cher doing at that party where people were taking drugs and one died from bad stuff? Will this ruin her career? — P.P., Dallas, Tex.

A: Since Cher saved one boy's life by walking him around until help came and testified freely to the grand jury in the matter of the death, it seems she's more heroine than heel. Listen: Nobody could attend any large Hollywood party these days if they stayed away because a few guests use drugs. Same goes for many other big cities. At a swanky priate club opening in New York recently, the Jet Set lined the walls sniffing coke while the TV newsmen ground away and reported the "glamorous" opening.

Q: My favorite movie star was always Audrey Hepburn. Is there any chance she will return to the screen at all? — L.O., Winston-Salem, S.C.

A: Audrey has turned down more than 200 scripts in the last few years but has finally agreed to co-star with Sean Connery in "Robin Hood" this May.

Robin Adams Sloan welcomes questions from readers. While Sloan cannot provide individual answers, questions of general interest will be used in the column. Write to Robin Adams Sloan, care of this newspaper.

RAINIER: The bank is intact.

Andrews Offering 27 Workshops

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The school of graduate studies at Andrews university here will be offering 27 workshops and special programs this summer between June 6 and Aug. 22 in business administration, communication, education, home economics, industrial education, music, physical education, physics, and chemistry.

The workshops will vary from three days to three weeks and will offer up to four quarter credits. Tuition is $41 a credit. There is in addition a $10 fee for each workshop, which is not required of participants with regular status in one of the colleges or schools of the university.

Thirteen of the workshops will be in education. These will be held during seven one or two-week time segments, scheduled end-to-end. Four, arranged in sequence, are for the classroom teacher.

They are: early childhood education curriculum, June 16-27; learning disabilities and related problems, June 30-July 11; instructional planning and classroom management, July 14-25; and use of media in instructional development, July 28-Aug. 8.

Others in education will be supervision of student teachers, June 9-13; goal-oriented leadership, June 9-13; human potential, June 22-27; family life, June 30-July 11; special methods in secondary teaching of religion, June 30-July 11; residence hall directors, June 30-July 11; planing for discipline, Aug. 11-15; creative principalship, Aug. 11-15; career development, Aug. 11-22.

Of the three workshops to be offered in music, one on rock music, Aug. 11-13, will be directed by Bob Larson, a former rock music composer and performer. The other music workshops are in elementary music education, June 9-13, and piano, June 9-13.

Two workshops will offer credit in home economics: home nutrition instructor, June 9-13, current issues in home economics, June 9-17; and food service supervisors, July 6-24.

The workshops will be available in communication: teaching journalism, July 7-18, and interpersonal communication, Aug. 11-15. In business administration, there will be a workshop on computers and auditing Aug. 25-Sept. 4.

An industrial education workshop is scheduled for July 14-25, and a workshop in physical education for the elementary school for June 8-13.

Concepts in chemistry, June 16-27, demonstrations in physics, July 14-25, and electronics for teachers, June 30-July 11, will be offered in the sciences.

Reservations are required for all workshops. For further information on credits, content, costs, and registrations procedures, write the dean of the school of graduate studies at the university, Berrien Springs, Mich. 49104.

Awana Clubs Note Silver Anniversary

More than 5,000 Awana clubs throughout the world are celebrating the Silver Anniversary of Awana this month.

Awana clubs are similar to Boy and Girl Scout organizations, but are more religion oriented and are usually sponsored by churches, according to Norman Crawford, head of the Calvary Bible church Awana club, 3300 Territorial road, Benton township.

The beginnings of Awana date back to the 1930's when one church organized a club for its youth. The movement spread and in 1950, the Awana Youth Association was incorporated.

Crawford said there are six clubs in Berrien and Van Buren counties and about 704 clubs throughout Michigan.

The Calvary Awana club is open to boys and girls ages 8 through 13.Crawford said they meet from 7 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. every Thursday. He said membership in Calvary Bible church is not required to join Awana.

Awana means: "Approved Workmen Are Not Ashamed" from II Timothy 2:15.

Measures Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $9-billion federal investment in flood control has failed to check a steady rise in flood damage, government investigators say.

A report to Congress says annual losses have increased over the past 40 years to more than $1 billion annually and may triple that amount by the year 2000.

Calories Don't Tell Whole Story

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Simple calorie counting may not tell the whole story on weight gain, as the source of calories may count too, a researcher says.

Dr. Rachel Schemmel, a nutrition expert at Michigan State University, reported different weight gains in rats fed different diets with equivalent caloric value.

Sucrose or common table sugar puts more weight on experimental animals than an equivalent number of calories in whole grain cereals, she said in prepared remarks for a conference on sugars and other sweeteners at MSU's Kellogg Center.

Is there an Einstein in the house?

An Einstein may come along only once in a lifetime. But given the proper training, who knows what the "genius" in your family may be able to accomplish.

If he has a proven interest in science or electronics, the Navy has training programs in nuclear power and advanced electronics that can take his mind as far as it can go.

The work in nuclear propulsion is tough. It's demanding. But young men who qualify will learn everything the Navy can teach them about this field of the future. And the Navy probably knows more about it than anyone else.

We have an equally stimulating advanced electronics program for qualified high school graduates.

Either program can take a young man all over the world. It will pay him well, make him eligible for all Navy benefits, and place his career firmly in the future.

We'd like to send more information about the Navy's nuclear propulsion and advanced electronics programs. Just send us the coupon.

Because if there's an Einstein in the house, he'd probably like to know about the Nuclear Navy. Or the Electronic one.

By Robin Adams Sloan

A: Yes, she did drop out because she got scared. She felt her voice had lost its unique quality and she feared she might not get it back to its proper timbre. But her agents finally convinced Bette she had to end her year's hiatus. So she started with that Cher guest spot on TV, is set to work again on Broadway and do a tour, plus a recent press conference and lots of publicity. Phil Greenwald, the Sol Hurok of the Catskills, is negotiating to bring the Divine Miss M to the Concord Hotel.

A: Are you kidding? He'll gross $4 million this year and, except for occasional strain to his eye, is in better health since he cut down on his drinking. Sammy owns $700,000 worth of stock in a Vegas hotel, pays his staff $30,000 a week, has five rare, expensive cars, a wardrobe that requires two floors in his 25-room house, owns 1,000 feature-length films, keeps a TV set in every room of his home and thinks nothing of dropping $3,000 on lunch for over 50 friends.

Q: I read that some oil-rich Arabs made a try at increasing their fortunes at the Las Vegas gambling spots. With their money, couldn't they easily break the bank at Monte Carlo? — K.D., Pullman, Wash.

A: They've tried it, but it isn't that easy. Prince Rainier says the Monte Carlo bank has never been "broken." The Arabs arrived in a group in a fleet of Cadillacs with a covey of beautiful girls and bundles of cash. When they departed a week later, the bank was still there though poorer by a reported $4 million.

NO CRIMPING THEIR STYLE: With hairdressers the men of the hour these days ("Shampoo" is a movie smash and crimpers are the new Don Juans of Hollywood) no one was shocked the other day at the VIP treatment accorded Tina Sinatra's beau, Hugh York, of the golden scissors. Liza Minnelli had him flown to her Mexican movie location on a private Lear jet just to snip off two bothersome Minnelli locks.

Q: What was my darling Cher doing at that party where people were taking drugs and one died from bad stuff? Will this ruin her career? — P.P., Dallas, Tex.

A: Since Cher saved one boy's life by walking him around until help came and testified freely to the grand jury in the matter of the death, it seems she's more heroine than heel. Listen: Nobody could attend any large Hollywood party these days if they stayed away because a few guests use drugs. Same goes for many other big cities. At a swanky priate club opening in New York recently, the Jet Set lined the walls sniffing coke while the TV newsmen ground away and reported the "glamorous" opening.

Q: My favorite movie star was always Audrey Hepburn. Is there any chance she will return to the screen at all? — L.O., Winston-Salem, S.C.

A: Audrey has turned down more than 200 scripts in the last few years but has finally agreed to co-star with Sean Connery in "Robin Hood" this May.

Awana Clubs Note Silver Anniversary

More than 5,000 Awana clubs throughout the world are celebrating the Silver Anniversary of Awana this month.

Awana clubs are similar to Boy and Girl Scout organizations, but are more religion oriented and are usually sponsored by churches, according to Norman Crawford, head of the Calvary Bible church Awana club, 3300 Territorial road, Benton township.

The beginnings of Awana date back to the 1930's when one church organized a club for its youth. The movement spread and in 1950, the Awana Youth Association was incorporated.

Crawford said there are six clubs in Berrien and Van Buren counties and about 704 clubs throughout Michigan.

The Calvary Awana club is open to boys and girls ages 8 through 13.Crawford said they meet from 7 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. every Thursday. He said membership in Calvary Bible church is not required to join Awana.

Awana means: "Approved Workmen Are Not Ashamed" from II Timothy 2:15.

Measures Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $9-billion federal investment in flood control has failed to check a steady rise in flood damage, government investigators say.

A report to Congress says annual losses have increased over the past 40 years to more than $1 billion annually and may triple that amount by the year 2000.

Calories Don't Tell Whole Story

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Simple calorie counting may not tell the whole story on weight gain, as the source of calories may count too, a researcher says.

Dr. Rachel Schemmel, a nutrition expert at Michigan State University, reported different weight gains in rats fed different diets with equivalent caloric value.

Sucrose or common table sugar puts more weight on experimental animals than an equivalent number of calories in whole grain cereals, she said in prepared remarks for a conference on sugars and other sweeteners at MSU's Kellogg Center.

Is there an Einstein in the house?

An Einstein may come along only once in a lifetime. But given the proper training, who knows what the "genius" in your family may be able to accomplish.

If he has a proven interest in science or electronics, the Navy has training programs in nuclear power and advanced electronics that can take his mind as far as it can go.

The work in nuclear propulsion is tough. It's demanding. But young men who qualify will learn everything the Navy can teach them about this field of the future. And the Navy probably knows more about it than anyone else.

Either program can take a young man all over the world. It will pay him well, make him eligible for all Navy benefits, and place his career firmly in the future.

We'd like to send more information about the Navy's nuclear propulsion and advanced electronics programs. Just send us the coupon.

Because if there's an Einstein in the house, he'd probably like to know about the Nuclear Navy. Or the Electronic one.

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area member of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending March 6 were:

HOUSE

Lower Interest Rates — By a 367-55 vote the House went on record urging the Federal Reserve board to conduct monetary policy during the first half of 1975 in a way to encourage lower long-term interest rates, such as for home mortgage, durable consumer goods and capital improvements by business. The vote was on a concurrent resolution. Such resolutions require action by both houses, but do not require the President's signature and lack the force of law.

Supporters of the resolution said it was a clear directive to the Federal Reserve board and thus would have an impact on its policies. They also argued lower interest rates would stimulate the economy and contribute to lower unemployment.

Opponents contended that the resolution was meaningless since it lacked the force of law and that Congress could directly help improve the nation's economic situation by cutting federal spending.

SENATE

Filibuster Cut-off Rule Change — By a 73-21 vote — 10 more than the two-thirds needed — the Senate took a major step toward changing its filibuster cut-off rule by limiting debate on a motion to bring that issue to a final vote. The action was a victory for the Senate leadership and reformers who favor a compromise change in the Senate's rules to reduce the number of senators required to cut off floor debate on legislation.

Under the proposed change, the votes of three-fifths of the total membership of the Senate — 60 senators when there are no vacancies — would be sufficient to end filibusters. The present rule requires the votes of two-thirds of all senators present and voting to cut off debate and bring a matter to a vote.

Backers of the rules change to lower the number of votes required to cut off a filibuster argued that it would prevent a small minority of members from paralyzing the Senate on the critical issues that will face the 94th Congress.

Opponents said that the weakening of the filibuster cut-off rule would be the first step toward allowing a majority of senators to cut off debate and would prevent a minority from protecting its interests.

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area member of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending March 6 were:

HOUSE

Lower Interest Rates — By a 367-55 vote the House went on record urging the Federal Reserve board to conduct monetary policy during the first half of 1975 in a way to encourage lower long-term interest rates, such as for home mortgage, durable consumer goods and capital improvements by business. The vote was on a concurrent resolution. Such resolutions require action by both houses, but do not require the President's signature and lack the force of law.

Supporters of the resolution said it was a clear directive to the Federal Reserve board and thus would have an impact on its policies. They also argued lower interest rates would stimulate the economy and contribute to lower unemployment.

Opponents contended that the resolution was meaningless since it lacked the force of law and that Congress could directly help improve the nation's economic situation by cutting federal spending.

— Not Voting: Brown (R).

SENATE

Filibuster Cut-off Rule Change — By a 73-21 vote — 10 more than the two-thirds needed — the Senate took a major step toward changing its filibuster cut-off rule by limiting debate on a motion to bring that issue to a final vote. The action was a victory for the Senate leadership and reformers who favor a compromise change in the Senate's rules to reduce the number of senators required to cut off floor debate on legislation.

Under the proposed change, the votes of three-fifths of the total membership of the Senate — 60 senators when there are no vacancies — would be sufficient to end filibusters. The present rule requires the votes of two-thirds of all senators present and voting to cut off debate and bring a matter to a vote.

Backers of the rules change to lower the number of votes required to cut off a filibuster argued that it would prevent a small minority of members from paralyzing the Senate on the critical issues that will face the 94th Congress.

Opponents said that the weakening of the filibuster cut-off rule would be the first step toward allowing a majority of senators to cut off debate and would prevent a minority from protecting its interests.

Government Employment Above-Average

From PARK ROW News Service

NEW YORK — (Special) — How many Berrien county residents are holding down local government jobs?

How does the number so employed locally compare, relative to population, with that in other communities?

A comprehensive survey of public employment, covering all parts of the country, has just been released by the Department of Commerce, based upon data gathered in connection with its latest Census of Governments. It lists the number of people on public payrolls in the various divisions of local government — county, township, municipality, school district and special district. Federal and state employes are treated separately. It shows that in Berrien county, after converting part-time workers to their fulltime equivalent so that inter-county comparisons can be made, there are approximately 33 fulltime employes or their equivalent locally for every 1,000 residents.

This is a larger operating force than is found in most places in the United States, where the average is 32 per 1,000 population. Among local communities in the State of Michigan the average is 31 per 1,000. As for the actual count, the report shows a total of 5,467 equivalent full-time workers on public payrolls in the county. With regard to the payroll to operate the local governments, it has been running somewhat higher in Berrien county than in most parts of the United States. Whether the services rendered were more productive or less so is not taken into account. The total payroll in the month the census was taken represented a cost equal to $25.99 per local resident.

Nationally, the cost of meeting such payrolls averaged $25.16 per capita per month. In the State of Michigan it was $29.63. If all public employment — Federal, state and local — were taken into account, it would be found that one person out of every six in the nation is on some government payroll, according to the Tax Foundation. It places the current public payroll at more than $135 billion a year, up 60 percent in the last five years.

BICENTENNIAL FLAG: Berrien Bicentennial commission is in process of presenting county bicentennial flags to all high schools, colleges and universities in county. Here, A.S. Byrns Reverses Decision Of State Welfare Chief

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON Staff Writer

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns has issued an opinion to permit certain categories of legal guardians to receive ADC benefits for children under their care. The ruling reverses a dcision by the state director of social services.

The opinion found in favor of Tempie Delmore, of 1134 Blossom lane, Benton township, and against a previous decision by R. Bernard Houston, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Byrns' ruling will allow legal guardians in certain instances to get ADC when the person has a dependent child in his or her care. But the opinion noted: "It is limited to those cases in which a legal guardian of the person is appointed by the proper probate court, the ward in fact resides with the guardian and considers the residence to be her (his) home; and the child is otherwise eligible to receive ADC benefits for its care and support."

Houston had ruled that since the child being cared for by Mrs. Delmore was not a foster child as defined by an ADC statute, and was not related to the woman, Mrs. Delmore was not eligible for ADC benefits.

The opinion also held that denial of payments to Mrs. Delmore was a violation of her and the child's right to equal protection of the law.

"There evolves two classes of dependent children," the opinion says, "one of which receives payments because it is in the custody of parents or relatives or foster parents; the other of which is denied payment because the children within it are cared for by legal guardians."

Mrs. Delmore's appeal to the circuit court claimed the two classifications were not "rational, reasonable, or just."

The opinion said the child, Rosie Etta Hardin, has resided with Mrs. Delmore for over 10 years. It said the child's mother, Alberta Hardin, was hospitalized in 1970, and Mrs. Delmore was then granted legal guardianship of Rosie and Mrs. Hardin's three other minor children. During Mrs. Hardin's hospitalization, Mrs. Delmore received ADC for the four children, and when Mrs. Hardin was released in 1972, all the children except Rosie were returned to their mother.

It said the Berrien department of social services has included Rosie in her mother's grant, and Mrs. Hardin voluntarily pays Mrs. Delmore $40 per month for Rosie's care.

However, Mrs. Delmore would receive $66 per month if she were the grantee of the ADC benefits, the opinion states. There was no indication in the opinion whether the ruling would be applied retroactively.

ADC Father Must Pay Tax Refund

A Berrien circuit court judge this week ordered that all of the income tax refund and part of the unemployment compensation received by a father owing more than $4,000 child support arrearage go towards the arrears.

Judge Chester J. Byrns made the order for Dale F. Jones, of 1153 Centerfield, Niles, who was found in contempt of court by Byrns for $4,027 arrears for two children on ADC. Byrns placed Jones on two years probation, and ordered him to pay $36 weekly child support and $9 weekly on the arrears.

Judge Zoe S. Burkholz likewise found Lee Greenwood, of 260 Kirby street, Benton Harbor, in contempt for $2,047 arrears for one child on ADC. He was placed on two years probation, ordered to pay $100 immediately and sign a wage assignment of $12 weekly child support and $3 weekly on the arrears.

Berrien Students To Be In Concert

NILES - Three St. Joseph residents and a young Niles woman, all students at the University of Michigan, are members of the university symphony band that will perform in concert at the high school here at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 23.

Berrien county students who are members of the band include St. Joseph students Paul Goodman, 4474 Tanglewood; Frederick Li, 1507 Niles avenue; and Jeffrey Petrosky, 1304 Michigan avenue; and from Niles, Sue Hamilton, 3542 North Fifth street.

Sodus Approves Land Use Map

BH Fire Captain Suffers Burn

SET TO TAKE OFF?: Lake township's $251,000 elevated water storage tower under construction appears to resemble space rocket set to take off. Tower, being constructed by Chicago Bridge and Iron company, will stand 152 feet high when 300,000 gallon storage tank is put in place at top, according to Wade Shuler, township supervisor. Shuler said sections of tank will be welded together on ground, then pulled up to top and put in place by unique crane seen attached near tower's top. Tank sections are expected to be put in place starting next week, Shuler said. Water storage tower for township's water system is located off Shawnee road, just east of Jericho road by township hall and fire station. (Staff photo)

Suit Claims Sterilization Didn't Take

A Bridgman woman has filed suit in Berrien circuit court against a Benton Harbor physician, claiming that she became pregnant after a sterilization operation was performed on her.

The plaintiff, Mary Reid, seeks a judgment "that is fair and just," and claims that because she gave birth to another child she "has incurred great, unexpected expenses and has been forced to deprive her other children of necessities."

Named defendants in the suit were Dr. N.C. Sekharan, of 838 Pipestone street, and Benton Harbor Mercy hospital. The suit says Dr Sekharan specializes in obstetrics and gynecology.

The plaintiff claims she was admitted to Mercy hospital on May 2, 1973, and the operation was subsequently performed by Dr. Sekharan. The suit says the defendants told the woman the operation would make her sterile, and claims the subsequent preknancy and birth constitute a breach of contract.

Four Van Buren Bridges Declared Unsafe, Closed

The bridges are at 70th street, South Haven township, 28th avenue in Arlington township, and 52nd street in Columbia township, all of which cross the Black river; and at 69th street in Bangor township, which crosses Cedar creek, Kaiser said.

Kaiser said that in all 35 bridges in the county which were surveyed, five were found to be in excellent condition, 14 good, 12 fair to poor, and four unsafe.

He added that replacements for bridges will be the responsibility of the townships involved.

Berrien Students To Be In Concert

NILES - Three St. Joseph residents and a young Niles woman, all students at the University of Michigan, are members of the university symphony band that will perform in concert at the high school here at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 23.

Proceeds from the concert being sponsored by the University of Michigan Alumni club of Niles will go towards $500 grants for Niles area students planning to attend the university next year, according to Tom Athanas, a club spokesman.

Berrien county students who are members of the band include St. Joseph students Paul Goodman, 4474 Tanglewood; Frederick Li, 1507 Niles avenue; and Jeffrey Petrosky, 1304 Michigan avenue; and from Niles, Sue Hamilton, 3542 North Fifth street.

Sodus Approves Land Use Map

The map outlines areas for residential, agricultural, commercial and industrial areas in the township , according to Carrol Cox, township clerk.

In other areas, the board voted to allow the Galien fire department to use a frequency on Sodus township-owned radio communication system.

BH Fire Captain Suffers Burn

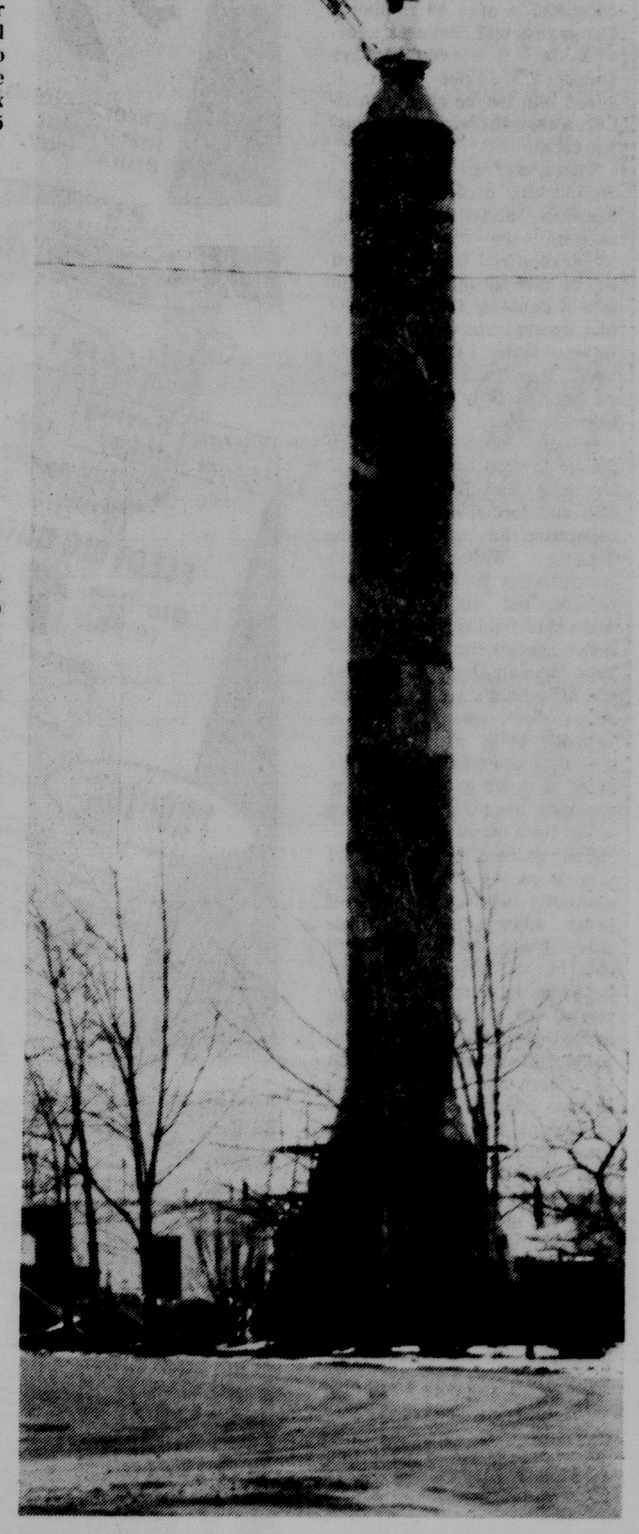
Nichols was burned when his hand touched hot pipes in the basement of the home. He was treated at the scene.

An estimated $3,000 damage was caused from a defective oil furnace, firemen said.



SET TO TAKE OFF?: Lake township's $251,000 elevated water storage tower under construction appears to resemble space rocket set to take off. Tower, being constructed by Chicago Bridge and Iron company, will stand 152 feet high when 300,000 gallon storage tank is put in place at top, according to Wade Shuler, township supervisor. Shuler said sections of tank will be welded together on ground, then pulled up to top and put in place by unique crane seen attached near tower's top. Tank sections are expected to be put in place starting next week, Shuler said. Water storage tower for township's water system is located off Shawnee road, just east of Jericho road by township hall and fire station. (Staff photo)

Suit Claims Sterilization Didn't Take

A Bridgman woman has filed suit in Berrien circuit court against a Benton Harbor physician, claiming that she became pregnant after a sterilization operation was performed on her.

The plaintiff, Mary Reid, seeks a judgment "that is fair and just," and claims that because she gave birth to another child she "has incurred great, unexpected expenses and has been forced to deprive her other children of necessities."

Named defendants in the suit were Dr. N.C. Sekharan, of 858 Pipestone street, and Benton Harbor Mercy hospital. The suit says Dr Sekharan specializes in obstetrics and gynecology.

The plaintiff claims she was admitted to Mercy hospital on May 2, 1973, and the operation was subsequently performed by Dr. Sekharan. The suit says the defendants told the woman the operation would make her sterile, and claims the subsequent preknancy and birth constitute a breach of contract.

Four Van Buren Bridges Declared Unsafe, Closed

The bridges are at 70th street, South Haven township, 28th avenue in Arlington township, and 52nd street in Columbia township, all of which cross the Black river; and at 69th street in Bangor township, which crosses Cedar creek, Kaiser said.

The bridges were declared unsafe following a study by the R.S. Scott Engineering company of Alpena, which was retained by the road commission. Kaiser said that in all 35 bridges in the county which were surveyed, five were found to be in excellent condition, 14 good, 12 fair to poor, and four unsafe.

He added that replacements for bridges will be the responsibility of the townships involved.

Some time ago I elaborated a bit on the problem facing the Democratic party as a consequence of winning the 1974 elections too big. The people have a roaring recession, ever-increasing unemployment and great expectations. It is now March, and so far the only thing that has been accomplished is the organization of four or five investigations of the Central Intelligence Agency. In the Senate, a seemingly interminable battle raged over the attempt to limit filibustering, leaving one with the distinct impression that if that body consisted of 99 liberal Democrats and Alabama's formidable conservative Democrat, James Allen, it would still not be able to institute a three-fifths rule on closing debate.

There was an Alice - in - Wonderland quality about the Senate's activities. Indeed, reading the summary in "Congressional Quarterly," you might have thought that a high school debating team was getting spring training in Robert's Rules of Order. Listen in part to what the "world's greatest deliberative body" was up to on February 24:

Senator Allen first got the Senate to drop consideration of the vital Rail Reorganization Bill and forced debate on the resolution for easing cloture. Senator Walter Mondale immediately moved to cut off debate, but majority leader Mike Mansfield raised a point of order against the Mondale motion. Mondale then moved to table Mansfield's point of order. Allen, back again, moved a broader point of order. The president pro tem ruled Allen's point of order out of order: as the vote began on this, Allen asked for a quorum call.

They counted the house, found a quorum present, and Allen promptly renewed his point of order. After some confusion, Allen made another quorum call, but the president pro tem held him out of order; Allen appealed the decision; Mondale moved to table Allen's appeal; Allen again asked for a quorum call. More chaos interrupted by Mike Mansfield's irate statement that, "We do not know what is going on." A vote was taken on Allen's motion to recess for one hour. He lost, bringing up Mondale's motion to table Allen's appeal of the president pro tem's ruling. Allen then made a priority motion to table something or other. Senator Jacob Javits called for an immediate vote; Allen for the fourth time called for a quorum.

Enough! Suffice it to say that this was only about half the day's fun and games. And that day was followed by two more with exactly the same scenario. As "Congressional Quarterly" put it, summarizing the work of February 26: "Before the Mondale motion could be taken up, Long and other conservatives rose to bitterly protest Rockefeller's failure to recognize Allen. Their protests took up the rest of the day." (Another week would pass before the issue was settled.)

Now rules are important; but their fuction is to get the people's business accomplished. Thus the view — elevated into high Constitutional theory by the conservatives — that one-third of the Senate can prevent decision by refusing to permit a vote is undemocratic nonsense. The majority, whether Democratic or Republican, has right; notably, the right to transform proposals into public policy. It's no fun — as I can testify — to be on the losing end, but that is the name of the game, the only game in town. (Those who don't like this game can always move and join the 5 percent in the Soviet Union, or the less than 1 percent in Communist China, who as members of the Party protect the rights of the minority.)

But the most intolerable aspect of this joyous session in the kiddie's sandbox is the probable reaction of the American people. From their frustrated viewpoint, the President is a dud and the Congress a joke and, despite rumors to the contrary, they are not "alienated" or prepared to abandon the "system." They are madder than hell that nothing is being done about their problems, and, in their own quiet fashion, keeping score.

In practical terms, what this adds up to is a lively chance that in 1976 they will march to the polls, dump a Republican President because of his penchant for simulated activism and decimate a Democratic Congress because of its inability to run a peanut stand.

Readers Tell It As They See It

March 18, I have been asked a number of good questions by some of our concerned citizens relating to the actual need for the full 25 mills. I thought it would be helpful to share these questions and the answers to them, as seen by many of us on the advisory council, with your interested readers:

1. Question: "Why can't we just vote 'Yes' on Proposition 1 (23.00 mills) and vote 'No' on Proposition 2 (1.91 mills) — won't a simple renewal of last year's millage do the job?"

Answer: After extensive review over the past several months of the academic, athletic, and developmental needs of all levels of our school system with our superintendent, our business manager, the school board, and within our own advisory council group, we have concluded that if Proposition 1 passes and Proposition 2 fails:

a. The schools will be able to open and function, but —

b. Without the dollars (approximately $250,000) that would be generated by the approval of Proposition 2, a number of important programs and portions of the curriculum we enjoy today would have to be cut back significantly.

Thus, we believe a renewal of last year's millage will not "do the job" and therefore we urge a "Yes" vote on both Proposition 1 and 2.

2. Question: "How much will my taxes increase if Proposition 2 passes?"

Answer: While of course each person's taxes are different, the average homeowner (with an equalized valuation of $10,000 on his home) would pay about $1.60 a month more — or $19.20 a year. We believe the return on such an investment, both in terms of educational benefits and property values, is more than worth a tax increase of this magnitude.

3. Question: "What kind of a salary increase for the teachers does this year's budget contemplate — many of us in the community have had little or no increase in income this past year."

Answer: Everyone recognizes that our economy has taken a downturn — it has affected all of us. Negotiations with the teachers' bargaining representatives for next year's salaries will begin later this spring. Teacher salaries presently account for about 70 percent of our total school system's budget. What we feel is a realistic, although necessarily indefinite, working figure of a 5 percent salary increase has been included for planning purposes in the 1976-1977 budget.

4. Question: "Just what are the operating cost increases our school system faces next year — aside from any possible teacher salary increases?"

Answer: Some are the same you face in your own household — electric and gas utilities, transportation (gas, oil, bus repair, etc.), life and property insurance premiums, and others. Then there are increased costs for general school building maintenance and necessary school supplies. Additionally, because of a state budget deficit, the Governor ordered that school state aid be reduced and this cost our schools $36,000 in state aid this past year. This amount will have to be generated locally or taken out of the overall program elsewhere.

To maintain our present level of education and help assure a continuation of the curriculum and programs we now enjoy, we urge all qualifying St. Joseph citizens to exercise their right to vote in this important millage election on March 18 and vote "Yes" on both Propositions 1 and 2.

THEIR FAMILY BUDGET SAYS VOTE 'NO'

Editor,

My wife and I did not need a detailed explanation of the higher costs of running our schools, which was hand delivered by each of my five children. My family and others like us are well aware of the increase in the costs of living. And we certainly know that these costs affect the school, too.

Nowhere in this detailed explanation did the schools indicate where they might tighten their belts or "bite Ford's bullet". Yes, we were warned that some things might be cut if we did not vote for the increase in millage. THEY always do! Why wasn't a schedule of budget cutting or economy measures suggested, so we might see how the schools can operate on existing millage? If help is needed, I'm sure there are many mothers of school-age children that can give the St. Joseph School System proper instructions. They have been squeezing their budgets for some time.

Our family budget indicates that we must eliminate some essentials and many luxuries. So we will have to vote "no" on this proposed increase.

THOSE ON SOCIAL SECURITY SHOULD COME FIRST

Editor,

Before Congress considers passing bills to extend medicare coverage to the mass unemployed who have lost their work health coverage they should include medicare to everyone eligible for Social Security benefits not just the elderly and the disabled. In too many cases states do not provide medical assistance to those on Social Security whose total benefits exceed their guidelines, yet their benefits are not high enough to absorb this need, and besides Social Security is an insurance intended for social needs, yet these people get sick, too. Those not covered by medicare on Social Security include dependent children, those on Social Security under 65 who are not disabled and those receiving mother's benefits.

If everyone on Social Security with the exception of those 72 and older are to be restricted on earnings of $2,510 a year without losing benefits then all should get the same total benefits which includes medicare or the earning limit abolished for those not covered with medicare since health funds are needed through earnings. If states are not going to supplement everyone on Social Security with medicaid who is not covered by medicare, who is in medical need, and food stamps are also being withheld from people on Social Security not covered by medicare because states are counting Social Security as income when it is not income as such but an insurance intended for social needs only, then the Social Security program should not be allowed to discriminate by excluding certain Social Security recipients from the medicare benefits when they too are restricted on earnings that do not include earnings high enough to compensate this loss.

Our present laws allow children on Social Security to be deprived of medicaid or medicare, with mothers' earning rights jeopardized by the earning limitations without regard to her need to earn more to support children's medical needs when welfare programs escape any responsibility for assisting them because their eligibility for Social Security benefits.

If welfare programs can make people on it automatically eligible for medicaid, then anyone eligible for Social Security should be eligible for medicare.

Workers are not the only ones who need to be singled out for health benefits. Many on Social Security who have sacrificed their employment rights so the unemployment picture is not bigger than it is also deserve medicare rights. Instead they are given enough Social Security to make them ineligible for welfare supplements which is necessary for medicaid coverage, only to get blacklisted for medical aid as if being on Social Security only were one big crime that deserved the penalty of going without health insurance.

If our children go on Social Security and cannot get supplemented for medical needs under existing welfare programs because of their Social Security income, then they too should rate medicare before extending medicare to the mass unemployed.

WANTS NO PENETRATOR IN ANY FORM

Editor,

I am a resident of St. Joseph and although it seems to make little difference to the Highway Department, I have decided to state my opinion on the downtown penetrator route.

I am against any penetrator route to the downtown area in any form. A new route isn't wanted or needed. We already have several routes open, such as Niles Ave. or the Benton Harbor penetrator. The residents of St. Joseph have a beautiful downtown area now and I greatly doubt if a new access route is put in that the area will be benefited. One only has to travel across the bridge to see at a glance the type of downtown areas present in most cities in this country. It is easy to see the benefit to the downtown area that the Benton Harbor penetrator has given. The pattern is clear and has been repeated countless times: increased traffic to the downtown, homes torn down to make room for parking, an increase in crime (no matter how slight), stores moved to malls for increased parking facilities plus room to enlarge with greater security for themselves and customers. What does this leave downtown — a ghost town or armed camp. If these assumptions sound far fetched, just look at Benton Harbor or any one of other thousands of communities that this has happened to.

What we are seeing is the state bureaucracy shoving something down our throats and we don't have a thing to say about it. A $115,000 "study" (enough money to support 230 people with families collecting unemployment benefits for one year) is being done, but the outcome has already been decided by the state! This "study" is to appease the area residents, giving us the false notion that our voice actually will be a factor in this matter. But how can this be when "they" have already decided for us? What of the millions of dollars that will be spent on this project and the destruction of land it will entail?

This highway project is contradictory; the state wants to raise taxes because of a large deficit, we are told not to drive cars because it is harmful to the economy and environment, yet millions will be spent to build a highway.

It is painfully obvious that we are in the midst of a depression and money should be pumped back into the economy. What we need are projects that will benefit a community and not cause its erosion or destruction. Why not spend money on parks, bikeways, upgrading city streets, or saving what is left of the waterfront. I am sure there are hundreds of more worthwhile projects that this money could be used for.

St. Joseph seems like a town that cares about itself and it is evident everywhere you go. Instead of tearing down old buildings or allowing them to decay, they are reused and made useful again. It is relatively safe to walk the streets and parks. The downtown is nice and has convenient shopping. St. Joseph should be likened to an endangered species and should be protected. The experiments of the past didn't work and communities from Maine to California are crying about the downtown decay. We have a downtown to be proud of, but the state wants to change it! I can think of only a handful of businesses that would be benefited by this penetrator, and if their wishes come before the community, then there is something terribly wrong here. If this is the case, then let's stop letting these special interests run our lives and community. We have a much harder time picking up and leaving when business gets bad or things don't go our way.

I guess what it all boils down to is that I feel we have a good town and we should fight for it. There just aren't many towns like ours anymore. You can always go to another Benton Harbor where apathy reigns supreme and the downtown area is like a ghost town and the outlying parts even worse.

People of St. Joseph — write letters, talk to people. Don't take this decision lying down. Stop the penetrator now before it's too late!

Extortion Case Goes To Jury

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Jurors begin deliberations today in the bribery-extortion trial of former Gov. David Hall after hearing U. S. Dist. Court Judge Fred Daugherty's instructions.

Hall and Dallas financier W. W. "Doc" Taylor are charged with conspiring to bribe Secretary of State John Rogers to use his influence as chairman of the board that administers state retirement funds to swing a $10 million investment to a firm Taylor owns.

Readers Tell It As They See It

March 18, I have been asked a number of good questions by some of our concerned citizens relating to the actual need for the full 25 mills. I thought it would be helpful to share these questions and the answers to them, as seen by many of us on the advisory council, with your interested readers:

1. Question: "Why can't we just vote 'Yes' on Proposition 1 (23.09 mills) and vote 'No' on Proposition 2 (1.91 mills) — won't a simple renewal of last year's millage do the job?"

Answer: After extensive review over the past several months of the academic, athletic, and developmental needs of all levels of our school system with our superintendent, our business manager, the school board, and within our own advisory council group, we have concluded that if Proposition 1 passes and Proposition 2 fails:

a. The schools will be able to open and function, but —

b. Without the dollars (approximately $250,000) that would be generated by the approval of Proposition 2, a number of important programs and portions of the curriculum we enjoy today would have to be cut back significantly.

Thus, we believe a renewal of last year's millage will not "do the job" and therefore we urge a "Yes" vote on both Proposition 1 and 2.

2. Question: "How much will my taxes increase if Proposition 2 passes?"

Answer: While of course each person's taxes are different, the average homeowner (with an equalized valuation of $10,000 on his home) would pay about $1.60 a month more — or $19.20 a year. We believe the return on such an investment, both in terms of educational benefits and property values, is more than worth a tax increase of this magnitude.

3. Question: "What kind of a salary increase for the teachers does this year's budget contemplate — many of us in the community have had little or no increase in income this past year."

Answer: Everyone recognizes that our economy has taken a downturn — it has affected all of us. Negotiations with the teachers' bargaining representatives for next year's salaries will begin later this spring. Teacher salaries presently account for about 70 percent of our total school system's budget. What we feel is a realistic, although necessarily indefinite, working figure of a 5 percent salary increase has been included for planning purposes in the 1976-1977 budget.

4. Question: "Just what are the operating cost increases our school system faces next year — aside from any possible teacher salary increases?"

Answer: Some are the same you face in your own household — electric and gas utilities, transportation (gas, oil, bus repair, etc.), life and property insurance premiums, and others. Then there are increased costs for general school building maintenance and necessary school supplies. Additionally, because of a state budget deficit, the Governor ordered that school state aid be reduced and this cost our schools $36,000 in state aid this past year. This amount will have to be generated locally or taken out of the overall program elsewhere.

To maintain our present level of education and help assure a continuation of the curriculum and programs we now enjoy, we urge all qualifying St. Joseph citizens to exercise their right to vote in this important millage election on March 18 and vote "Yes" on both Propositions 1 and 2.

St. Joseph advisory council

Editor,

My wife and I did not need a detailed explanation of the higher costs of running our schools, which was hand delivered by each of my five children. My family and others like us are well aware of the increase in the costs of living. And we certainly know that these costs affect the school, too.

Nowhere in this detailed explanation did the schools indicate where they might tighten their belts or "bite Ford's bullet". Yes, we were warned that some things might be cut if we did not vote for the increase in millage. THEY always do! Why wasn't a schedule of budget cutting or economy measures suggested, so we might see how the schools can operate on existing millage? If help is needed, I'm sure there are many mothers of school-age children that can give the St. Joseph School System proper instructions. They have been squeezing their budgets for some time.

Our family budget indicates that we must eliminate some essentials and many luxuries. So we will have to vote "no" on this proposed increase.

THOSE ON SOCIAL SECURITY SHOULD COME FIRST

Editor,

Before Congress considers passing bills to extend medicare coverage to the mass unemployed who have lost their work health coverage they should include medicare to everyone eligible for Social Security benefits not just the elderly and the disabled. In too many cases states do not provide medical assistance to those on Social Security whose total benefits exceed their guidelines, yet their benefits are not high enough to absorb this need, and besides Social Security is an insurance intended for social needs, yet these people get sick, too. Those not covered by medicare on Social Security include dependent children, those on Social Security under 65 who are not disabled and those receiving mother's benefits.

If everyone on Social Security with the exception of those 72 and older are to be restricted on earnings of $2,510 a year without losing benefits then all should get the same total benefits which includes medicare or the earning limit abolished for those not covered with medicare since health funds are needed through earnings. If states are not going to supplement everyone on Social Security with medicaid who is not covered by medicare, who is in medical need, and food stamps are also being withheld from people on Social Security not covered by medicare because states are counting Social Security as income when it is not income as such but an insurance intended for social needs only, then the Social Security program should not be allowed to discriminate by excluding certain Social Security recipients from the medicare benefits when they too are restricted on earnings that do not include earnings high enough to compensate this loss.

Our present laws allow children on Social Security to be deprived of medicaid or medicare, with mothers' earning rights jeopardized by the earning limitations without regard to her need to earn more to support children's medical needs when welfare programs escape any responsibility for assisting them because their eligibility for Social Security benefits.

If welfare programs can make people on it automatically eligible for medicaid, then anyone eligible for Social Security should be eligible for medicare.

Workers are not the only ones who need to be singled out for health benefits. Many on Social Security who have sacrificed their employment rights so the unemployment picture is not bigger than it is also deserve medicare rights. Instead they are given enough Social Security to make them ineligible for welfare supplements which is necessary for medicaid coverage, only to get blacklisted for medical aid as if being on Social Security only were one big crime that deserved the penalty of going without health insurance.

If our children go on Social Security and cannot get supplemented for medical needs under existing welfare programs because of their Social Security income, then they too should rate medicare before extending medicare to the mass unemployed.

WANTS NO PENETRATOR IN ANY FORM

Editor,

I am a resident of St. Joseph and although it seems to make little difference to the Highway Department, I have decided to state my opinion on the downtown penetrator route.

I am against any penetrator route to the downtown area in any form. A new route isn't wanted or needed. We already have several routes open, such as Niles Ave. or the Benton Harbor penetrator. The residents of St. Joseph have a beautiful downtown area now and I greatly doubt if a new access route is put in that the area will be benefited. One only has to travel across the bridge to see at a glance the type of downtown areas present in most cities in this country. It is easy to see the benefit to the downtown area that the Benton Harbor penetrator has given. The pattern is clear and has been repeated countless times: increased traffic to the downtown, homes torn down to make room for parking, an increase in crime (no matter how slight), stores moved to malls for increased parking facilities plus room to enlarge with greater security for themselves and customers. What does this leave downtown — a ghost town or armed camp. If these assumptions sound far fetched, just look at Benton Harbor or any one of other thousands of communities that this has happened to.

What we are seeing is the state bureaucracy shoving something down our throats and we don't have a thing to say about it. A $115,000 "study" (enough money to support 230 people with families collecting unemployment benefits for one year) is being done, but the outcome has already been decided by the state! This "study" is to appease the area residents, giving us the false notion that our voice actually will be a factor in this matter. But how can this be when "they" have already decided for us? What of the millions of dollars that will be spent on this project and the destruction of land it will entail?

This highway project is contradictory; the state wants to raise taxes because of a large deficit, we are told not to drive cars because it is harmful to the economy and environment, yet millions will be spent to build a highway.

It is painfully obvious that we are in the midst of a depression and money should be pumped back into the economy. What we need are projects that will benefit a community and not cause its erosion or destruction. Why not spend money on parks, bikeways, upgrading city streets, or saving what is left of the waterfront. I am sure there are hundreds of more worthwhile projects that this money could be used for.

St. Joseph seems like a town that cares about itself and it is evident everywhere you go. Instead of tearing down old buildings or allowing them to decay, they are reused and made useful again. It is relatively safe to walk the streets and parks. The downtown is nice and has convenient shopping. St. Joseph should be likened to an endangered species and should be protected. The experiments of the past didn't work and communities from Maine to California are crying about the downtown decay. We have a downtown to be proud of, but the state wants to change it! I can think of only a handful of businesses that would be benefited by this penetrator, and if their wishes come before the community, then there is something terribly wrong here. If this is the case, then let's stop letting these special interests run our lives and community. We have a much harder time picking up and leaving when business gets bad or things don't go our way.

I guess what it all boils down to is that I feel we have a good town and we should fight for it. There just aren't many towns like ours anymore. You can always go to another Benton Harbor where apathy reigns supreme and the downtown area is like a ghost town and the outlying parts even worse.

People of St. Joseph — write letters, talk to people. Don't take this decision lying down. Stop the penetrator now before it's too late!

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q. My daughter has a child just turned 4 years old who actually has bitten pieces out of her lip and her tongue and even extracted three of her own upper front teeth by wiggling them back and forth until they were loose enough for her to pull out by herself. The child doesn't seem to have any knowledge of pain. Is there such a thing as having teeth or lips that don't have ordinary nerves that cause pain?

A. It seems to me that your granddaughter is one who should be thoroughly examined by a neurologist and perhaps a psychiatrist, rather than have me, a dentist, hazard a guess as to the problem!

While it is true that children sometimes wiggle out their baby teeth before they are really supposed to be out, such instances seldom happen at age four, when the roots of the baby teeth are still pretty long and well embedded in the jaw. At age six it wouldn't be too unusual — but at four it is quite unusual.

Also, the self-injury to the lip and tongue is something to be concerned about.

There is a rare disease called "analgesia congenita" in which there is complete absence of pain perception. It is noticed in early childhood, when a child inflicts injury to himself without showing signs of pain. Because nothing seems to hurt them they may get reckless — cutting their fingers, picking up hot things with their hands, jumping from trees, etc., just to show off!

Patients afflicted with this disease seldom reach an advanced age, partly because of severe injuries or because of serious illness, such as appendicitis which occur painlessly and hence are overlooked or disregarded.

The cause of "analgesia congenita" is not known and the only therapy is the prevention of injury and prompt treatment when injury does occur.

Q. My husband has a condition that is very uncomfortable for him. It seems that just before he sits down to eat a meal at home, he gets a painful swelling in the bottom of his mouth. Usually the swelling goes away after a while, but leaves his mouth quite sore. Have you any suggestions?

A. I suspect your husband has a salivary duct stone in the floor of his mouth. They are similar to gall stones.

A patient with salivary duct stones can often feel them by feeling the floor of his mouth a half inch or an inch inside of the lower front teeth. They may also be detected by an x-ray.

The pain and swelling is caused by the fact that eating or sometimes even the thought or odor of food causes saliva to flow faster. If salivary stones are blocking the salivary duct, the saliva can't drain into the mouth and it backs up in the duct, and into the gland, which is often quite a painful situation.

Although sialolithiasis, as the condition is called, may occur at just about any age, it is most common in middleage adults.

Sometimes small salivary duct stones can be removed by stimulation, that is, massage of the floor of the mouth where the stones may be felt, but it may be necessary to remove them surgically. They seldom recur.

Q. Is it advisable to brush my tongue when I brush my teeth?

A. You should brush your tongue every time you brush your teeth. You will find that your whole mouth will feel cleaner, since you will brush away debris and odor-producing cells and dead tissue.

By all means — brush your tongue every time you brush your teeth!

N. Viet Reserve Moving In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent U.S. intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese army has started moving elements of its home-based strategic reserve toward South Vietnam. Some military analysts describe this as an ominous development, recalling similar enemy movements which preceded the big North Vietnamese offensive three years ago.

Susan Ford Writing For Magazine

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's 17-year-old daughter Susan is writing a regular magazine column giving her views on life in the White House and other issues.

Her column, "White House Diary," will appear in Seventeen magazine and the first piece will appear in the April issue.

The first column is devoted to male chauvinism, her feelings about press invasion of the family's privacy and plans to hold her high school prom at the White House on May 31.

Wrong Window

Sidor, 23, of Caledonia, pleaded guilty to being disorderly by window peeping and was fined $100 and drew a 30-day jail term.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Declines Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today in a continuation of the profit taking that appeared in the final stages of Tuesday's session.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down about two points, and losers took a 3 to 1 lead over gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Instead, they pointed to the market's weak showing Tuesday, which evidently was interpreted by investors as a sign that a long-expected retrenchment after the sharp rally of the last three months might be beginning.

Today's prices included Occidental Petroleum, down ⅛ at 13; GAF, off ¼ at 10; Kerr-McGee, down ¼ at 67, and Pittston, 1¼ lower at 41¾.

Big Board volume hit 31.28 million shares — the sixth largest total this year and the seventh in exchange history.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

The Option Market Carries Some Risk

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. (From a securities broker) I feel you and other responsible financial writers do the investing public a disservice by giving the wrong impression as to the degree of risk involved in writing CBOE or Amex call options against conservative stocks. You have said that market price declines could exceed the amount received for the option. This would alarm me or even the most speculative type investor. Why not point out that with the newly organized option trading you can protect yourself against losses or minimize the effect of the stock's decline by selling the stock, or by selling the stock and buying back the option you sold. Properly used, the writing of call options is one of the safest of investor techniques. Please picture more adequately risk-reward relationships.

This bids fair to become a long-running controversy. Ironically, I, too, think options are an interesting method of adding income for holders of conservative stocks. I think the new trading arena provided by CBOE and the American Stock Exchange are definite pluses and by all means deserve a place in the widening investment spectrum.

What does disturb me is the frequently careless brokerage approach reflected in letters to my desk to the effect that this is a new "sure-fire" system of making profits — even to the extent of "guaranteeing" annual increments of 10, 15, 20 or 40 per cent. That's where I draw a big black line, because I know of no guarantees I can label 100 per cent, except U.S. government guarantees. After that, in my book, it's all up for grabs.

This broker's heart is in the right place, but he refuses to take cognizance of the fact that every holder of 100 shares of A.T.&T. or U.S. Steel or RCA (and other issues on which options are traded) is not a tape watcher, cannot properly evaluate spreads between market and option prices, cannot take into account, 100 per cent, the various benefits of a capital gain offset by a straight operating loss (as on the repurchase of an option at a higher price). Furthermore, while this broker (whose desk is right in the middle of one of the world's financial centers) may devote his days to option trading, the vast majority of brokers are still on the periphery of this newish medium. And, of course, their customers know far less — if anything — about it.

Furthermore, I want to point out that even he softens his argument a bit when he talks of "minimizing market losses" and asks for a better understanding of the "risk-reward" relationship. When you use the word "minimizing" and "risk" you automatically block out a "sure thing."

Finally, I offer the testimony of a reputable broker who stated flatly and publicly that the option market was not for the average small investor. I think that is perhaps going a little too far, but it does lend respectable weight to my cautionary position.

To sum up: I think the option market is a fascinating arena. It can be profitable. It's got to have some degree of risk. It's another interesting financial tool to be used — but first understood. And, at all times, watched steadily by an expert who knows the angles.

HOW'S IT DONE?

Q. We read of the government borrowing money and of creation of money by the Federal Reserve board. How is the money borrowed and repaid? In what manner is money created by the Federal Reserve board?

A. You are asking for a book, and as a matter of fact there are many on the subject. The Federal Reserve Banks have published several booklets which are available without charge from the Federal Reserve Bank nearest you or from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, D.C. 2044 20551. One of these booklets is, "Money: Master or Servant?"

As to your questions: The government borrows money by selling bonds to the public and to banks and to whomever else will buy them. And it repays them when the debt comes due.

The money supply is regulated mainly by the Federal Reserve via its open market bond operations, its control of the rediscount rate, and by setting bank reserve requirements.

Hearing Asked In Shooting

NILES — John Lowery, 21, was arraigned in Fifth district court here yesterday in connection with a case in which a man held police at bay for 90 minutes with a rifle and fired at cars and people from an apartment south of here Monday night.

Lowery was arraigned on two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. He demanded preliminary examination on the charges and was ordered held under $100,000.

Police said the bond was not posted and that Lowery was confined in the Berrien county jail, St. Joseph.

Police said Lowery had been arrested after surrendering at the apartment. No one was hurt in the shooting spree, but police said shots just missed one ambulance driver and at least two police officers who went to investigate.

Suspected Loot Held By Police

NILES — Niles police said today no one has been arrested yet in connection with several hundred dollars worth of goods seized from two homes here Monday night.

The goods, police said, were believed to have been taken in break-ins which occurred in the Niles area over the past three years.

According to officers the goods were seized after officers recieved a tip and obtained search warrants.

Det. Capt. Paul Winquist of the Niles police said a shotgun, stereo, motorcycle parts and two tape players were among goods seized.

Winquist credited the investigative work of three other members of the department in leading to Monday's searches. The three, Det. Sgt. Frank Bickel, and patrolmen Michael Graham and Alan DeLee, obtained information about the items from an informant on Friday and worked throughout the weekend to obtain the search warrants.

Money Mutuals Facing New Test

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A curious thing is happening in the mutual fund industry, and if interest rates continue to fall it may evolve into something deserving of a more descriptive adjective.

Here is the background: Several years ago many thousands of Americans abandoned mutual fund investments, seeming to prefer instead a safer depository for their funds — in banks and bonds, for instance.

This coincided with a decline of the stock market as an outlet for discretionary funds. And since the mutual fund industry was invested almost entirely in stocks, it was believed they couldn't do better than stocks.

But last year the flight from mutual funds slowed. In fact, net sales totaled $1.4 billion, the best sales year since 1970. It wasn't that redemptions didn't continue; they did. The change resulted from a brand-new product.

The new item was the money market fund, which invests in bank certificates of deposits, commercial paper-money lent by one company to another — Treasury bills and the like, all of which pay interest.

Since interest rates hit historic highs, the money market funds, so called because they can be turned into cash quickly, did extremly well. Their sales soared.

Meanwhile, the rest of the industry has been doing poorly. In 1974, sales of growth funds, which are heavily invested in common stocks, fell 40 per cent. Sales of the "growth and income" category, less volatile, fell 26 per cent.

In fact, redemptions in the growth category totaled almost as much as sales. And in the growth and income category, redemptions actually exceeded sales by more than $300 million.

But the money market funds sold more than $2.3 billion of shares, an enormous leap in one year from sales of just $3 million. "Money market funds were clearly the star on the financial stage in 1974," said one fund president.

But now comes the test. Interest rates are falling, and it was high interest rates that almost solely gave the money market funds that big boost. Meanwhile, the stock market seems to have regained some vitality.

So far, redemptions of money market funds have been relatively modest, although rising. But can these funds continue to attract customers?

The test isn't long off, especially if a new investment climate, based on a belief in economic expansion, takes hold. The money market funds depended to a great extent on uncertainty and insecurity in the stock market.

In the meantime, it cannot even be said with certainty that money market funds have been a success or that they are even permanent, despite their extraordinary sales appeal in the past year.

Says C. Herbert Emilson, president of Putnam Fund Distributors and chairman of the Investment Company Institute's marketing committee:

"While it seems reasonable to assume that money market funds will be able to generate an attractive, competitive return over the long run, until their performance is charted through a complete interest rate cycle, their future success is unknown."

The second half of that rate cycle is now under way.

Lawrence Council Studies New Budget

LAWRENCE — A proposed budget of $148,031 for Lawrence village for its 1975-76 fiscal year was unveiled by the village council last night.

The proposed budget, outlined at a public hearing before a regular council meeting, is $12,110 over the last village government budget of $135,921.

Reason for the increase, according to Patton Alburtus, village trustee and finance chairman, is general increase in operating expenses. He added that the proposed budget does not call for pay hikes for the village employes.

Adoption of a budget is expected at next month's council meeting. It will be effective as of March 1, if adopted. Expenditures in the proposed budget include: general fund, $76,715; major streets, $22,230; local streets, $7,100; and water and sewer, $41,986.

Village revenue was anticipated to reach $159,250.

During the regular council meeting, village Clerk Mrs. Joyce Alburtus was instructed by the council to contact the volunteer fire department to burn a house on the Arba Johnson property on South Paw Paw street which the village purchased last year.

The council agreed to send Jess Ridenour, village public works superintendent, to a regional water works association meeting in South Haven on April 10. Registration fee was $6.

The council discussed, but took no action, on a mayor's exchange day with Edwardsburg on May 19.

Canadian Inflation Rate Eases

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP) — Canada's consumer price index rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent in February, a slower rate of increase than a year ago, the government announced today.

Statistics Canada, the government agency, attributed February's rise to a broad range of price increases but said the cost of services rose twice as fast as the price of goods. It noted that food prices moved up at the same rate as the over-all index while food had previously moved upward at a quicker pace.

Zollar Says Bill Would Hit State Farmers With Extra Tax

State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, Benton Harbor, has warned against a bill he said would "dump an estimated $15 million in extra taxes on Michigan farmers, and add directly to food costs."

The bill, identified as Senate Bill Nos. 372 and 373, is an attempt to eliminate the 1933 sales tax exemption on farm equipment, Zollar said. He urged farmers and all other consumers to write their legislators to protest the effort. He stated:

"It's incredible to suggest this idea when Michigan just voted to take the 4 per cent sales tax off food. This would do nothing but slide part of that cut in grocery costs right back in as a hidden food cost increase. Our farmers are certainly in no position to absorb $15 million in new taxes like this.

"I'm opposing this effort, and encourage people in Southwestern Michigan to join me in fighting this bill."

Zollar suggested that people send personal notes (not form letters) to members of the Senate taxation committee, and especially Chairman Gary Corbin, John McCauley, Michael O'Brien, Harry DeMaso, and John Welborn. All can be contacted by addressing a letter to them at: Michigan State Senate, State Capitol, Box 240, Lansing, Michigan, 48902.

"I hope citizens will write these legislators to convince them to give this bill the decent burial it deserves," Zollar stated.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Declines Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today in a continuation of the profit taking that appeared in the final stages of Tuesday's session.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down about two points, and losers took a 3 to 1 lead over gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts found no particular new economic development to account for the decline.

Instead, they pointed to the market's weak showing Tuesday, which evidently was interpreted by investors as a sign that a long-expected retrenchment after the sharp rally of the last three months might be beginning.

Today's prices included Occidental Petroleum, down 1/8 at 13; GAF, off 1/4 at 10; Kerr-McGee, down 1/4 at 67, and Pittston, 1 1/4 lower at 41 3/4.

Losers slightly outnumbered gainers on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index was off .28 at 44.60.

Big Board volume hit 31.28 million shares — the sixth largest total this year and the seventh in exchange history.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

The Option Market Carries Some Risk

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. (From a securities broker) I feel you and other responsible financial writers do the investing public a disservice by giving the wrong impression as to the degree of risk involved in writing CBOE or Amex call options against conservative stocks. You have said that market price declines could exceed the amount received for the option. This would alarm me or even the most speculative type investor. Why not point out that with the newly organized option trading you can protect yourself against losses or minimize the effect of the stock's decline by selling the stock, or by selling the stock and buying back the option you sold. Properly used, the writing of call options is one of the safest of investor techniques. Please picture more adequately risk-reward relationships.

This bids fair to become a long-running controversy. Ironically, I, too, think options are an interesting method of adding income for holders of conservative stocks. I think the new trading arena provided by CBOE and the American Stock Exchange are definite pluses and by all means deserve a place in the widening investment spectrum.

What does disturb me is the frequently careless brokerage approach reflected in letters to my desk to the effect that this is a new "sure-fire" system of making profits — even to the extent of "guaranteeing" annual increments of 10, 15, 20 or 40 per cent. That's where I draw a big black line, because I know of no guarantees I can label 100 per cent, except U.S. government guarantees. After that, in my book, it's all up for grabs.

This broker's heart is in the right place, but he refuses to take cognizance of the fact that every holder of 100 shares of A.T.&T. or U.S. Steel or RCA (and other issues on which options are traded) is not a tape watcher, cannot properly evaluate spreads between market and option prices, cannot take into account, 100 per cent, the various benefits of a capital gain offset by a straight operating loss (as on the repurchase of an option at a higher price). Furthermore, while this broker (whose desk is right in the middle of one of the world's financial centers) may devote his days to option trading, the vast majority of brokers are still on the periphery of this newish medium. And, of course, their customers know far less — if anything — about it.

Furthermore, I want to point out that even he softens his argument a bit when he talks of "minimizing market losses" and asks for a better understanding of the "risk-reward" relationship. When you use the word "minimizing" and "risk" you automatically block out a "sure thing."

Finally, I offer the testimony of a reputable broker who stated flatly and publicly that the option market was not for the average small investor. I think that is perhaps going a little too far, but it does lend respectable weight to my cautionary position.

To sum up: I think the option market is a fascinating arena. It can be profitable. It's got to have some degree of risk. It's another interesting financial tool to be used — but first understood. And, at all times, watched steadily by an expert who knows the angles.

HOW'S IT DONE?

Q. We read of the government borrowing money and of creation of money by the Federal Reserve board. How is the money borrowed and repaid? In what manner is money created by the Federal Reserve board?

A. You are asking for a book, and as a matter of fact there are many on the subject. The Federal Reserve Banks have published several booklets which are available without charge from the Federal Reserve Bank nearest you or from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, D.C. 2044 20551. One of these booklets is, "Money: Master or Servant?"

As to your questions: The government borrows money by selling bonds to the public and to banks and to whomever else will buy them. And it repays them when the debt comes due.

The money supply is regulated mainly by the Federal Reserve via its open market bond operations, its control of the rediscount rate, and by setting bank reserve requirements.

Hearing Asked In Shooting

NILES — John Lowery, 21, was arraigned in Fifth district court here yesterday in connection with a case in which a man held police at bay for 90 minutes with a rifle and fired at cars and people from an apartment south of here Monday night.

Lowery was arraigned on two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. He demanded preliminary examination on the charges and was ordered held under $100,000.

Police said the bond was not posted and that Lowery was confined in the Berrien county jail, St. Joseph.

Police said Lowery had been arrested after surrendering at the apartment. No one was hurt in the shooting spree, but police said shots just missed one ambulance driver and at least two police officers who went to investigate.

Suspected Loot Held By Police

NILES — Niles police said today no one has been arrested yet in connection with several hundred dollars worth of goods seized from two homes here Monday night.

The goods, police said, were believed to have been taken in break-ins which occurred in the Niles area over the past three years.

According to officers the goods were seized after officers recieved a tip and obtained search warrants.

Det. Capt. Paul Winquist of the Niles police said a shotgun, stereo, motorcycle parts and two tape players were among goods seized.

Winquist credited the investigative work of three other members of the department in leading to Monday's searches. The three, Det. Sgt. Frank Bickel, and patrolmen Michael Graham and Alan DeLee, obtained information about the items from an informant on Friday and worked throughout the weekend to obtain the search warrants.

Money Mutuals Facing New Test

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A curious thing is happening in the mutual fund industry, and if interest rates continue to fall it may evolve into something deserving of a more descriptive adjective.

Here is the background: Several years ago many thousands of Americans abandoned mutual fund investments, seeming to prefer instead a safer depository for their funds — in banks and bonds, for instance.

This coincided with a decline of the stock market as an outlet for discretionary funds. And since the mutual fund industry was invested almost entirely in stocks, it was believed they couldn't do better than stocks.

But last year the flight from mutual funds slowed. In fact, net sales totaled $1.4 billion, the best sales year since 1970. It wasn't that redemptions didn't continue; they did. The change resulted from a brand-new product.

The new item was the money market fund, which invests in bank certificates of deposits, commercial paper-money lent by one company to another — Treasury bills and the like, all of which pay interest.

Since interest rates hit historic highs, the money market funds, so called because they can be turned into cash quickly, did extremly well. Their sales soared.

Meanwhile, the rest of the industry has been doing poorly. In 1974, sales of growth funds, which are heavily invested in common stocks, fell 40 per cent. Sales of the "growth and income" category, less volatile, fell 26 per cent.

In fact, redemptions in the growth category totaled almost as much as sales. And in the growth and income category, redemptions actually exceeded sales by more than $300 million.

But the money market funds sold more than $2.3 billion of shares, an enormous leap in one year from sales of just $3 million. "Money market funds were clearly the star on the financial stage in 1974," said one fund president.

But now comes the test. Interest rates are falling, and it was high interest rates that almost solely gave the money market funds that big boost. Meanwhile, the stock market seems to have regained some vitality.

So far, redemptions of money market funds have been relatively modest, although rising. But can these funds continue to attract customers?

The test isn't long off, especially if a new investment climate, based on a belief in economic expansion, takes hold. The money market funds depended to a great extent on uncertainty and insecurity in the stock market.

In the meantime, it cannot even be said with certainty that money market funds have been a success or that they are even permanent, despite their extraordinary sales appeal in the past year.

Says C. Herbert Emilson, president of Putnam Fund Distributors and chairman of the Investment Company Institute's marketing committee:

"While it seems reasonable to assume that money market funds will be able to generate an attractive, competitive return over the long run, until their performance is charted through a complete interest rate cycle, their future success is unknown."

The second half of that rate cycle is now under way.

Lawrence Council Studies New Budget

LAWRENCE — A proposed budget of $148,031 for Lawrence village for its 1975-76 fiscal year was unveiled by the village council last night.

The proposed budget, outlined at a public hearing before a regular council meeting, is $12,110 over the last village government budget of $135,921.

Reason for the increase, according to Patton Alburtus, village trustee and finance chairman, is general increase in operating expenses. He added that the proposed budget does not call for pay hikes for the village employes.

Adoption of a budget is expected at next month's council meeting. It will be effective as of March 1, if adopted. Expenditures in the proposed budget include: general fund, $76,715; major streets, $22,230; local streets, $7,100; and water and sewer, $41,986.

Village revenue was anticipated to reach $159,250.

During the regular council meeting, village Clerk Mrs. Joyce Alburtus was instructed by the council to contact the volunteer fire department to burn a house on the Arba Johnson property on South Paw Paw street which the village purchased last year.

Eugene Carr, village president, reported that samples from the village's sewage treatment plant were being tested by the state health department.

The council agreed to send Jess Ridenour, village public works superintendent, to a regional water works association meeting in South Haven on April 10. Registration fee was $6.

The council discussed, but took no action, on a mayor's exchange day with Edwardsburg on May 19.

Canadian Inflation Rate Eases

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP) — Canada's consumer price index rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent in February, a slower rate of increase than a year ago, the government announced today.

Statistics Canada, the government agency, attributed February's rise to a broad range of price increases but said the cost of services rose twice as fast as the price of goods. It noted that food prices moved up at the same rate as the over-all index while food had previously moved upward at a quicker pace.

Zollar Says Bill Would Hit State Farmers With Extra Tax

State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, Benton Harbor, has warned against a bill he said would "dump an estimated $15 million in extra taxes on Michigan farmers, and add directly to food costs."

The bill, identified as Senate Bill Nos. 372 and 373, is an attempt to eliminate the 1933 sales tax exemption on farm equipment, Zollar said. He urged farmers and all other consumers to write their legislators to protest the effort. He stated:

"It's incredible to suggest this idea when Michigan just voted to take the 4 per cent sales tax off food. This would do nothing but slide part of that cut in grocery costs right back in as a hidden food cost increase. Our farmers are certainly in no position to absorb $15 million in new taxes like this.

"I'm opposing this effort, and encourage people in Southwestern Michigan to join me in fighting this bill."

Zollar suggested that people send personal notes (not form letters) to members of the Senate taxation committee, and especially Chairman Gary Corbin, John McCauley, Michael O'Brien, Harry DeMaso, and John Welborn. All can be contacted by addressing a letter to them at: Michigan State Senate, State Capitol, Box 240, Lansing, Michigan, 48902.

"I hope citizens will write these legislators to convince them to give this bill the decent burial it deserves," Zollar stated.
